CHICAGO GRAIN CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 27—(AP)—Led by wheat, all grain prices turned downward today toward the last after scoring early gains. Reserve buying power flattened out at least for the time being and values gave way under larger selling to reclise profits on bulges.

Export developments as to North American wheat were disappointing, and farm board advices that United States spring wheat acreage probably would be reduced more than department of agriculture figures indicated, failed to act as a counterbalance.
