MILLER, GOVERNOR MAKE NO PROGRESS

Nothing resulted from Monday's conference here between Governor Norblad and Frank Miller, chairman of the public service commission, in connection with Norblad's letter demanding that Miller, as head of the commission, lend its engineers to Carey and Harlan, rate experts, in conducting an investigation of the valuations of the traction lines of the Portland Electric Power company. The governor and Miller were in conference for more than an hour. It was said that the conference would be renewed when Miller returns from Portland, where he and other members of the public service commission are conducting a hearing for the interstate commerce commission on the application of the Southern Pacific company for authority to abandon its red electric car service at Bertha Station, Forest Grove and Hillsboro.

At yesterday's conference Miller told the governor that he had certain information, which he desired to place in the hands of the executive. It was presumed that this data had to do with the street-car valuation controversy. Governor Norblad told Miller he would be glad to receive the information.

WHERE 7 WERE BURIED

View of the huge coal storage shed of the McNulty Brothers Coal Co., New York, after it collapsed, sending 900 tons of coal down upon seven men working beneath the structure, who were buried alive with no chance to escape. Police and fire department rescue squads with hand and steam shovels worked desperately to uncover the men in their tombs under the mountain of coal.

TRAFFIC GROUP TO BE CONTINUED, SAID

While the Eugene chamber of commerce will not ask its traffic manager to serve in the capacity of general secretary for the Western Oregon Traffic association, the organization itself will be continued, said William F. Ellis, local attorney, who recently attended a meeting of the association held in Medford.

Eugene's traffic manager will be concerned principally with the rate problems of industries in that city. The chamber in Lane county thought it unwise to extend the functions of its manager on too wide a scope.

Ellis said he laid the plan of a full-time traffic and rate man for the association before that group. He is hopeful that such a manager will eventually be employed.

While no decision has yet been made by the interstate commerce commission on the rate case argued before it last fall, Ellis thinks such a decision is imminent. General reductions on commodities throughout eastern Oregon are asked in the fight.

Substantial reductions have been made by the railroads in advance of the decision, Ellis said. The reductions are actually large enough to justify the case, even if the interstate commerce commission makes no addition cuts.

WOODBURN HAS GOOD AVERAGE

Bulldogs Close Season With Win Over Molalla in Exhibition Game

WOODBURN, March 11.—(Special)—By defeating Molalla high in an exhibition game Friday afternoon, the Woodburn high school basketball quint showed that although it was out of the running in the district championship race it still had the fight to win in a good game if so minded.

Molalla high is the champion of Clackamas county, having defeated Oregon City, which was also defeated by Silverton, holders of the Marion county championship. It also happens that Molalla has defeated Silverton twice, showing how oddly the Marion county tournament turned out.

Woodburn had a successful season, winning more than half of its games. It started by defeating Newberg 33-10 New Year's eve, then lost the next two contests, to Willamette freshmen, 23-19 and to Salem, 40-21. Not to be outdone, it staged a comeback by making McMinnville and Chemawa take the bottom number of the 30-12 and 25-23 scores respectively.

When overtime period had been played in the second encounter with McMinnville the Woodburn hoopers woke up to find themselves holding the little end of a 23-19 score but fooled everyone by beating Salem 22-14 and the Willamette yearlings, 30-26. Newberg was again forced to the wall with a 28-12 defeat and Silverton fell before the Woodburn onslaught with a 16-12 score.

It was then that the Woodburn team seemed to relax and lost three games in succession, Chemawa, 31-15 and two games with West Linn, 27-24 and 23-22.

The last scheduled game was with their ancient rivals, Silverton, who again took the count with a 19-16 score. Stayton high, desiring a taste of blood, challenged Woodburn and was defeated 21-16. Then Woodburn lost the chance to be county champion when it lost a harder fought game to Chemawa than the 35-22 score might indicate.

Being somewhat disheartened the Woodburn boys were defeated by Stayton 13-11 only to revive and toss up enough points to defeat Molalla, 27-21.

In spite of the fact that Coach Wolf will lose his entire first string, Murel Nehl, Cletus Chapelle, forwards; Emerson Baldwin center and Laverne Scholer, Adrian Scholer and Lowell Gribble guards, who are all graduating seniors, he has been developing a promising second squad and will center the hopes of next year around the following men: Harold Scholer, Harold Gustafsen, Ralph Nelson and Delmar Ramsdell, forwards; Herman Parfy and Arthur Presthus, centers; and George and Ed Oberst, guards.

Murel Nehl embarrassed the rest of his team-mates by out-running them in looping the basket for 125 of his team's points. His running mate, Cletus Chapelle, was second with 98 points while, Emerson Baldwin, the diminutive center, tallied 69 points to his credit. Adrian was evidently slightly the better scorer of the flashy Scholer brothers guard combination although Laverne gave him plenty of competition, having 36 points in his name.

MINERS RESCUED; 2 FOUND DEAD

STUEBENVILLE, Ohio, March 11.—(AP)—Braving burning timbers and falling coal, rescue squads went into the flame-sewed Wolf Run mine of the Warner Collieries near Amsterdam, Ohio, and brought 89 men to the surface, two of them dead from smoke fumes and the others unharmed.

The only fatalities among all the men who four hours were trapped behind a fire wall that cut off the main entrance to the mine were Paul Borkowski, 65 married and Jack Pewoski, 37, single.

Borkowski, a sufferer from asthma, succumbed to the smoke before aid could reach him. Pewoski's body was found near a door of one of the mine rooms.

At midnight, ten hours after the fire started from a short circuit caused by a mine car, officials of the company announced that the workings had been searched thoroughly and that all of the miners had been accounted for.

LONDON, March 11.—(Tuesday)—(AP)—The London Daily News today says that the Italian heavyweight boxing giant, Primo Carnera, has lost his heart to Miss Emella Tersini, a British subject and will return here this year to marry her and settle in England.
