Federal Officers Take Mike Relich After Being Released Once

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 12—(AP)—Officials and business men today launched an investigation with the arrest of Mike Relich by federal officials shortly after he was alleged to have been released by police after being sentenced to six months in jail and fined $100.

Among those approached on the question were Chief of Police L. V. Jenkins, Municipal Judge H. M. Tomlinson, Barnett H. Goldstein, attorney for Relich; and Fred Gifford, business man who was said to have been asked by friends of Relich to intercede in his behalf following his arrest by police in December.

Chief Jenkins declared he had approved the release of Relich "for a few days," to permit him to raise money with which to pay his fine.

Goldstein declared he represented Relich in municipal court and interceded for leniency.

Judge Tomlinson denied he had said he might reduce Relich's sentence if the fine had been paid. He declared he had nothing to do with Relich's release.

Chief Jenkins said Goldstein and Gifford, who conducts a licensed detective agency, approached him with a request that the fine be cut down. The chief said he told them he had nothing to do with that. He declared the two men asked Relich's release for a few days to "rustle" his fine. He said he told them this would be "OK" with him if the judge agreed.

The chief declared the two men left, and Gifford later returned with word that the judge had agreed to the proposal. With that, the chief said, he ordered Relich's release.

Relich, when arrested by federal agents today, was said to have had a new still in his possession.

NEWSPAPERMEN GO ON FISHING JAUNT

LONG KEY, Fla., Feb. 12—(AP)—President Hoover today gave newspapermen accompanying his party a lesson in deep sea fishing.

The chief executive departed from his precedent of taking only a few close friends with him on his angling tours and filled one of the smaller boats of the party with writers for an afternoon of fishing in the Atlantic Ocean with him. The boat left the Long Key dock shortly after the chief executive finished his luncheon, and remained in the prolific fishing banks near here until late in the day.

The expedition brought the president to the Long Key dock for the time since his arrival Monday morning on a seven day vacation trip. At other times, he has gone directly from the houseboat Saunterer, where he and Mrs. Hoover are staying, to the scenes of his angling activity, and has returned to the houseboat at the conclusion of the day's sport.

Mr. Hoover, deeply burned by the blazing sun yesterday, appeared rested as he stopped at the dock today. Until this morning, when he looked over the first batch of mail to come to him since he left Washington, the chief executive has put cares of office almost completely behind him in favor of rest and recreation among the Florida keys.

Members of the party, including one of the president's secretaries, Lawrence Richey, and Captain Allen Buchanan, his naval aide, have, however, kept in touch with the White House officials by telephone daily since the arrival Monday.

Mr. Hoover's course today lay in the grounds where he caught a sail fish Monday afternoon. His observations have been that the sail fish do not begin to strike here until late afternoon, and this, as well as the mail from Washington was believed to have delayed his start until afternoon.

ARIZONA WOMAN TO HANG ON GALLOWS

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 12—(AP)—Death on the gallows seemed inevitable today for Mrs. Evan Dugan, 52-year old housekeeper, as a result of the denial by the state board of pardons and paroles of her appeal for clemency.

February 21 has been set for her death by hanging at the Arizona state prison in Florence for the murder three years ago of her employer, A. J. Mathis, aged recluse of Tucson. No woman has yet been legally executed in Arizona.

Appended at the last moment to the woman's appeal was a brief letter which she received at the prison yesterday from a person who signed the single name of "Jack," absolving her of all blame.

The writer claimed that she "had nothing to do with it" and that he "had to hit old man Mathis" when he came "at me with a knife and would have killed me if I had not struck him." The writer said he was attempting to gather "some more evidence."

No cognizance of the claim was taken by the board, who pointed out that Mrs. Dugan had received similar letters in the past and that investigation of the missives had produced nothing to mitigate the evidence against her.

The murder charges grew out of Mathis' disappearance from his ranch in January, 1927, friends, inquiring for him, were told by Mrs. Dugan and a youth named "Jack" who was employed by Mathis, that he had gone to California. Several weeks afterward,

HUGHES VOTE SLATED TODAY

Confirmation of Jurist Delayed as Opposition in Senate Grows

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON Associated Press Staff Writer WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—(AP)—Claiming additional votes every hour, senators opposing Charles Evans Hughes' nomination to be chief justice waged an all day attack upon his confirmation today which began to produce speculation tonight over the final outcome.

