INSTITUTIONS' CROWDS GROW

Increase Shown in Population of Nearly All of State Plants

With the exception of the Old Soldiers Home at Roseburg and the state training school for boys, the population of all state institutions has increased materially during the past 10 years. This was set out in a report prepared by Carl Abrams, secretary of the state board of control.

The report, comparative increase was in the population of the state penitentiary. In the year 1919 the population of the prison was 271, while in 1924 it had increased to 426. On March 1 of last year there were 743 prisoners in the institution. The population at the prison has now increased to approximately 850 men and women, with no indication of a letup in the number of commitments.

Reduction Made in Per Capita Cost

The per capita cost of conducting the prison has decreased from $35.81 in 1919 to $22 late in 1929.

Because of the drastic increase in the prison population it has been necessary to establish an annex, at which more than 40 prisoners are held in the prison quarters. The second floor of a garage also has been utilized to care for 70 prisoners who previously occupied quarters in the main prison buildings. Plans are now being prepared for the erection of an addition cell block, with a capacity of more than 300 prisoners.

There also has been a material increase in the population at the Eastern Oregon state hospital at Pendleton. Records show that the population of this institution in 1919 was 504, while late in 1929 the population had increased to 1012. The per capita cost of conducting this institution in 1919 was $10.06 as against $16.59 in 1929.

Eig Increase Shown
Aspen Grove
 The population of the Oregon state hospital has increased from 1732 in 1919 to 1895 in 1929. To properly care for the increased population at this institution the last legislature authorized an appropriation for the erection of a new building. The completion of this building released approximately 100 beds in the main institution. The per capita cost of conducting this institution was decreased from $18.70 in 1919 to $17.18 in 1929.

Records show that the population of the state home for the feeble minded has more than doubled during the past ten years. In 1919 the population of this institution was 413 as compared with 828 in 1929. Although several new buildings have been constructed at the feeble minded home during the past 10 years, the institution is now taxed to its capacity and the next legislature will be asked to authorize additional appropriations for construction purposes. The per capita cost of operating this home has decreased from $19.59 in 1919 to $18.36 in 1929.

Tuberculosis Hospital Also Shows Increase
 The population of the Oregon state tuberculosis hospital has increased from 78 in 1919 to 193 in 1929, with a per capita cost of $46.31 in 1919 to $45.50 in 1929. In order to relieve conditions at the Oregon state tuberculosis hospital the state recently erected a new tuberculosis hospital at The Dalles. There are now 77 patients in this institution, with a per capita cost of $28.57.

The population of the Oregon state school for the blind has increased from 42 in 1929 to 43 in 1929. This small increase was attributed to the fact that the accommodations at the institution's accommodations are limited, and it has been possible to honor applications from persons who would enter the school. The per capita cost of conducting the blind school has increased from $37.10 in 1919 to $47.96 in 1929.

School for Deaf Has Increase in Enrollment
 There has been a marked increase in the population at the state school for the deaf. The population of this institution in 1919 was 98 as compared with 117 in 1929. Per capita costs have also increased at this institution. In 1919 the average per capita cost was $33.41 as against $44.16 in 1929.

At the state industrial school for girls the population has increased from 44 in 1919 to 76 in 1929. This increase was made possible through the erection of a new cottage. The per capita cost of conducting this institution in 1919 was $34.96 as compared with $34.82 in 1929.

The population at the Oregon Employment institution for the adult blind in Portland has increased from 44 in 1924, the year it was opened, to 62 in 1929. The per capita cost of conducting this institution was decreased from $29.79 in 1924 to $29.19 in 1929.

State Training School Cuts Population
 There has been a decrease in population at the state training school for boys from 144 in 1919 to 127 in 1929. This decrease was said to be due to the liberal parole policy which was adopted during the administration of the late Governor Patterson. Boys are now paroled from the institution as fast as suitable homes can be obtained.

