

OPERATORS ON MART NERVOUS

Reactionary Trend Noted in Stock Prices Through- out Tuesday

NEW YORK, April 8.—(AP)—The stock market leaned rather decidedly toward reaction today, professional operators for the advance manager to regain control of the price movement for a time around mid-day, but were soon discouraged by the steady influx of selling orders. The market sold off rapidly in the last hour but rebounded here and there as shorts covered in the final few minutes of trading. The majority of the more active shares ended the session 3 to 5 points lower.

The selling was orderly but persistent. Unlike recent setbacks, today's reaction could not be attributed to bear attacks abetted by a late ticker. Trading was in comparatively moderate volume, and the ticker kept well up with prices on the floor. Total sales aggregated 4,689,790 shares, one of the smallest turnovers for a full session in nearly two weeks of heavy trading. The price index of 90 representative stocks lost about 1 1/2 points.

News for Day Not Particularly Good

The day's business news was for the most part not particularly favorable, but the market appeared to be governed primarily by a growing conviction among traders that a top-heavy position had been reached during the violent pool activity of the past several days, and that a reaction in the market was overdue. News regarding the oils was distinctly favorable, including a further reduction in crude output, and advances in gasoline prices in the eastern states, but profit taking was about as heavy in this group as elsewhere.

Reports from the steel trade somewhat less cheerful. It was predicted that U. S. Steel's unfilled tonnage statement on Thursday will show a substantial decline, and preliminary reports indicated that last week's rate of mill operations is not being maintained. Big Rise Experienced

By Radio Keith

Radio Keith was again hurried upward in heavy buying, reaching new high ground for 1930 at 44-3/8, up about four points, and within 2 1/2 points of its record price reached in the autumn crash. J. I. Case was a spectacular feature, rushing up 17 points to 290. Bulls also made some progress in the motors, General Motors reaching a 1930 high at 23 1/2, but then losing most of its gain. American Can, Corn Products, United Carbon, and U. S. Pipe and Foundry were among shares rising two points or more to high ground for the year, but losing some of their gains in the late trading. United Aircraft was bid up 4 points to 82, topped for the year, but this attracted heavy short selling, and the stock closed at 84 1/4. Stone and Webster broke 4 for the top.

Proposed Onions Acreage Found Far too Great in United States This Year

W. S. Snyder and Son of Kenton, Ohio, large scale producers of commercial onions, have recently completed a survey of the onion market situation in the United States. According to their findings the onion acreage now contemplated, if planted, will spell a disastrous year to all concerned and recommends a drastic cut in acreage as a vital necessity.

Following is an excerpt from this report, made to the Chicago Packer, trade paper of that district.

"The information below is based on statistics gathered from reliable sources through the Tabb Onion Service in the late onion producing states as to the intended acreage for 1930 with comparisons covering four previous years:

State	1926	1927	1928	1929	1930
California (north, central)	6,000	5,170	5,620	5,820	5,600
Colorado	2,700	4,300	3,760	7,000	7,500
Idaho	950	1,900	1,000	1,100	1,200
Illinois	670	670	740	770	750
Indiana	3,440	3,100	3,510	4,400	4,400
Iowa (late)	1,600	1,470	1,280	1,420	1,700
Massachusetts	4,420	4,550	2,500	2,730	2,800
Michigan	3,370	3,200	4,520	5,000	5,500
Minnesota	1,870	2,180	1,740	2,160	2,400
New York	7,580	8,530	8,830	7,810	7,800
Ohio	5,300	7,000	6,550	3,440	6,500
Oregon	1,130	1,200	950	1,040	1,200
Pennsylvania	180	180	150	140	150
Utah	800	900	1,000	1,100	1,100
Wisconsin	1,200	1,600	1,100	1,120	1,100
Washington (late)	1,100	860	710	820	800
Total	48,310	51,810	46,560	54,870	54,500

Few shippers and practically no growers made any money the past year in the intended acreage for 1930 is just about the same as last year.

You will note that the only state willing to meet this condition is Ohio. You cannot over-produce in any commodity and make money, and no other commodity is so susceptible to the ill effects of over-production as onions, due to their perishable nature and the limited time we have in which to market the crop.

If we plant the acreage of onions in this country contemplated at this time, even conceding that additional tariff is granted, our over-production will so far over balance the effects of a tariff on importations that any possible benefit of a tariff will not only be lost, but our industry will be in even worse shape than it is at the present time.

This company has grown in a single year as high as 1,200 acres. This year our acreage will be less than 500 acres, 300 acres under last year.

Ohio growers already have signified their willingness and intention of cutting their acreage over 20 per cent. We feel that it is imperative that every other onion producing state follow the lead taken by Ohio. This important proposition of making the necessary reduction is backed by the National Onion Association, and has been advocated time and again by the department of agriculture at Washington, as the only means of putting the onion industry on a sound basis.

Even though at this date the individual grower has arranged for his seed and fertilizer for his contemplated acreage, the success or failure of the 1930 onion season depends entirely upon his willingness to change his plans now and cut his acreage from 15 to 20 per cent.

Would it not be better to grow a smaller acreage at a profit than to go through with the present menacing over-production you are contemplating and suffer severe financial losses?

We have investigated this situation from every possible angle and feel that we cannot impress you too strongly with its seriousness. It is essential that we have the co-operation of every onion grower throughout the United States.
