

"SHEIK'S WIFE"

BY WINIFRED VAN DUZER

"Get your things on, Eve. I phoned the parson over at Noel City."

grin, Uncle Mat giving the bride away—all the lovely dreams vanishing.

"He said no more, but as the weeks went along Eve could see he was disturbed. He spent a great deal of time at the Stewarts' and the editor of "Sky Lines," the magazine for which he did most of his work, began to hither. For Ken, always late with his pictures, now would go for days without touching brush or crayon.

Mary finally told Eve that she ought to do something about it. "After all you're going to think of his welfare, dear. He's an overgrown child, really, but you're taking him as he is. I'm afraid life won't be easy for you. Still that won't matter if you love him enough."

"Oh, I do! But my beautiful wedding—well—"

"A wedding is a wedding, Eve. Any you'll be giving up most of the things. Lakerew stands for when you marry Ken and settle down in The Lane."

Mary had not thought of this before; the "whither thou goest I will go and thy people shall be my people" idea came to her with a shock. A different life from the one she had always looked forward to opened before her if she married Ken; she would find herself in perplexing and perhaps dangerous ways unless she were very careful, very wise.

She meant to make a success of her marriage. She meant to help Ken see that he achieved the fine heights of his aspirations. Of course it would mean sacrifice. And perhaps the matter of the wedding was to be the first. A small thing, after all . . .

She told Ken when he came that evening. "We'll be married here, dearest. I've thought this over . . . It doesn't make any difference really. We'll have it the last week in June."

"Ken! What did you tell them?"

"Plenty. I never thought much much about it before, but I guess the wise ones are those that slip away and get married without saying anything in advance. I don't suppose," he asked tentatively, "you'd think it all right if we put it over right here? We could have the club house and a dinner for the gang afterward."

"Oh, Ken!" Rose-point. Lohenwhooped. Elma led the onslaught upon the club hall-room, where furniture was removed and arrangements made for a great hall of white roses under which she said the bride pair must stand for the ceremony. It would be in the evening she decided, taking over the task of making all arrangements, and they would have a fast band to tootle the wedding march on saxophones.

"Not much, you won't!" Ken objected. "This isn't musical comedy, you know."

"Don't parade an inferiority complex, big boy. I suppose a string orchestra will do, though it won't be quite as keen. Do you suppose Eve would wear something clever—make it a costume wedding, maybe? Black and orange say—"

"She would not!" grunted Ken. "Forget it, Elma, or save it for your next venture."

"No enterprise at all!" grumbled Elma. "And you could grab columns of publicity if you'd listen to reason."

"Don't want publicity, you idiot. And if you keep this up we'll sneak over to Greenwich and all you sensation hounds can go to the devil."

Elma subsided after this but

Eve looked forward with mingling. She and Mary had made her dress, a girlish, simple thing of white chiffon and such as she loved it she could not help thinking of the ivory satin which would go back into the cedar chest. Still it was all right; since she was to marry Ken everything was all right. Only she hoped they would not turn the ceremony into theatrical.

And they did not; Ken saw to this. On the morning of the wedding day he drove to the Stewarts, looking very solemn and very dressed up in a dark suit and stiff collar, the first Eve had seen him wear.

He cut the wrappings of a florist's box and took out a corsage of sweetheart roses and white violets and said calmly "Get your things on, Eve. I phoned the parson over at Noel City. We're to be there in half an hour."

"But—why, Ken—you mean—you don't mean—"

"Course I do. Think I want our wedding turned into a holy show? Let them have their shenanigans and we'll turn up in time for supper. You're too sweet for them, Eve—little, sweet darling—"

(To be continued)

DOCTORS FINED FOR PRESCRIPTION SALE

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Charged with issuing false and fictitious liquor prescriptions in violation of the national prohibition act nine Santa Rosa physicians pleaded guilty in federal court here today and were sentenced to pay fines of $50 each by U. S. District Judge Harold Lunderback.

The doctors are Clifford M. Carlson, Prince A. Meneray, Robert L. Matteo, David J. Mahon, Paul T. Quarry, J. L. Spear, W. C. Shipley, Samuel I. Wyland and G. L. Patterson.

