PEACE TALK IS GIVEN AT MEET

Miss Mary Findley Speaker Before Members of Y. W. C. A. Board

The force of law, and not the law of force, must become a part of universal consciousness before the world peace movement can become a reality. Miss Mary B. Findley, secretary of the Oregon council for the prevention of war, told the Y. W. C. A. board members yesterday noon in addressing them upon "Cause and Cure of War."

Miss Findley says the peace movement will be successful only through educational legislative measures. Likening the nations of the world to groups who must learn an apartment house technique in the attempt to live close together, she pointed out that now the interdependence of nations is only a fact economically, rather than socially and politically as must come.

No lack of good will, but a lack of understanding of the facts regarding each other has retarded the peace movement, she said.

On the side of legislative problems, or substitution of the "force of law," the council secretary said a successful outcome of the London armament conference, ratification of the Pan-American treaty and adherence to the world court must be realized if the next step in the world peace movement is to meet with success. Particularly must misunderstandings relating to the World Court be cleared.

From the legislative aspect, Miss Findley stressed most the London conference, pointing out that the only way reduction of armaments is to come is to make this conference a success. She pointed out that the United States and England were assuming the conference could separate the navy and army, cutting the former and not the latter in the move for disarmament, but that Italy and France, especially, had armies and navies that were interdependent, and that the two smaller countries believe the cut should be made both ways. England, however, seeks a parity of armed forces and from this angle the United States, which now spends $600 a minute on its 18 battleships, would see this phase of potential war curtailed.

Appointments of committees of the Y. W. C. A. board for the new year were announced as follows: Mrs. W. D. Clark and Mrs. J. A. Brownson, membership; Mrs. William McGilchrist and Mrs. J. H. McNary, house; Mrs. J. H. Lauterman and Dr. Estella Ford Warner, education; Mrs. P. Byrd, health education; Mrs. Rex Sanford and Miss Kitty Graver, finance; Mrs. George Moorehead, Girl Reserve; Mrs. E. T. Barnes and Mrs. L. O. Clement, camp; Mrs. M. L. Meyer, social; Miss Elizabeth Putnam, publicity; Mrs. B. C. Miles and Mrs. B. E. Carrier, religious; Mrs. W. E. Kirk, legislative and nominative committee; executive committee will care for housing.

Reports for the past year's work were given by Mrs. Lauterman of the membership group; Mrs. Clark of the house committee; Mrs. Byrd on health education; Mrs. Sanford on finance; Mrs. Moorehead on Girl Reserve work; and Mrs. Kirk on legislative work.

Four new members were introduced by Mrs. W. D. Clark, were Mrs. J. A. Brownson, Mrs. L. O. Clement, Miss Kitty Graver and Mrs. William McGilchrist.

League of Nations Council Takes up Important Issues

GENEVA, Jan. 14—(AP)—The council of the League of Nations today adopted three measures designed to encourage the cause of world peace and international good will.

The first was a step in executing the assembly's decision to amend the league covenant and bring it into harmony with the spirit and purpose of the Kellogg-Briand pact, which renounces aggression in war.

The second was a summons for an international diplomatic conference on February 17 to consider a custom truce as a move for eliminating barriers to trade.

The third was a decision to name a special commission to determine the rights of Jews and Arabs at the Walling Wall in Jerusalem, which have been sharply contested by the two parties.

The council's action on the amendments to the covenant consisted merely in authorizing the appointment of a committee of eleven members to draft the proposed changes and submit them for consideration to the next assembly.

The discussion offered an opportunity for the pillars of the league to reaffirm their faith in the league's mission and efficacy. Foreign Secretary Henderson of Great Britain, Foreign Minister Briand of France, and Secretary Von Schubert of the German state department, successively expressed the conviction of their governments that the proposed changes in the covenant do not indicate a loss of confidence in the league as an enduring institution and as the best means yet found for propagating the spirit of peace and discouraging the spirit of war.

Their broadside was clearly aimed at critics who have alleged the change in the covenant as evidence of the league's weakness and it was perhaps also aimed at some commentators who consider the holding of the London naval conference, outside the league's auspices, as an indication of this weakness.

