Formation Important Committee Presents Vexing Issue at Session

Dino Grandi in rapid succession on this matter.

So complex are the political issues involved in naval disarmament that Mr. MacDonald faces obstacles even in establishing a committee of delegates. The British dominions would desire representation on such a committee and appointment of one delegate from each unit of the empire would mean seven British representatives on this important body. If only one empire delegate was named the division was not represented would likely be displeased.

On the other hand, the prime minister has been quick to realize the likelihood of reaction on foreign public opinion if there were seven or eight British members of the committee. Tonight he was considering a plan of establishing just a committee of the plain "garden variety" of experts there are on any committee.

Yank Delegation Plans to Sit Back

The intention of the American delegation tonight was not to play a particularly prominent role at the meeting tomorrow, but to follow the plan of Mr. Stimson to pass around among the American chief delegates the leadership or conduct of the delegation.

Ambassador Grandi has been assigned to the task tomorrow and he may make a speech. The ambassador to Belgium has for years had an active part in representing America at European discussions of the problems of peace and armaments.

The program of the meeting, as indicated by today's events, will be featured by exposition of the Franco-American compromise between total tonnage and category theories of measurement of fleet strengths.

Mr. MacDonald and A. V. Alexander, first lord of admiralty, will speak for Great Britain and Premier Andre Tardieu for France.

Nanuk yesterday. One of the planes returned to the scene of the wreck to obtain a report for the Soviet government. It was reported from Moscow that the wreck might have been that of a Soviet plane lost several years ago.

Pilots Joe Crosson and Harold Gilliam, who discovered the wrecked plane Saturday on a flight from the Nanuk, positively identified the ship as Eielson's plane. Gilliam returned to the scene of the tragedy in the Russian plane, guiding the Soviet flier to the location.

Dog Teams Make Way Toward Wreck

Fourteen dog teams, which had been sent out by the Soviet government to search for Eielson and Borland, arrived at Kolluchin Bay, some distance east of the wreck, and were instructed there for the first time that the plane had been found.

Alfred Lomen, director of relief operations, radioed a request from here today that the four American planes in Siberia now piloted by Crosson, Gilliam, Pat Reid and Ed Young, all return when the bodies are brought back and that they circle over the Nome courthouse which will be a signal of the fire siren to blow, notifying townspeople of the arrival of the funeral squadron.

MANY DEFENDANTS ADMIT BOOTLEGGING

Oklahoma City, Jan. 29

(AP)—Less than one third of the 192 defendants indicted on a charge of conspiring to violate the federal prohibition laws by widespread liquor dealing activities in the oil field of Pottawatomie county, will stand trial in United States district court.

Selection of a jury for the trial started today. Twenty-five defendants pleaded guilty during the day and the sentences were deferred until February 15.

Thirty-two defendants, including Randall Pitman, county attorney of Pottawatomie county, and Frank Fox, former sheriff, announced they were ready for trial. Roy St. Lewis, United States district attorney announced that W. C. Clapper, a defendant who had been a fugitive from justice since his release from Pottawatomie jail at Tecumseh, had been arrested at Springfield, Mo., and would be returned here for trial.

Of the remaining forty-four defendants, it was said five are dead and the others fugitives from justice.

BRINGING ELECTRICITY TO HOLY LAND

While Jordan River rolls on, it will be bringing power, light and prosperity to the people of Palestine. After many years of planning, the ambitious project of the Russian engineer, Rutenberg is at last to become reality, and the Holy Land will be the scene of one of the largest electrical enterprises in Europe.

Since the Palestine mandate became effective the Holy Land has seen steady influx of population. And modern methods in working and living are fast superseding primitive conditions in even the smallest settlements. And so the hum of the dynamo is to sound its note of progress, and Jerusalem to bask in the glow of the arc lamp.

The turbulent waters of the Jordan, which at some points falls 100 feet, are to be utilized, and in addition to the harnessing of this power, 25 foot dams are to be erected in this river and the Jeramuk River just above the confluence of the two streams. A lake 750 feet wide and 6 miles long is to be built in order to hold the water necessary to generate the water power. After three giant turbines have done their work, the water will be turned back to the rivers. It is estimated that there will be an excess current of 6,000 volts, and this power will be transformed to high tension and be then conveyed to the principal transportation stations. From this point, the power will be conveyed to Haifa and the settlement of Tel-Aviv, the all-Jewish city.

It is expected that the Rutenberg project will bring much prosperity to Jerusalem and plans are being made for factories and plants on an ambitious scale all calculated to bring the Holy Land in line with progress and modern achievement. Work is being rushed and it is hoped to complete the various units by the Spring.

COLUMBIA GORGE AIRWAY IS OPENED

Portland, Ore., Jan. 29

(AP)—G. R. Fitzgerald, former Varney air lines pilot, today took over supervision of developing the Columbia Gorge airway between this city, Pasco and Spokane, Wash. He succeeded S. S. Boggs, who has been in charge of the work for the past 18 months and recently was promoted to the office of department of commerce airways engineer in the Fort Worth, Texas, district.

Fitzgerald said the work of installing beacon lights on the gorge route will be continued as soon as the weather permits. The project probably will not be completed until next fall, he declared.

The new airways supervisor joined the air mail ranks four months ago. Previously he was in the department of commerce airways service.

CHICAGO EMPLOYEES NOT GIVEN MONEY

Chicago, Jan. 29

(AP)—What was to have been pay day for several thousand county employees turned out to be just another Wednesday. County officials, after planning to meet two postponed payrolls by issuing tax anticipation warrants in small amounts, decided they should wait until the civic rescue committee determined definitely what, if anything, it could do toward pulling the city and county governments back from the brink of bankruptcy.