In pronouncing sentence Judge Lunderback said he was compelled to impose light fines because the doctors had had their liquor permits cancelled and they had already suffered embarrassment through publicity attending their indictment and arrest.

Assistant U. S. District Attor-

Missing Flyers Not Yet Found By Searchers

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Three days spent in aerial search of the Mohave desert and its western wall of 10,000 foot high mountains, late today had failed to bring any trace of James Doles, pilot of a Western Air Express passenger plane, and his two companions.

Twenty airplanes all day crisscrossed the heavily timbered San Bernardino and San Gabriel mountain ranges, searching that dangerous section of Doles' route.

MICKEY MOUSE

"POLLY AND HER PALS"

TILLIE, THE TOILER

LITTLE ANNIE-ROONEY

TOOTS AND CASPER

Cross-Word Puzzle

By EUGENE SHEFFER

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
11				12	13		14
15			16			17		18
19			20			21		22
23			24			25
26	27		28		29	30		31
32
33			34			35		36
37			38			39
40	41		42		43			44
45			46			47		48
49			50			51		52
53			54			55

- HORIZONTAL
- 1—What German-English composer wrote the "Messiah"?
 - 2—What cathedral city of central Spain is noted for its sword blades?
 - 3—Barren.
 - 4—Bustle.
 - 5—Above.
 - 6—Textile fabric having a corded surface.
 - 7—What Belgian city, entered by the Germans in 1914, was heroically defended by General Leman?
 - 8—Elongated fish.
 - 9—Note of the scale.
 - 10—Of what kingdom is Copenhagen the capital?
 - 11—Perform.
 - 12—What American poet is equally celebrated for his short stories?
 - 13—Being in the abstract.
 - 14—What is the missing word in the following title of a Shakespearean play: "Othello, or the — of Venice"?
 - 15—Prefix meaning before.
 - 16—Who is the patron saint of Norway?
 - 17—Which state of the United States is nicknamed "Constitution"?
 - 18—Sacred language of South-eastern India.
 - 19—Cyst.
 - 20—Retain.
 - 21—Japanese coin.
 - 22—Has the flag of the United States ever had more than thirteen stripes?
 - 23—Egyptian deity.
 - 24—Whore.
 - 25—Chinese weight.
 - 26—Incline.
 - 27—Fish.
 - 28—Electrolytic unit.
 - 29—Prepare for publication.
 - 30—Being a unit.
 - 31—What Scandinavian navigator discovered and colonized Greenland in 982?
 - 32—Dried stomach of certain young hooved animals.
 - 33—Who is the Greek goddess of the moon?
- VERTICAL
- 1—What section of New York City is largely inhabited by negroes?
 - 2—Any open surface.
 - 3—Small globe.
 - 4—Doctor of Divinity (abbr.).
 - 5—Past participle of "lie."
 - 6—Outer mantle of a Roman citizen.
 - 7—Behold.
 - 8—Who tempted Adam to taste of the "Forbidden Fruit"?
 - 9—Action.
 - 10—What Russian count was the assassin of Czar Peter III?
 - 11—Limitation.
 - 12—What American general was known as "Lighthorse Harry"?
 - 13—Prior.
 - 14—What German inventor, of French extraction, is noted for his super-passenger plane?
 - 15—Rapped.
 - 16—Bodies of water.
 - 17—Slings around.
 - 18—South American edible tuber.
 - 19—Footlike organ.
 - 20—And so forth (abbr.).
 - 21—Corroded.
 - 22—What American author of short stories wrote under the pseudonym of "O. Henry"?
 - 23—Son of a monarch.
 - 24—Trap.
 - 25—Nevertheless.
 - 26—Military assistant.
 - 27—Steady going or movement.
 - 28—Bagpipe.
 - 29—Part of body between lower rib and hip-bone.
 - 30—Fasten.
 - 31—Wrath.
 - 32—Trade news (abbr.).
 - 33—Hebrew name for God.
- Herewith is the solution to yesterday's puzzle.
- HAS RACED MAP
IRAN TARE ALE
STILES RUB TEA
SHALL REASIER
SHORTER TAN
HERE FARGO NS
INS DETE RLO
PS MARIE TLL
EVAN NA PRCE
DO TIT TIT