Several insurance policies of various values were listed among the items to be divided. Luella M. Charlton, the daughter, was given various insurance policies aggregating $6,000.

A valuable stamp collection, thought to be worth more than $1,000, was willed to Hal D. Patton. The collection was owned jointly by the brothers who started the collection in 1834 while their father was minister to Japan.

Robert Carl Charlton, two and a half year old grandson, will receive magic books and tricks of magic which have been made famous in this locality by Cook Patton.

MECHANICAL MUSIC FOUGHT BY LEAGUE
Formation of the "Music Defense League" to oppose elimination of living music from theatre programs through substitution of exclusively mechanical entertainment will be undertaken by the American Federation of musicians, it has been announced at New York City.

The chief purpose of the league will be to assemble a petition bearing signatures of persons who favor restoration of "real music" in the theatre, according to Joseph N. Weber, president of the federation.

"We plan to put this issue to the test of public opinion," said Mr. Weber. "Our widespread newspaper and magazine advertising campaign has produced results that encourage this step. We know, of course, that a great many theatre patrons preferred real music, but our campaign has brought evidence of surprisingly general support."

"Thousands of music lovers have written to urge that some instrumentally be provided to enable the public to register its demand for music. Therefore the petition. We are not in the least fearful of the outcome of such a test. If we were we would not attempt it."

The petition plan of the musicians is unique in that signatures will be gathered directly by means of newspaper advertising. Coupons or membership blanks will be printed in each advertisement. It is looked upon as an unusual test of advertising power.

MUSIC PUPILS ENTER TOURNEY

Salem Students Prepare for Seventh Annual Event at Forest Grove

A prospectus for the seventh annual intrastate high school music tournament to be held Friday and Saturday, April 25 and 26, at Pacific university, Forest Grove, under supervision of the university conservatory of music, has been received by Lena Belle Tartar, head of music at the senior high school.

Miss Tartar will start shortly to have her students begin practices on the events outlined in anticipation that Salem high will repeat or even better the records made at the tournament in recent years.

Music to be performed in choral ensemble events for class A schools, in which Salem falls, follows:

Mixed chorus: "Come to the Meadows," Franz Schubert, (Chorus of Shepherds from Rosamunde), Oliver Ditson No. 14272. Girls' glee club: "The Snow" (three parts), Edward Edgar, violin Ad. Lib., Novello No. 306. Boys' glee club: "Sons of Men," Cadman, Harold Flammer No. 2038. Boys' quartet: "The Night is Still," Willis Clark, Oliver Ditson No. 8157. Girls' quartet: "Sleep, Little Lady," Mary Turner Salter, Oliver Ditson, No. 11,702.

In the solo events, schools of any of the three classifications may enter students in all numbers provided no high school senior more than one in which first prize was won in a former tournament. Solo events are announced as follows:

Girls' high voice: "Nymphs and Shepherds," Purzell. Girls' medium: "When Two That Love Are Parted," Secchi. Girls' low: "Caro Mio Ben," Giordani. Boys' high voice: "Phyllis," (F), Raymond Earle Mitchell. Boys' medium: "An Old Violin," (F), Howard Fisher. Boys' low: "In the Northland," (C), Clay Smith. Piano: "Prelude and Fugue B. Flat," Bach. Violin one: "De Sohn der Heide," Ker Bela. Violin two: "Serenade," Toselli.

W. Burger.

Funds from the production will be turned to help pay for the remodeling and refurbishing of the community hall.

Foods Served Free—Literature Given

Babies are born with but one want—food. When men grow old, their wants again become few—quiet corners, friendly faces, peace.

But in the years between, men and women are living and developing to the full extent of their powers. Then their wants are legion.

People today are wanting and getting more things that make for complete living than ever before. To these common needs of every one of the advertisements in this newspaper bring invaluable opportunities of satisfaction every day.

It is the function of the advertisements to enable you not only to get what you want—but to get the very best that your money can buy. They help you to decide which automobile, which set of furniture, which radio to buy. They assure you that your wants will be more than met—that they will be wisely and completely satisfied.
