Roberts Community Club Closes Season's Activity With Exceptional Program

By MRS. H. B. CARPENTER

ROBERTS, April 7.—Standing room was at a premium Saturday night at the last meeting of the community club until October.

Division two, led by B. D. Fidler gave a most entertaining program filling two hours with varied and original stunts, playlets and music. W. C. Pettyjohn announced the following program:

Song dedicated to Division one, composed by W. C. Pettyjohn and sung by Wallace and Milton Beckett.

Reading, "A Tribute to the Flag," Loren Gower of Salem.

Music by the Oak Point orchestra, which also played numbers at intervals during the program.

Playlet, "Jimmy the Flash," Harry Shuebel, Raymond Higgins and Gordon Bowman.

Reading, "An Old Woman's Complaint," Mrs. J. P. Bessler and George Higgins.

Played by saxophone duet, Maxine Pettyjohn and Janice Higgins.

Reading, "Cremation of Sam Magee," Lorn Gower.

Sketch, "The Web," Janice Higgins, Maxine Pettyjohn, Harry Shuebel, Raymond Higgins and Loren Gower, in which some clever acting was displayed.

Danish folk dance, "Crested Hymn," Naomi Crouser, Floyd Bowman, Frances Blankenship and Hugh Shuebel.

Play, "Vagabonds in Prison," written by W. C. Pettyjohn. The characters were George Higgins, Will Pettyjohn, Henry Shuebel, prisoners; George Veall, warden; Raymond Higgins, governor; Mrs. Henry Shuebel, prison aid representative; Mrs. W. C. Pettyjohn, relative of prisoners, and two guards, G. B. Bowman and Irwin Selby. The improvised cells, the uniforms and the well chosen characters who acted their parts very credibly, made the play interesting and was received with shouts of laughter and much applause from the audience.

Duet, "Mississippi Moon," Wallace and Milton Beckett.

Presentation of gifts to Floyd Bowman and Naomi Crouser by Division two in appreciation of their services as curtain boys in every program.

Humorous stunt showing a very good representation of the old settler's covered wagon which was drawn across the stage with George Higgins driving.

When the wagon stopped at a camping place, out came, in old fashioned costumes, fathers, mothers, babies and children until the stage was full. Even a dog and small white pig were taken out of the wagon, and all the camp equipment.

Leaders Appear

At the close of the program S. C. Davenport and B. D. Fidler, leaders of the two divisions of the club since January, came on the stage and shook hands with congratulations.

These two leaders have worked faithfully and with the loyal support and cooperation of their respective divisions, have put on highly entertaining programs. Much latent local talent has been developed. The community as a whole feels that the club has been an asset as much pleasure has resulted from it, not only in the enjoyable programs but from the community spirit which naturally came from doing worthwhile things together.

At the business meeting led by the president, George Veall, resolutions of sympathy were read for B. D. Fidler and family, who have recently suffered a bereavement. W. C. Pettyjohn invited the club to Riverside Park for its annual picnic, the date for which will be set later.

The social hour and pot-luck supper which closed the evening were much enjoyed by visitors from other communities and the local club.

... in a bridge it's SPAN

... in a cigarette it's TASTE!

SMOKERS come to Chesterfield by many roads—some by chance, and some by choice. It isn't by chance, though, that once arrived, so many of them stick to Chesterfields. Clearly they find exactly what they want in its mild natural flavor, its delicate character, and its rich tobacco fragrance.

And why not, when good taste is the single goal of every step of Chesterfield's making—

"TASTE above everything"
