Etiquette

By ROBERTA LEE

Q.—When taking leave at a formal dinner, is it absolutely necessary for the guest who sat on the hostess' right to make the first move to go?

A.—No; it is not considered ill-mannered, if the hour is growing late, for another lady to rise first.

Q.—When initiated presents are given to a bride, what initial should it have?

A.—It should have the initial of the bride's maiden name.

Q.—How may one develop ease and a pleasant friendly manner.

A.—By a sincere consideration of others and acting in a perfectly natural manner.
