

Kimball's Problems Aired by President Canse in Article

ACCOUNT GIVEN IN PUBLICATION

Difficulty in Obtaining Financial Support in Northwest Circles

Discussion of the problems facing Kimball school of Theology is made in the current issue of the Christian Advocate, Pacific coast organ of the Methodist church. The leading article entitled "Kimball School of Theology—Past and Present" is written by Dr. John M. Canse, president of the school.

Little hope for continuing the school through a merger with other denominations is held by Dr. Canse, who writes: "Inquiry has given us no reasonable hope that other denominations would join with Kimball in any way for a strong union seminary. They are well enough provided with schools of their own, near enough to suit their purposes well."

Dr. Canse further states that "it is becoming increasingly difficult to get before the churches and much less money is resulting from such appeals. In 1929 about 120 laymen paid personally to Kimball and 40 churches paid through their budgets."

Fewer ministers than ordinarily have been contributors have responded to the demands of the school, Dr. Canse relates. In 1929 only 34 ministers paid personally. Kimball trustees announced in February that the school would not reopen in the year 1930-31. Any action to change this decision must come from the Oregon conference of the Methodist church to be held this June. The editor of the Advocate asks in the same article in which the Kimball article appears that all churches do their share in wiping out a $5000 deficit of the school, to the end that all endowment funds may be diverted to other causes should the school close.

CANDIDATE SOUGHT TO ENTER CONTEST

(Continued from Page 1.) McMahan, while not yet a formal candidate, having not filed for the office, is assumed to seek re-nomination and election. A resident of Marion county for many years, long-time newspaper publisher and lawyer, his position is said to be strong with the "old time element."

He has been prominent in strange activities for years. Considered somewhat "radical" and known to be at variance with many of the "old guard" politicians, McMahan has attained considerable political prestige for his very idiosyncrasies and his more or less constant attempt on the ordinary run of office holders. His conduct of the circuit court has been decidedly informal, the judge asking members of the bar as well as jurors to be entirely informal, not to address him as "judge" and to dispense with the ordinary procedure of rising when the judge takes the bench and exercising similar formalities.

This is my advice. If you are looking for a good show put "Lord Byron of Broadway" on your list. It's the attraction at the Fox Elishore until Saturday.

It has music—the best I have heard since sound pictures began their march of triumph. That is saying a lot when you think of the "Love Parade" but consistently the music of "Lord Byron of Broadway" is better. Of course that is just my opinion.

Then there is the little matter of acting. It seems to be getting a bit more important than usual. Instead of having to satisfy one's self looking at some beautiful but dumb folk, it is getting so once in a while the actors really act. At least that is the impression that Cliff Edwards and Benny Rubin seem to be working under in this show.

Marion Shilling is also good. Of course it might have been proper to mention Ethelind Terry and Charles Kaley first for they are the real stars; they do some excellent acting but they shine brightest in song. For each of the latter two this picture marks the first entrance into pictures. Each has been starring on Broadway in musical comedies.

If you think I'm wrong about this show I don't mind, but it's a safe bet you will agree with me.

PENDLETON QUINTET WINS FROM DALLAS

had taught his men, a defense which began under the opponents' basket instead of in the scoring zone as ordinary modern tactics dictate. Winkle and Tynan showed up to best advantage for the central Oregon entry.

Belief that Dallas really had a better team than Pendleton was freely expressed after the Buckaroos won the second game. Even with Webb, Dallas came out of the game and the diminutive LeFors taking his place, Dallas outscored Pendleton in the second half. Stage fright was apparently responsible for Dallas' failure to show its real form at the start.

Pendleton uncorked a spectacular style of running, one handed shots which proved highly effective, and its shifting some defense was all but impregnable, forcing Dallas to resort to long shots. Hill and Temple divided scoring honors for Pendleton with seven points, and Vaughan led the Dallas sharpshooters with nine.

TWO OF PORTLAND FIVES HAVE BATTLE

account of his speed and brilliant shots, but Applegate and Scroggins outdistanced him in scoring. Robertson was Lincoln's ace both in scoring and floor play. The game was passably rough, several double fouls being called when players who knew each other too well tangled purposefully.

Tillamook and North Bend battled stubbornly, the Cheesemakers getting a 5 to 2 lead in the first period and the lumbermen gaining it back in the second, which ended seven all. North Bend scored two free throws and Tillamook a field goal in the third period, and they were even again.

Delayed Offense Nearly Futs Game on Ice With a few minutes left to play, K. Anderson of North Bend slipped in a field goal to put his team two points ahead, and the Coos county champions resorted to a "delayed offense" in an effort to hold their lead. It worked fairly well but Tillamook finally speared the ball and White tied the score. A little later Conover sank one to give Tillamook the lead, and then it was the Cheesemakers' turn to use the delay system. This time it worked better, North Bend being drawn out of position to give White another opportunity to score.
