Strange are the requests that come to a city school superinten-

For instance, some patron of the Salem school district, writing anonymously, evidently knows Superintendent George W. Hug's interests in health work and education. For the patron has asked that, in the name of health, a shed be built over the bicycle stand at Parrish junior high. Here's the letter verbatim:

"Supt. Hug: I am asking you Parish high. Do you realize it takes money to by a wheel for children to ride where it is so far to go and have to sit on the seat soaked with water; is that health to the child and what is the wheel going to be a reck? Do you want wishes of the bondholders, was to pay the expence of getting the eight-tenths of a mile between the with the trustee bank to liquidate dicine to keep the children from exposier by allowing their wheels Pacific highway at Capitol and to go to rack when we parents are taxed to death for all the red tape that goes on and there is no real accomidations for children?"

"Now I kindly ask you to get busy amediately and see that there is accomidations fixed for the bycycles and for the health of the children see the board. There is a lot of men would be glad to have a day's work and it wouldn't cost but a very little sion until Saturday. Extension of South Twelfth Street to State Route Planned Shortly

Preliminary surveys on the extension of South 12th street which leads to the Pacific highway about a mile and one-half south of the city limits were being made yesterday by Market Road Engineer Scott, County Engineer Swart and Assistant Readmaster McGee, Following this preliminary survey. the county will begin work in earnest and it is expected that the road will be completed by fall. Within two years, when all grades have settled, the road will probably be paved, Engineer Swart has The road as it is being planned by the state highway department, will take a newer routing than that which was made and dropped last year because of right-of-way difficulties. The new route will evade the property of some of the objectors to the road last year and will go almost directly to the point of intersection with the Pacific highway, a distance of approximately one and nine-tenths

State highway officials consider the road of great importance as it will furnish a new cutoff from the south and will afford a direct route through to Portland. Heavy truck travel as well as through tourist travel can be sent through the city by way of South 12th street, thereby avoiding the downtown business section.

It has been pointed out that by traveling on 12th street from the south there is a saving of point of intersection with the south Pacific highway and the Court streets.
