PACIFIC TEAM TO PLAY HERE

Willamette Team Will Face Tough Game as Frank Makes Exit

Willamette university's baseball team faces this afternoon its hardest test of the western division Northwest conference schedule, when it meets the Pacific university team at Olinger field. The game is scheduled for 2:30 o'clock and is one of the events of Willamette's May day program.

Pacific demonstrated its threat early in the season by holding the University of Oregon team to a 3 to 0 victory, largely through the outstanding work of Nelson, pitcher. Oregon won the second game by a large margin as Nelson was not able to pitch two games in succession.

The Badgers are expected to be hot after Willamette's scalp, as the present baseball season is tantamount to "revenge" on Spec Keene of Willamette. Keene has been a thorn in Pacific's flesh ever since he came to the local school, his advent marking the end of Pacific's domination among the Oregon members of the conference.

Peterson or Grant will probably start today's game on the mound for Willamette, which would leave Wilson to attempt a repeat on the shtout he handed Linfield earlier in the week, when the Wildcats came here for the return game Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

Bearcats to Enter Track Meet Today

Willamette university's track team will engage in its first competition of the year this afternoon at McMinnville. In a dual meet against Linfield college, Coach Leslie Sparks of the Bearcat team is not optimistic over the prospects for victory, as he has only one athlete on his team who won points consistently last year; Carpenter, who will participate in the high jump, pole vault and weight events.

Faber, who showed much promise in his freshman year, will compete but has not recovered the best of condition since his football injury last fall. He will enter only the pole vault.

Others listed to make the trip are Dumas and Poor, entered in the two mile run; A. French and Lange, middle distance runners; VanDyke and Crnkovich, who will enter the mile run; Morrison, sprinter; Mumford, high jumper; Nelson, pole vaulter and hurdler; and Silke for the discus and shot.

Salem Golfers Defeat Oregon City's Players

The Salem high school golf team defeated the Oregon City amateur swingers 11 1/2 point to one-half point on the Salem Golf club course Thursday afternoon.

Kimball Pare, Salem, 89, 3 points; Lynn Latourette, Oregon City, 92.

George Belt, Salem, 83, 2 1/2 points; Bill Meisler, Oregon City, 86, 1/2 point.

Postal Clerks Get 2 to 1 Win Over Opponents

The post office nine defeated the P. E. P. baseball team 2 to 1 on Sweetland field last night. Rider, post office hurler, retired seven men by the same route. The postal clerks garnered eight runs on the first half of the fifth frame but none of them counted as the wire fixers were unable to come to bat due to arrival of darkness.

CURT COMMENTS

Now, that match Thursday night was what we call wrestling. And judging from the comment we heard, it pleased pretty nearly everybody there. The way the fans booted the rough stuff convinces us that straight, clean wrestling is what the majority wants.

Everybody around us had the same notion about the goading and rabbit punching; that McCann started it. A lot of the boys started pulling for Barrackman then.

Oh, how the Wildcat did hate to forego those chances for rabbit punches. Sometimes he apparently tried to land them and Barrackman just dodged away in time, maybe that was the part of McCann's "showmanship."

"I could have thrown either or both of them out," said Harry Elliott, the referee, after the second fall.

And there was the usual holler after it was all over; some of the fans said Barrackman was down when Mac had his last headlock, and others thought the referee should not have let Barrackman jump on Mac from behind.

But the old rule always applies; keep your eye on your business. As for that claim of a fall for McCann, we were right when we could see it all, and Barrackman had one shoulder up all the time except for a momentary roll. He didn't have them up very far.

Those preliminary boys sure were man-eaters; Elliott had to wrestle as hard as they did to pry them apart when they went through the ropes, and it looked like there'd be a fist fight when it was all over.

Yesterday We Saw A wrestler—we won't tell which one—reciting a sincere, devout prayer when his opponent lay in a punishing hold.

AURORA BALL CLUB SHADES MERIDIAN

AURORA, May 1.—The newly organized Aurora ball team played Meridian Sunday on the home diamond. The score was 12 to 11 in favor of Aurora. This team is being sponsored by the members of the fire department, and the players are selected from the young men of the town and surrounding territory. They will hold a box social and playlet in the near future to help defray the expenses of the team to which the public is cordially invited.

Salem's Ball Club to Play Chemawa Nine Salem and Chemawa Indian school baseball teams will meet in one of the toughest games of the county "A" league series this afternoon on the Chemawa diamond.

The Indians have an efficient pair of slabmen in Alexander and Vivette, who are expected to give the red and black hitters plenty of trouble. On the other hand, Van Cleave of Salem has been showing opposing teams an equal amount of class, and all prospects are for a pitcher's battle, which will have important bearing on the county championship.

Salem Track Men to Invade Eugene

Ten track athletes of Salem high school will go to Eugene Saturday for the annual state track meet conducted by the University of Oregon.

Coach Hollis Huntington has not decided just what events each of his men will enter, but they will be approximately as follows: James, 100 yard dash and hurdles; Dyer, sprints; Cannon, 440 and 880; Shepard, 880 and mile; Keudell, mile; Carpenter, Siegmund and Colgan, 220 and relay; Bishop, 440. Salem high will enter no men in the field events.

VETERAN WINS TWO OUT OF 3

Local Grappler Loses Deciding Fall When He Turns and Walks Away

Wildcat McCann turned his back to his opponent, and thereby lost where he had every opportunity to win, in Thursday night's wrestling match at the armory, one of the fastest contests ever staged here. Mervin Barrackman won two falls out of three from McCann.

