

COURSE GIVEN SECRETARIES

University of Oregon Offers Studies for Chamber of Commerce Folk

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Feb. 27 — The relation of service clubs to commercial organizations, and problems of all types will be thoroughly studied by officials of chambers of commerce of Oregon at the annual short course for chamber of commerce secretaries to be held at the University of Oregon, March 24 to 28.

Operation of the federal farm board, foreign trade and many other topics of vital interest to Oregon will be discussed at the short course. Begun several years ago by the school of business administration, under the direction of Dean David E. Paville, it has developed rapidly in interest and size of attendance.

It is expected that Salem officials, if they attend the conference, will return with many new ideas for promoting community projects, and with a comprehensive view of what other commercial organizations of the state are doing.

Kenil Shumacher, Hood River, president of the state association, has added in preparing the program, which is believed to be one of the best since the conference was first started. A silver loving cup, awarded by Christy Thomas, manager of the Seattle chamber, will be given to the secretary who returns in the best paper on "Chamber of Commerce Organization."

Of unusual interest this year is the fact that A. S. Dudley, secretary of the Sacramento chamber of commerce and president of the National Association of Chamber of Commerce Secretaries will be president, and will give a talk each day, while Leonard Read, assistant manager of the Western Division of the United States chamber of commerce, will also address the meeting.

COME INTO THE KITCHEN

By ELLA M. LEHR

"COOKIES" How I wish that I were a kid again, Just 's'comin' home from school— A carefree whistle on unlearned lips, Quite free from rod and rule.

I knew as I cleared the green ol' hedge—For me the ol' dog Snook, There'd be a treat waiting with in—A Big brown Ginger Cookie—

Or two or three—for there always stood, There on the pantry shelf, —A cookey jar brim full of good things—Made by Mother herself.

No sending to the baker's for a sackful of cakes, In the days when I was a boy—ful of cakes, In the days when I was a boy—

Ah—sniffing the smell of the ginger cake, Is lost with my boyhood joy!

Lunch boxes to fill, luncheon, dinner, "munching," the unexpected guests—oh what a trusty friend is a cookey jar—filled of course.

Cookies are easy to make, keep well, and somehow just hit the spot! There are all shapes and varieties. Drop cookies are perhaps the easiest to make, sliced cookies—the roll you stow away in the refrigerator or cooler until morning and slice down to bake, rolled cookies, cookies baked in a sheet and cut in squares, and little cakes in muffin tins—all are popular forms of the honey-sweet morsel.

Cookie sheets or pans with low edges produce the best results. It is better to bake one sheet of cookies at a time. Do not be continually looking at them, for you lose, oven heat in that way.

Always allow cookies to cook before putting them away. Store in jar or tin with light-fitting lid.

Ginger Cookies 1 cup molasses 2 1/2 cups sifted bread flour 1/2 cup shortening 1/2 cup brown sugar 1 tablespoon soda 1 tablespoon ginger 2 tablespoons warm milk 1 teaspoon salt

Heat molasses to boiling point, add shortening, ginger, soda dissolved in warm milk, salt and flour. Chill thoroughly. Roll as thinly as possible—on floured board. Cut and bake in moderate oven—for 10 to 12 minutes. Cloves and cinnamon may be added to the mixture. If you have sour cream you can make delicious Sour Cream Cookies

Cream together 1/2 cup shortening 1/2 cup brown sugar. Add 1/2 cup molasses 2 well beaten eggs 1/2 cup sour cream—mixed with 1 tablespoon soda (level) 1 teaspoon salt 1/2 tablespoon of more ginger and flour to make a soft dough.

Chill. Roll to 1/4 inch in thickness. Shape with cutter, bake on buttered sheet in 375 degrees oven about 10 minutes. (Warning: Molasses mixtures burn easily.)

Unusual Oatmeal Cookies Cream well 1 cup sugar 1/2 cup butter 1-3 cup fat. Add alternately 1 cup raisins 5 tablespoons raisin juice (boil raisins 3 minutes in a little water).

