Coast Highway Scene Depicted By Artist Here

There is on display at the Valley Motor company, a painting of the Roosevelt highway, featuring the scene near Humburg mountain. This stretch winding in and out among towering trees and rolling sea, has its setting in a balmy Spring day, when fleecy clouds spatter the landscape with interesting patches of light and shade. The view is an urge for a car and a drive over that stretch of Oregon's virgin playground.

The picture is a three by six foot panel, painted by Remings, commercial artist. His landscapes are better known in Hawaii where he worked before coming to Oregon.

DEATH TAKES WEST SALEM RESIDENT

Mrs. Ida May Chapman, wife of George W. Chapman of West Salem, died about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at a local hospital, where she had been operated upon about two weeks ago. Funeral services will be held Saturday at 1:30 o'clock at the Clough-Taylor chapel, Rev. D. J. Howe officiating. Concluding services are to be held at the Belcrest memorial park. She was 64 years old.

Ida May Byers came to Oregon 38 years ago from Nebraska, settling at Independence where she lived for about three years, when she was married near Monmouth on January 14, 1895 to George W. Chapman. They moved shortly after their marriage to Salem, and lived on a farm two miles west of Salem for 25 years until they moved 10 years ago to West Salem.

Mrs. Chapman was a member of the Neighbors of Woodcraft and the Rebekah lodge in Salem, and also of the First Christian church here.

Besides her husband, she leaves one sister and five brothers: Mrs. Della Woodcock, of Camden, Me.; Ed. Byers, of Salem; J. A. Byers of Independence; William Byers of Union; J. W. Byers of California; and F. P. Byers of Winlock, Wash.

SNOWFALL VARIES IN DEPTH, REPORT

Salem mail carriers brought varying reports of snowfall Wednesday and Thursday upon return from their morning routes, some of which were completed although in a few instances somewhat behind schedule.

John Morris, carrier on route one, reported 18 inches of snow around Zena. On route two, also in Polk county, the carrier had to have assistance in making the pull over the Oak Grove hill, probably the toughest spot on all nine routes.

Around Liberty, on route three, the carrier reported the snowfall lighter than in Salem or on the river route, and carrier for route five said there was only about six inches of snow in the Waldo Hills. Only six inches fell in the Howell Prairie region on route seven. At the Hoppers route, 16 or 17 inches of snow was encountered.

TRAGEDY WAS CLIMAX FOR 72 IN FIRE

First photo to reach this country of the Glen Motion Picture Theatre, in Paisley, Scotland, where seventy-two children were killed and scores more injured in worst tragedy British film industry has ever suffered. Children were either crushed to death or asphyxiated by noxious fumes from burning film in mad rush for liberty when panic struck 2,000 children attending New Year's Eve performance in theatre.

LOCAL PAGEANT IS DESCRIBED IN BOOK

The May Day and health pageant presented here last year is given special mention in a book, "Celebration May Day in 1929" just published by the American Child Health Association, New York. The book contains briefly an outline of work done in the schools all over the country, that from Oregon being written by Mrs. Glendora Bixley, R. N., assistant director of the state board of health.

The paragraph devoted to Salem follows: "Special mention should perhaps be made, however, of the very beautiful pageant put on in Salem under the direction of the health education in the schools. The pageant was called 'The Way to Healthland' and, in a series of eight episodes (with each school responsible for one), the children gave their interpretation of the guides to the Land of Health, such as sunshine, cleanliness and exercise. In the last episode the Honor Roll children, 745 strong, marched to the May Queen's throne and received their health buttons."

Snow 15 Inches Deep at Dallas; Business Curtailed

DALLAS, Jan. 16.—A record breaking snow fall came to Dallas within the past 24 hours, and it has every indication of continuing. From four o'clock Tuesday afternoon until 11 o'clock, it was estimated that a foot of snow fell, and by morning it had reached 15 inches. Wednesday afternoon the snow began to fall again and has all appearances of lasting for some time.

School hours are being curtailed for those children that are able to get through, but few of the school buses have been able to.

Those motorists that have ventured out are finding it a difficult matter to get their cars unscathed out of the beaten path.