At the Old Soldiers home in Roseburg, the population has decreased from 129 in 1919 to 104 in 1929. The per capita cost of conducting the soldiers home has increased from $30.52 in 1919 to $42.55 in 1929. The per capita cost of conducting the state training school for boys also has increased from $29.46 in 1919 to $43.25 in 1929. In cases of increased per capita costs, it was explained that these resulted from unusual expenditures, and the fact that prices of all commodities have shot upward.

FOR SENATE

Dr. P. O. Riley of Hubbard, who will file his candidacy with the secretary of state Monday seeking the office of state senator from Marion county.

Officials said they were much pleased with the report, because the costs of institutional operations have not increased on the same basis as has the population.

DATES ARE SET FOR GUARDSMEN'S CAMP

The Oregon national guard summer camp will be held from June 11 to 25 this year, with headquarters at Camp Clatsop, except headquarters and headquarters detachment, 41st division, scheduled to be in attendance at Camp Clatsop and Fort Stevens, according to first announcement from the guard headquarters.

The 2nd infantry brigade, hospital company No. 167, and the state staff detachment, will, as usual, be stationed at Camp Clatsop, while the two artillery regiments will train at Fort Stevens.

The outstanding event of camp, so far as the public is concerned, will be held June 21 and 22, the event, the combat demonstration and review, promises to be bigger and better and more spectacular than ever this year, according to the early notice. The demonstration this year will be staged by the 15th infantry, supported by units of the 21st field artillery.

Several new events and features are being worked out for the annual camp athletic meet, which will fall on June 23 this year.

If You Have Piles
 There is danger in neglect. Avoid danger, use Schaefer's. It is soothing and antiseptic.

Schaefer's Pile Ointment is put up in collapsible tubes with nozzle like that of a syringe. This insures safety, cleanliness and ease in using it, and enables the medicine to reach the seat of the trouble. It cools, soothes and eases the inflammation. Do not put it off until tomorrow, for every day's delay but irritates more and only makes it harder for you finally to get the relief that you hope for.

HAWKINS OFFICER OF LARGE CONCERN
 Harry M. Hawkins of the Hawkins and Roberts firm of Salem is spending a good deal of his time in Portland these days, following launching last Monday of the Commonwealth Corporation of Oregon of which he is vice president and treasurer.

W. S. Walton of this city is a member of the board of directors of the corporation, capital of which is $1,500,000. Hawkins has handled considerable business in Portland for some time and is well acquainted there, but with announcement of the new company he is dividing his time more than ever with that city.

The Commonwealth corporation is the holding company for the Commonwealth Trust and Title company, Commonwealth Securities corporation and the Commonwealth Realty company. The Trust and Title company is a consolidation of the former Strong and MacNaughton Trust company, the City Mortgage company and the Union Abstract company. Hawkins is also vice president and treasurer of this unit. Commonwealth Securities corporation was formerly the William H. Hemphill company.

The new concern includes a trust department, a women's department, property management, property development and mortgage department, as well as handling mortgage trust certificates, insurance and title insurance offices.

Forrest E. Littlefield, Portland, republican, for the office of representative in the legislature for the 18th district, Multnomah county.

HORSE DISEASE TO BE FOUGHT

Over 100,000 Animals May Be Exterminated in South-eastern Oregon

Investigation of a disease known as dourine among horses on the ranges in Malheur county, near the Nevada state line, may result in a drive to exterminate more than 10,000 animals in that part of Oregon, according to an announcement made here yesterday by Dr. W. M. Lytle, state veterinarian.

The investigations will be conducted jointly by state and federal officials. An operative from the state veterinarian's office here returned to Salem this week from Malheur county where he secured blood samples from approximately 70 range horses. These samples will be sent to Washington, where they will be analyzed.

In case the blood samples show that the horses are afflicted with dourine, steps will be taken immediately to exterminate all animals which show symptoms of the disease. Before this