Beat well and add 2 eggs—add 2 cups oatmeal

CONSTITUTIONALITY OF STATUTE TESTED

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Suit to test the constitutionality of the state law prohibiting the transportation of salmon through closed district was filed in superior court here today by Charles F. Noback, Herman Lux and John Hendrickson, representing a group of salmon fishermen.

It is the contention of the fishermen that salmon caught outside the three-mile limit should not fall under the jurisdiction of the state fish and game laws.

It is pointed out in the complaint that fish caught beyond the three-mile limit at present must be sent to Oregon by water and then reshipped to San Francisco by truck.

State fish and game officers claim the law assailed by the fishermen provides the only means for the protection of the fish. A similar action filed by Eureka fishermen last year, is pending before the state supreme court.

MURDER CONFESSED BY INMATE OF PEN

SPOKANE, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Lawrence Albert, Spokane county identification officer said tonight that Jacob Bangart, 24-year-old inmate of the Montana state penitentiary at Deer Lodge had signed a confession involving him in the murder here of John Ivester, railway express agency cashier, and Edward Anderson, service station operator, and a series of robberies.

Albert said that Bangart's confession stated that he participated in the murders and the robberies, but that George Miller, county inmate of the Montana state penitentiary at Deer Lodge had signed a confession involving him in the murder here of John Ivester, railway express agency cashier, and Edward Anderson, service station operator, and a series of robberies.

Albert, an authority on ballistics, said that he traced the purchase of bullets found in Ivester's body to Miller, and came upon Bangart as an associate of Miller.

Sheriff Floyd Brower and Deputy Albert confronted Bangart in prison with their evidence, they said, and his written confession was forthcoming.

Wagstoff, foreman, gave his life trying to save others from a similar death.

CONSOLIDATION OF RAILROADS FOUGHT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Notice of a contest against consolidation of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads, conditionally approved by the interstate commerce commission, was given in the senate today by Senator Dill, democrat, Washington.

The Washington senator said he was ready to offer a resolution seeking to block the merger, and support in his drive was promised from others from the northwest state.

Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, previously had condemned this consolidation—a part of the railroad consolidation scheme announced some time ago. Holding that the two roads are competitors and that a merger would be "dangerous," Dill said the interstate commerce commission had "gone far beyond any permissible action in the public interest."

In approving the unifications of the two roads on the condition that they divest themselves of ownership of the Burlington.

"If these roads combine, he argued, there can be but one result—a cutting down of train service, dropping of employes and the moving of many employes to other communities. The whole railroad situation in the northwestern states would be upset."

INVESTIGATORS NOT FOR HOOVER'S PLAN

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 27.—(AP)—The sub-committee report expressing strong preference that the federal government set up the necessary administrative machinery to maintain, regulate and subject to utilization for grants purposes the public lands of Oregon was adopted with scarcely an amendment today by the general committee appointed by Governor A. W. Norblad to obtain a consensus of opinion in Oregon on President Hoover's proposal concerning surface rights of unreserved and unappropriated public lands.

The committee met in the club room of the chamber of commerce, with R. C. Callvert, chairman of the committee and of the sub-committee, presiding. The report will be passed on to E. C. Van Petten, of Ontario, Oregon's representative on President Hoover's committee for study of public lands. The sub-committee formulated its report at a meeting in Portland on February 10 and 11, after consultations with members of the field division of the general land office and a representative of the state board of higher education.

Western states with known petroleum resources will request that any grant of public lands to the states include sub surface rights, the report brought out. Since Oregon has no such resources and since royalties that accrue in other states from this source are placed in the reclamation fund of which Oregon is a large beneficiary, Oregon would suffer a reduced reclamation fund.

WARSAW.—(AP)—The body of a giant rhinoceros 100,000 years old was found at a depth of several hundred feet in an eastern Galicia oil field. The hide and hair were almost intact. Geologists believe the beast drowned in a bog.