Snow Providing Work For Many Men in Salem

The present heavy fall of snow has proven a blessing to several unemployed men according to Captain Earl Williams, of the Salvation Army. "Many of them have secured short jobs of shoveling snow" says the Captain "and have expressed their gratitude for even temporary work."

Williams states that an average of 25 per day are being fed at the Army soup kitchen, 141 State street, most of them being men out in search of work. "And that is what they find when they strike us" the Captain says. "We give them some work to do as a test of their slowness and if they are willing to work we feed them." This extra cold weather is making great inroads on the Army's supply of clothing also, according to the captain.

AUBURN SCHOOL TO HAVE STATE EXAMS

AUBURN, Jan. 16.—A state examination on seventh grade geography will be held at the Auburn school Friday, January 17. Harvey Armstrong underwent an operation for tonsils Tuesday and is reported doing well.

Ross B. Clark's mother from Portland is a visitor at his home this week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Deakins were guests in Auburn this week. They have been in The Dalles for several weeks, caring for Mrs. Deakins' mother, Mrs. N. Foren, who passed away January 1.

Mrs. Foren was past 90 years of age and was an early Oregon pioneer. She passed away on the day of her 75th wedding anniversary.

Winter Wheat Is Not Damaged By Cold Spell

Little or no damage to winter wheat has been occasioned by the cold weather of the last fortnight, according to H. O. White, local feed and grain dealer, who expressed the view this week that the continuous cold had prevented any thawing during the day. Thawing and freezing are the factors which bring damage to the wheat said White. The heavy snow which has recently fallen will protect the grain when the weather moderates, in White's opinion, and will act as a blanket to prevent the wheat from being pulled out of the ground when the thaw sets in.

Mr. White said that despite the late and dry fall, fully 75 per cent of the usual acreage of winter wheat had been sowed this fall. Most of this wheat was up and looked good before the cold weather set in, White declared.

NEW STREET LIGHT WILL BE INSTALLED

The pleasure and the safety of the people enjoying coasting on Lincoln street hill will be enhanced by the installation of a street light at Saginaw and Lincoln streets, the only intersection on the Lincoln street hill that is not now illuminated.

This intersection is at the foot of the steepest part of the hill and there is danger of collisions between coasters and pedestrians, or automobile at this point because of the low amount of illumination.

R. L. Wilkerson, chairman of the street lighting committee of the city council, has advised that his committee will recommend to the council that the city authorize the P. E. P. company to install and maintain a light at that intersection.

As the council will not have an opportunity to act on this matter until its next meeting, and as many people are coasting on Lincoln hill every evening, and there is danger of someone getting hurt until the light is installed, the Portland Electric Power company will trust that the city council will adopt the street lighting committee's recommendation and approve the installation of the light at this intersection.

Birds Declared Greatly in Need Of Assistance

"Feed the birds," Deputy Game Warden Stellmacher gave out this word at Albany Wednesday, urging citizens up and down the valley to help the state game commission in its protection of wild life.

Many birds are wintering in the valley, according to Stellmacher, who said robins especially had chosen Oregon for a winter resort. The heavy snows of the last two days have thrown the birds out of food and sympathetic treatment from citizens will be needed, he said, to prevent thousands of the feathered visitors from starvation.

Stellmacher pointed out that ordinarily these birds feed on insects and thus help man in his fight against the latter.

MANAGE YOUR MONEY — DON'T LET IT MANAGE YOU

Wouldn't Thrift Save A Quarter of Your Income?

Thrift has been well defined as wise spending—not hoarding and deprivation of comforts and luxuries. Wise spending eliminates waste, thereby leaving more money for your vacation, for Christmas, for comforts at home and travel abroad. It means saving for the things you really need—then buying them. It means managing your money instead of letting your money manage you. It's not only wise to be thrifty, it's sane and sensible to be thrifty.

This is National Thrift Week, beginning January 17th, the 224th anniversary of Benjamin Franklin's birthday. From the Great Lakes to the Gulf, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, Americans are celebrating Thrift Week. Join this movement for a successful and happy life.
