Church Wedding Is Attractive Event

A very pretty church wedding took place in the First Methodist church at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon when Marion Francis Miller and Frederick Wayne Taylor were married in the presence of a select company of invited guests. The simple ceremony was performed by the Rev. Fred C. Taylor, father of the groom, according to the ritual service of the ritual of the church. Prof. T. Roberts, the organist of the church, played as a prelude "Benediction Nuptiale" by Fryslinger. Miss Aldene Smith sang "No Longer Twin, but One" by Clough-Leigher, accompanied by the piano by Miss Ruth Bedford. To the inspiring strains of Lo-hengrin's Wedding March played by Prof. Roberts, the bride and groom-to-be met at the altar of the church which was banked with ferns, pussy-willows and acacia blossoms.

The bride was attractive in a white crepe satin gown made on princess lines with circular train. She wore a rope of pearls and a coronet of orange blossoms with a tulle veil and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses, freesias and maiden hair fern. She was attended by Miss Lucille Morrison of Portland, who wore a frock of apple green satin crepe and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations and roses. The groom was attended by William A. Sisson, a classmate in the Oregon State college.

Following the ceremony, Prof. Roberts played Mendelssohn's Wedding March as a recessional and the wedding company went to the home of the bride where a reception was held. The newly wedded couple left in the late afternoon by auto for a short honeymoon at the ocean beaches, after which they will be at home in Salem.

The bride's going away gown was green silk crepe. Miss Miller is the daughter of Mrs. Caroline Miller and has resided in Salem most of her life. She is a graduate of the Salem high school and then studied for a business career. The groom, Fred C. Taylor, Rev. and Mrs. Fred C. Taylor, pastor of the First Methodist church and has had two years in electrical engineering in Oregon State college.

Out of town guests in attendance at the wedding were Mrs. Margaret Manning of Santa Cruz, Calif.; Mrs. Francis Sweet of Oakland, Calif.; aunts of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Myron Satterlee of Oregon City, old time Iowa friends of the groom.

At the reception at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Annette Langard Mrs. Ethel Gilstrap and Miss Hortense Taylor, sat fees and the Misses Virginia Sisson, Lucille Gilstrap, Marie Curry and Gertrude Chamberlain assisted in the service and receiving of guests.

Past Matrons' Club Is Entertained

Mrs. Emma Murphy Brown, Mrs. W. Carlton Smith, and Mrs. Milton Stone were hostesses to members of the Past Matrons' club at the home of Mrs. Ida Godfrey Monday evening. Spring flowers in ray profusion made effective and colorful decorations for the guest rooms where the guests gathered to listen to an interesting talk by J. Hendricks concerning the plan for the Oregon historical pageant which he is now writing. Miss Margaret Steiner pleased with several piano solos. Following this refreshments were served and a delightful social evening followed.

Amaranthus Club Is Guest

Mrs. Jay B. Hewitt was hostess to members of the Amaranthus club of Hanna Rosa Court order of the Amaranth, Monday afternoon. At the business hour it was decided to hold the forthcoming meeting on the first Wednesday of each month in order that the men members of the club might be able to be present. The next meeting will be held in conformance with that change at the home of Mrs. T. A. Rafferty.

Just before the tea hour a happy feature of the afternoon occurred at which time the hostess was surprised with a birthday handkerchief shower.

The Ladies Aid of the Leslie Memorial church will not meet this week but will meet March 12 with the Home Missionary society at the church in a large joint meeting.

The Rhapsodians club has postponed its meeting from this Thursday to March 13 at which time Mrs. Phil Newmeyer will be hostess.

Etiquette

Q. When should hats be worn by the bride at her wedding?
A. It is customary to wear a hat with an informal wedding dress. The hat should either match or contrast with the rest of the costume.

Q. When is chicken eaten with the fingers?
A. It may be eaten with the fingers at a party or at a very informal gathering, but otherwise it is very incorrect.

Q. May a card with a message written on it be used instead of a formal note?
A. No; it suggests haste and an attitude of indifference that are contrary to the best breeding.

Miss Thelma Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Davis, student in the department of music in Oregon State college, who sang in the student recital given in the residence studio of Prof. and Mrs. T. S. Roberts, Monday evening.

Benefit Bridge Tea Given This Afternoon

An attractive social afternoon will be that for which Mrs. William Walton, Mrs. William H. Lytle and Mrs. Louise Lachmund will be hostesses at the home of Mrs. Lachmund this afternoon between the hours of 2 and 5:30 o'clock when a silver bridge tea will be in progress for members of St. Paul's Guild and their friends. The proceeds of the tea will go for the purchase of vestments and altar linen for the church.

Mrs. Homer Smith will meet the guests at the door and Mrs. W. Carlton Smith, Mrs. Margaret LeFury and Mrs. David Bennett Hill will assist about the rooms.

The tea table at which Mrs. George A. White and Mrs. George H. Swift will preside will be beautiful. It is to be centered with a crystal bowl of acacia and daffodils on either side of which will stand slender black tapers in holders to harmonize with the crystal bowl.