These bone crushers were as evenly matched as anyone could ask, and though both were a bit below par because of recent injuries, no one could have guessed it from the way they tore into each other. The first round was a bit rough and the third fast and furious.

Barrackman, the "Old Fox," stuck to his usual defensive game throughout the first round, taking plenty of punishment from the fiery McCann while he waited for a good opening and finally it came. He slipped three face locks in succession on the Irishman and after getting him on the run, clamped on a reverse arm bar that made McCann pound the canvas. The time was 33 minutes, 40 seconds.

There was a lot of goading and a few fly rabbit punches in the second round. A lot of the fans thought McCann started the rough stuff and they were "on" him from then on. Once the Wildcat fetched Barrackman a hard left hook to the jaw after the referee had ordered them to break. But finally McCann wore the bear trainer down with a series of reverse headlocks and pinned him with the last one. This round lasted 15 minutes, 3 seconds.

McCann decided to follow the same tactics in the third round and appeared to be succeeding in his assault on the Albany man's weary neck. Finally he clamped a vicious headlock and bore down, until some fans thought Barrack-

EHMKE MASTERS TRICK

Athletics Veteran Pulls Slicker on Stickmen HOT SUN IS BIG HELP

By EDWARD J. NEIL, Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK, May 1.—(AP)—Howard Ehmke, the long blonde trickster of the Athletics, is enjoying many a quiet chuckle these days at the expense of the baseball experts and the fans who saw him mystify the Chicago Cubs in the first game of the last world series. He'd like to keep on fooling them, but the story is too good to keep.

Every year as pitching arms grow old and lose their cunning the veterans search for something to ward off the inevitable slide back to whence all baseball flesh comes originally—the minors.

man's shoulders were on the mat. But he broke it, and McCann arose and carelessly walked away. Like a flash Barrackman was on him, crushed him to the mat with a body slam and pinned him there. Time four minutes.

The preliminary match was far above standard; the best that has been staged here since the wrestling game was revived. O'Reilly, local 140 pounder, won two out of three falls from Morell of North Bend, taking the first fall in 45 seconds with a Boston crab and the last with a body slam. Morell took the second with a whip wristlock.

"Well you know how hitters complain on the hot days, when the fans in the center field bleachers take off their coats and sit in shirt sleeves. The pitcher then is throwing a white ball with a white background behind him and the batter can't pick it out. My white shirt acted the same as the white expanse of the bleachers, except that it was closer to the hitter and I could maneuver so that it was always in his line of vision.

"I said nothing to any one about it, but I tried it out against the A's in batting practice and it worked. I used that delivery against the Cubs in the first game and struck out 13 of them. And the funniest part of it is that no one discovered what I was doing. Just see if I don't win some ball games with that old slide ball when the weather gets hot this year."

YANK WOMEN ARE DEFEATED

Effect of Recent Ocean Trip Given as One Reason For Result

By FRANK H. KING, Associated Press Staff Writer SUNNINGDALE, Eng., May 1.—(AP)—In 15 matches, five foursomes and ten singles, all featuring fine sportsmanship and better golf than might have been expected from American girls so soon after an Atlantic voyage, Miss Molly Gourlay's British team today won from Miss Glens Collett's American lineup, eight matches to six with one halved.

Triumphing over the American team, the British women accomplished something no British team of men amateurs has been able to do, but whether the British girls are better golfers is a matter of debate which will be continued in the women's championship to be played ten days hence.

Even Yanks Surprised At Closeness of Score The margin separating victory and defeat was so small today that even Miss Collett and the members of her team were surprised. One more American victory would have evened the score.

The British women played better all round golf than the visitors. They were steadier in the pinches and produced better shots with all clubs. However, the Americans made a most creditable showing when it is considered they had just left the Atlantic for the rolling fairways of Sunningdale.

Most of the visitors were still a bit shaky. Miss Maureen Orcutt, who preceded her colleagues, had an opportunity for practice before arrival of her sister playmate and she was the only one to show her genuine form throughout. She was the only American to triumph in the morning and afternoon matches.

Miss Gourlay's victory over Miss Collett was attained through

A Real Callow Crew?

By HARDIN BURNLEY

Rusty Callow, Famous Crew Coach Who is Facing the Big Test of His Career in Attempting to Build a Winning Eight at Penn

CALLOW means young, inexperienced, etc., and in its word sense does not apply at all to the veteran Penn crew which will take the water on the Housatonic River in Connecticut tomorrow to race Yale and Columbia. However, since the famous "Rusty" Callow coaches the Red and Black oarsmen, it is perfectly accurate to refer to them as constituting a Callow crew—one that is so experienced, however, that at times they seem to deserve that other old adjective—"rusty."

Coach Callow seems to have excellent material this year, his third in charge of Penn's crews. Last year his varsity eight won one of those Yale-like "moral victories" when coming in to race Columbia and Washington in the annual Poughkeepsie classic. Not a single man from that sturdy outfit has been lost. In addition, the junior varsity and last year's freshmen have furnished Callow with considerable varsity timber. So abundant is the talent that the varsity vets are having a tough time retaining their old assignments, and "Rusty" is facing a problem of his own. Callow's crew is confronting a real test in its competition with the 1928 and 1929 crews. His 1928 and 1929 crews were "not so hot" in the opinion of Penn grads, students and