Silas Strawn, chairman of the rescue group, returned from Washington, but spent most of the day finding out what had happened during his absence. Although it previously had been said that his committee had pledged $20,000,000 for purchasing tax warrants, Strawn declined to comment on what progress his group had made.

TARIFF BACKS HAT MAKERS

Straw Headgear From Italy Feared as Competition In United States

By D. HAROLD OLIVER Associated Press Staff Writer WASHINGTON, Jan. 29

(AP)—With an eye to spring and possible growing importations from Italy, the senate turned back four attempts today to slash the increased duties carried in the pending tariff bill on straw hats, but deferred until tomorrow a decision as to what rates should be approved.

A combination of eastern democrats and republican regulars voted down to defeat in rapid succession amendments offered by Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, a democratic member of the finance committee, to cut materially the bill rates and in some instances to go below existing law.

The rate on braids used in the manufacture of hats, if containing a substantial part of rayon, was raised from 15 per cent on the plain and 20 per cent on dyed, as at present, to 45 per cent. This was a compromise suggested by Chairman Smoot, of the finance committee in place of the committee's original proposal for a rate of 80 per cent on braids containing any rayon, however small.

The first amendment offered by Barkley, which was defeated by 39 to 36, would have substituted a rate of 60 per cent on unadorned hats for the 44 a dozen and 50 per cent carried in the pending and house bills. The present rate is 50 per cent.

Barkley attempted to compromise on this item by proposing that the 60 per cent duty apply only to unadorned hats valued at $8 or less a dozen, but this was rejected by a single vote, 39 to 38. This would have left the higher rate on the costlier headgear.

A third proposal to cut the bill duty on sewed straws from 44 a dozen and 60 per cent to 70 per cent, as against an existing levy of 60 per cent, lost by 40 to 36. Another amendment to allow the higher bill rate to stand on the higher priced types and to leave the duty at 60 per cent on those worth $8 or less a dozen was defeated 40 to 37.

When the senate recessed for the day, a fifth amendment by the Kentuckian to make the rate on sewed straws 88 per cent, the same as fixed by presidential proclamation several years ago, was pending.

CORPORATION HEAD IS KING SUPPORTER

Washington, Jan. 29

(AP)—Confirmation of reports that he had made two contributions of $1,000 each to the 1922 and 1923 campaign funds of Senator King, the Colfax city, Utah, was given to the senate lobby committee today by Herman A. Metz, president of the General Dyeutists corporation of New York.

He testified the 1923 check had been mailed to Senator King but had not been used, and that the 1922 contribution was given to Samuel Russell, then secretary to the senator.

King has said to newspapermen that the 1923 check was destroyed because he would not accept campaign contributions from his friends, and added that he had heard of the contribution from Metz in 1922.

Russell, questioned by the lobby committee last Thursday, said he received $1,000 from Metz in 1922, in two installments of $500 each and sent the money to Samuel A. King, brother of the senator and his campaign manager in Salt Lake City. He said he had told the senator that Metz "was going to contribute this money."

Senator King is a member of the finance committee, which handles tariff legislation.

Metz denied at the hearing today that his opposition to the American valuation plan in the pending tariff bill was prompted by German dye interests. He said they did not "care a continental cuss" whether American or foreign valuation were adopted.

Tomorrow the committee plans to begin an investigation into the Silk Association of America and the National Association of Wool Manufacturers.

DRIVE ON AGAINST BOOTLEGGING FOLK

Portland, Ore., Jan. 29

(AP)—A determined effort to break up alleged bootlegging activities in the little railroad camp of Bly, near Klamath Falls, is expected to open in federal court here tomorrow when four proprietors of asserted Bly speakeasies will be given an opportunity to plead before Judge John McNary.

Although state and Klamath county enforcement officers have invaded Bly on numerous occasions, so far have taken no prominent citizens, so to speak, back to Klamath Falls to face bootlegging charges, the federal government had not made a wide spread raid in the town until January 7, when seven alleged offenders were arrested.

At that time the prisoners were taken to Klamath Falls, tried on state charges and subsequently fined. But when the federal grand jury met last week, secret indictments were returned against the seven persons now in custody.

Four of the seven were brought to this city today for arraignment.

ROAD FUND BOOST PASSED IN SENATE

Oregon Highways to Be Much Benefited if Bill Becomes Law

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29

(AP)—The senate today passed the Elliott bill to increase the federal road aid expenditures from $75,000,000 annually to $125,000,000 for the next three years.

The measure, however, was returned to the house for concurrence in an amendment to increase the limitation of payments which the secretary of agriculture may make to the states to states to $25,000,000, exclusive of the cost of bridges of more than 20 feet clear span.

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 29—(AP)—In the event the Dewart bill, which passed the senate today in amended form, is approved by the house and signed by President Hoover, the state of Oregon will benefit to the extent of $794,000, while an additional $716,000 in federal aid would be made available to the state should the Dewart bill, authorizing appropriations for constructing roads through public domain in the western states, pass the senate and the house.

These figures were released here tonight by Dr. E. B. McDaniels, president of the Oregon State Motor association and a member of the national good roads committee of the American Automobile association, who has been in close touch with the progress of the two measures through congress.

The state highway committee, through H. B. Van Duser, chairman, has stated it will meet any additional money made available by congress by issuing bonds for a like amount," Dr. McDaniels said. "If these two bills are put through, it will mean that in the neighborhood of $3,020,000 will be spent on roads in Oregon.

"This is the first of four major appropriation measures bearing on Oregon that have been brought to congress through President Hoover's declaration for increased public works in the present economic emergency," Dr. McDaniels said.
