Up at The Dalles they're still raising Ned over the displacing of Bob Murray with a new athletic coach at the high school, and the more recent angle of a ruling by C. A. Howard, state superintendent of public instruction, which bars Murray from further practicing his profession in Oregon because he lacks certain scholastic requirements.

-0-Hollis Huntington, Salem high school coach, is a former pupil of Murray's, and he has written a letter to the daily newspaper at The Dalles which discusses the situation without any kidding. Among other things he says:

"This rule. I am given to understand, was put across through the instigation of a couple of pro- nera's manager and those of any fessors of the University of Oregon, who wanted to place the graduates in lucrative positions the first year out of college.

"Why in heaven's name they go to bat for students of this particular registration and then turn the rest of the graduates out to work with a pick and shovel, or at least something about as opposite of what they prepare for, is more than I know.

more than I know.
"But to get back to The Dalles.
I played football for three years under Bob Murray and I can honestly say that there wasn't a fundamental of the game I didn't know when I entered college. Men with twice my natural ability sat on the bench during my college career just because they didn't know what the old game was all about. College football is tough Willamette Baseball Nine to but since 1920 there hasn't been an Oregon team that has really played the game-Murray could have coached the last three Oregon coaches and plenty."

The Ducks made a record breaking dive for the cellar, and entrenched themselves securely there Thursday.

The big show that the "W" club at Willamette was planning for tonight has been postponed until next Thursday night. We're aching for a chance to see those star acts staged by Adams and difficult to forecast, but Oregon Hauk, noted producers.

We're glad we didn't cover the wrestling show Wednesday night. The Statesman reporter who did attend was one of the spectators "chosen" by the wild, wild Wildcat.

Scott sank with the anguish of the ages creasing his erstwhile pallid pan. That low blow seemed light, so Referee Jack Dempsey sought to persuade Phil to continue—but why prolong the agony? The Sport Bug was satisfied when going home, because he had been privileged to witness one of modern boxing's most celebrated scenes: The Swooning Swan of Swat doing his not-so-stupid stuff.

Scott's Von Porat exit was so heart-stirring that the Sport Bug had still more fight thrills to enjoy during the 1929-30 fight season. He had been charmed by "The Dying Gladiator" postures of the clever cockney, who might be fouled into the world's championship if there were more Dempseys and fewer Magnolias in referee roles. The Bug has been elated with Von Porat's costly fly-swat, and delighted with the hip-hitting activities of Uncle Sam's leading heavy.