The guest rooms will carry out the predominant note of yellow with the use of forsythia in profusion.

Sans Souci Club Enjoys Dinner Party

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar L. Dencer entertained the Sans Souci club with a potluck 7 o'clock dinner Friday night at their suburban home, 4050 of Salem. Later in the evening "500" was played at four tables, with high score being won by Mrs. William J. Davenport and Alfred Propp and second honors going to Mr. and Mrs. Floyd L. Siegmund.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ficke will be hosts to the club at their next meeting, March 14.

Statesman Pattern

Small girls have adopted the pajama mode because of their comfort, grace and beauty. They are very easy to make and quite inexpensive, as they are just as lovely made of cotton as of silk. The model sketched today has a rounded neck and short sleeves trimmed with banding of contrasting fabric.

The blouse may be worn inside or over the trousers.

Pattern 1906 may be made of percale, broadcloth, pongee, rayon or wash silk. Gayly printed designs in vivid or pastel shades are lovely for spring.

May be obtained only in sizes 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12. Size 4 requires 2 5/8 yards of 36 inch material and 3/4 yard contrasting trimming.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model. The pattern has ample and exact instructions. Yardage is given for every size.

Pattern will be delivered upon receipt of fifteen cents (15c) in U. S. currency, carefully wrapped or stamped. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, style number and size wanted.

Our new spring book of pattern styles is now ready. Price fifteen cents, but only ten cents when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Statesman Pattern Department, 243 West 17th street, New York City.

Mrs. W. F. McCall Is Hostess

Brush College—Twenty members of the Sweet Briar club enjoyed a pleasant afternoon Wednesday when they were entertained by Mrs. W. F. McCall in her lovely home at Brush College. Pussy willows, violets and dew drops gave an illusion of spring to the living rooms of the McCall home.

Mrs. A. E. Uttley, president of the Sweet Briar club, presided at the short business session. Mrs. K. B. Kugel, Mrs. A. E. Uttley and Mrs. C. L. Blodgett assisted the hostess serve delight refreshments following the business meeting.

Special numbers Mrs. McCall presented a stunt in which all of the members participated while she accompanied them on the piano, and as a closing number Billy Uttley, talented young singer sang two solos. He was accompanied by his mother, Mrs. A. E. Uttley.

The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. H. Mercer. Present Wednesday were Mesdames H. Mercer, Lou Grote, L. Williams, Sarah Patrick, J. Imah, S. Tracy, Ed Pratt, McPetty, Mose Adams, K. B. Kugel, W. Stoddard, C. C. Page, M. Crabtree, A. E. Uttley, C. L. Blodgett, Billy Uttley, Corydon Blodgett and the hostess.

The Salem War Mothers are looking forward to an interesting and enthusiastic meeting at the city library today at 2:30 o'clock at which time reports will be made concerning the recent campaign for new members. It is expected that several new members will be present and other events of interest are planned.

Oh These Women!

From San Francisco comes a cheer from a lady who says, "It's high time somebody wrote something about sales women." Then she leaps right out of a cloud of indignation and says:

"The shops on Grant avenue are full of smart, overplished saleswomen who look their customers over so thoroughly that I have often wondered why they didn't pen our purses and see what they hold before they agree to sell to us.

"When a respectable woman goes into one of these shops, unless she is extremely well dressed, she is hurried out by the man in charge, but I think as you do, they are soon eaten up by the harder variety.

"I wish someone would go after these smart alecks who treat elderly women so shamefully. Both customers and fellow worker. Old age isn't any too delightful anyway, and when younger, happier women can't be kindly to the tired old ones, it's high time they are all too apparent. The somebody at least mentioned the fact. There's a chance they could shame them into tolerance, at least."

Well, Mrs. San Francisco, I went into one of New York's smartest 57th street shops yesterday, and I was the only customer in the store. I wanted to buy a dress. There were at least fourteen salespeople in the department chatting and holding dresses up to themselves. I waited five minutes at least before one of them even approached me. Then she haughtily got another and that one shifted me to still another who acted too tired to be annoyed.

When are the store managers? Don't they know or don't they care?

A sales girl writes me that she wishes the customers would stay at home long enough to mend their underwear. She informs me they sell on commission. If women stayed at home, where would the commission be? Should women go to their pinkest prettiest so that the salesgirl can endure her job?

For any BABY

We can never be sure just what makes an infant restless, but the remedy can always be the same. Good old Castoria! There's comfort in every drop of this pure vegetable preparation, and not the slightest harm in its frequent use. As often as Baby has a fretful spell, let Castoria soothe and quiet him. Sometimes it's a touch of colic. Sometimes constipation. Or diarrhea—a condition that should always be checked without delay. Just keep Castoria handy, and give it promptly. Relief will follow very promptly; if it doesn't, you should call a physician.

All through babyhood, Castoria should be a mother's standby; and a wise mother does not change to stronger medicines as the child grows older. Castoria is readily obtained at any drugstore, and the genuine easily identified by the Chas. H. Fletcher signature that appears on every wrapper.
