Unemployment Is Blamed For Use Of Butter Decrease

The world is still talking about the butter vs. oleo situation apparently. The Northwest Daily Produce News recently carried a long article on the subject and the conclusions drawn are, to say the least, different.

What do you think of this as a cause of the trouble? "The major factors in decreased butter consumption and decreased prices are the increasing unemployment since last May, resulting in a decreased buying power with relatively high butter prices the first half of last year. It was neither over-production nor, primarily, oleomargarine competition at half the price of butter.

The figures given above are based on government reports of production and consumption for the first eleven months of 1929.

What Agricultural Associates, Inc. means to farmers who are stockholders.

The men who organized Allied Agricultural Associates, Inc. have spent years in dealing with farmers and have made a close study of agricultural operations of all kinds. They realize the unsatisfactory profits at the present from agriculture and believe the plans of Allied Agricultural Associates will better these conditions. Below you will find what this organization really means to farmer stockholders:

FIRST: The purchase of stock is an investment in a business of vital importance to them and their efforts.

SECOND: They are partners in a business the main object of which is to bring more profitable results from the distribution of farm products.

THIRD: Every farmer stockholder will have a vote in the organization in accordance with the amount of common stock which he holds. In other words, every stockholder will have a voice in the business.

FOURTH: The farmers will have an opportunity of learning in detail how a large business is conducted.

FIFTH: The company's management will have before them continually every possible information regarding the financial, trade and crop conditions of not only the United States, but the world for the benefit of its stockholders.

SIXTH: At intervals all stockholders will be brought together at a meeting at which time all these matters will be laid before them. Not only this, but farm problems will be discussed. In fact at such meetings almost every subject pertaining to agriculture will be discussed and the members given valuable information which in many ways may control their operations in the future and bring better results in the end.

SEVENTH: One of the great benefits from being a member of the Allied Agricultural Associates, Inc., is the mutual interest that all members will have as they are all working for one end, and that is to make the results of their efforts more profitable.

EIGHTH: This mutual interest means the building up of the community as that feeling of human interest cannot but enter into it.

NINTH: It has been said that the purpose of the Allied Agricultural Associates, Inc., organization covers almost every phase of agriculture and should bring great improvement in operations.

Let us tell you more about this wonderful organization, either by appointment or communication with R. O. Snelling, manager finance department, Suite 311, United States National Bank Building, Salem, Oregon.

Little Chats About Your Health

DIPHTHERIA MONTHS

Regarding diphtheria, a physician tells of the days when everyone sat helpless and hopeless in the face of its ravages and in concluding said "it isn't any longer necessary to have children die that way. There is a means of protecting against such a death and it is the business of the parent to make use of the scientific knowledge developed in these recent years."

This is a subject which you should discuss with your physician.

Give your physician every opportunity to protect your family's health. Don't think of him as one to be called in only when there is desperate illness.