Western republican independents who opened the surprise assault on Hughes in the senate were joined today by some democrats in debate. Further severe denunciation of the economic views of the former supreme court jurist and former presidential candidate was made.

Unsuccessful in an effort for a night session to force a final vote, Senator Watson of Indiana, the republican leader, gave notice he would keep the senate in session tomorrow until a vote is obtained and added that he had the votes to do it.

Various Opponents Much Encouraged

Opponents of Hughes were obviously encouraged after a day of informal conferences on the floor. Senator Borah, Idaho, and Norris, Nebraska, leaders of the fight against him, announced they would be ready for a vote by tomorrow night. They are making no public claims but the foes of Hughes believe there are from 25 to 30 votes against him.

No one predicted rejection of Hughes' nomination but with the tide obviously turning against him during the debate today, republican leaders conceded there might be 22 votes against confirmation.

Senator Glenn, republican, Illinois, alone went out to champion Hughes during the day of a blunt discussion of the supreme court and of a nominee as has been heard in the senate in many years.

High Court Itself Roundly Criticized

Senator Dill, democrat, Washington, opened the assault, contending the attitude of Hughes was "dangerous to the common people" and condemning the views of the supreme court itself in utility valuation decisions.

Senators Brookhart, republican, Iowa; Connally, democrat, Texas; Wheeler, democrat, Montaña; and Blaine, republican, Wisconsin, joined in the appeal for defeat of Hughes' nomination.

Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, announced in the midst of the fight that he would vote for confirmation of Mr. Hughes. He said he would not "prejudice my future course by withholding my vote for confirmation."

Senator Bratton, democrat, New Mexico, objected to an agreement that the senate should vote tomorrow before adjournment but Senators Borah and Norris both expressed the view in response to Senator Watson's proposal that a vote could be taken by tomorrow night.

Norris Gets Peered at Extra Session Idea

There was a movement among the republican ranks to force a session tonight but Senator Watson, after demanding such a course, yielded when democrats favorable to the Hughes nomination objected and after Senator Norris warned that it would "endanger a bad spirit" in the senate.

Senator Dill was among the most outspoken in the day of debate, which was marked by almost constant informal conferences among doubtful members on the floor. The confirmation of Hughes has been conceded and the surprise attack apparently stunned many in the senate.

"Here is a man who was decisively defeated by the American people for president because of his economic views," said Dill. "Is the will of the people not to be considered at all?"

"I intend by this vote to do what I can to put a stop to what I believe is one of the greatest dangers to this country, the placing of men on the supreme court who will permit the picking of packages of the common people by the great corporations."

BERLIN, Feb. 12—(AP)—Foreign Minister Julius Curtius and Alfred Hugenberg, nationalist leader, today fought out the first round of the parliamentary battle for the approval of the Young reparations plan and legislation connected with it. Leaders of the government parties secured Herr Curtius, and the Fascists and the Communists joined the nationalist leader in opposition.

Curtius admitted that the German delegation had returned from the Hague conference in no spirits of elation. He added that the only thing for the government to decide was whether the bills before the Reichstag constituted an improvement over the Dawes plan.

He said the government had unanimously decided that the Young plan was a real improvement over the Dawes plan.

HUGE BOMB WRECKS BUILDING IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Feb. 12—(AP)—The north side was shaken shortly before last midnight by a terrific explosion which was at first described as a boiler blast but which battalion Fire Chief Frank Brabant early today believed was due to a huge bomb.

The result of a two story building occupied by the Northwestern Laundry, where the explosion occurred was wrecked.

The busy neighborhood around Lincoln avenue and Diversy boulevard was thrown into excitement, with conductors reporting panic among passengers on street cars two blocks from the scene of the explosion.

A dozen trucks parked behind the laundry building were demolished and automobiles parked for a block down the street were damaged. The estimated loss was $50,000. The battalion chief found that the boiler had not burst, that the fires had been banked and that there was little likelihood that such an explosion could have occurred except by bomb.

The Rogers park and Edgewater districts, many miles to the north, felt and heard the explosion.

Two police stations in the northwestern section were thoroughly shaken, and patients in the Chicago General hospital six blocks away were alarmed.
