Mrs. G. W. Thompson Appointed by Washington, D. C. Headquarters

PRATUM, Feb. 20.—An unexpected but probably well deserved announcement has come from Washington D. C. that Mrs. G. H. Thompson has been appointed in that city to serve as chairman of "Better Homes in America" for this community.

President Hoover is honorary chairman, R. L. Wilbur president and James Ford, executive director for the national organization.

The better homes program includes, lectures, demonstrations, contests, the building and furnishing of a model home or refurbishing a home to show good taste combined with economy or reconditioning an old dilapidated house to make it comfortable and convenient with made over furniture.

All these buildings and furnishings to become object lessons for the community to help people to take more pride in their homes and surroundings.

Of course it is not expected that Mrs. Thompson will carry out the whole program at once. Since she is very much interested in shrubbery she will probably promote that part of the program first, followed by a campaign encouraging folks to paint their buildings before she will proceed in building demonstrations.
