

Fight Looms Against County Commissioner Smith

DISSATISFIED VOTERS MANY

E. Denny's Campaign Gains Force in Numerous Sections of County

What looked at first as only an easy race has suddenly developed into a real fight over the republican nomination for county commissioner. Jim Smith, incumbent, long a powerful figure on the county court, faces a contest with E. C. Denny of Stayton. Smith's friends presumed that he would be re-elected without any trouble. But Denny has succeeded in welding together the disgruntled and dissatisfied until he makes a real threat which is rousing Smith's friends out of their lethargy to make an organized effort for his re-election.

Participating in the fight against Smith are said to be some of the elective county officials who claim that Smith has been too rigidly holding down salaries of deputies, and threats of reprisals are being made when these persons come up for re-election two years hence.

While residing in Salem at present, Smith retains extensive land interests in the north end of the county and faces criticism from the south end of the county that the south portion has been neglected in road appropriations. This year however work is being resumed in the south part of the county to furnish improved roads there.

The interest which some Salem business men are commencing to take in the commissionership is based on the knowledge that Smith is a good business man, level-headed and honest, and they are fearful of making a change, particularly in the direction of substituting Denny for Smith on the county court.

HAUSER DENIES BRADY CHARGE

No Quid Pro Quo Exists in Norblad Political Maneuver, Claim

Kenneth Hauser, Portland hotel operator who is manager of the Norblad campaign for governor, has issued a statement denying the truth of the rumor that Governor Norblad would replace two of the highway commissioners and the highway engineer, and that paving interests would dictate their successors. This report was broadcast over the state by Ralph Watson, political writer of the Oregon Journal in a signed article in the Sunday Journal.

Hauser did not deny that Fred J. Brady, sales manager of the Warren Brothers Construction company, and political representative of the company in legislative lobbying, was taking a leading part in the direction of the Norblad campaign, which was the substance of the Watson story on which the rumors of the supposed "consideration" were based.

Statement Published
The statement from Mr. Hauser as published in the Oregonian on Wednesday, follows: "Since Governor Norblad's incumbency, he has supported the present highway engineer and commissioners and has refused steadily to interfere in any manner with their duties. In his public speeches throughout the campaign he repeatedly has stated that the highway commission should be kept entirely out of politics.

"The democrats, realizing that Governor Norblad will be the hardest candidate to beat in the November general election, would rather see George Joseph nominated by the republicans, as this would give their more assurance of electing a democratic governor.

"It is a fact that Fred J. Brady, like many other citizens in all walks of life, is supporting the candidacy of Governor Norblad and has been since Governor Norblad first announced his candidacy. Mr. Brady has been a close friend of Governor Norblad and myself for years. He was just as intimately acquainted with Governor Patterson and was an ardent and welcome supporter of the late governor during his campaign four

Tickets will be good on all trains and may be used in reclining chair cars or Pullman or tourist sleepers, the latter at payment of the regular sleeping car charges.

TRADING IN WHEAT STRIKES REAL SNAG

CHICAGO, April 30.—(AP)—Prospective big deliveries on May contracts tomorrow acted as a bugbear to the wheat trade today, and lower prices formed the rule. Quotations on May wheat here outside the bottom most record heretofore touched this season.

The outlook was the first-of-the-month deliveries of wheat in Chicago would total fully 5,000,000 bushel, and Kansas City. But the bulk of the grain thus disposed of at the three markets named was expected to be taken

REPORTS OF FIRMS USING SUPER UNION-ETHYL SHOW THAT THIS NEW WORLD'S RECORD GASOLINE GIVES...

4 to 12% More Mileage

Try it NOW at the BLUE and WHITE striped pump.

DEFINITE proof of the extra mileage of the Super Union-Ethyl is now offered by large operators who have carefully compared its performance with that of ordinary gasolines. Their reports show that this increased mileage is based according to the condition of the motor. It is often more than 12%!

And in addition six other important advantages are attained when Super Union-Ethyl is used exclusively:

1. Many hills that formerly required second gear are easily mastered in high without undue engine strain.
2. Reduced speeds develop a noticeable extra mile advantage.
3. Traffic jamming is appreciably reduced.
4. Carbon knockers are practically eliminated.
5. Vibration is reduced essentially.
6. And although Super Union-Ethyl costs more per gallon, it reduces operating costs from 1 to 4¢ per mile according to their records of leading fleet operators. Thus Super Union-Ethyl is actually cheaper than ordinary gasoline when you consider the economies that this world's record fuel makes possible!

Use It Exclusively!
Super Union-Ethyl can be secured only at the blue and white striped pumps. Make them your permanent "stop sign" for gasoline. Get 4 to 12% extra mileage and the other advantages that are yours today.
