BRUSH COLLEGE HAS PIONEER PROGRAM

School Children Present Incidents of Early Oregon Life

BRUSH COLLEGE, May 12—Fully 200 persons attended the closing exercises of the Brush College school which were given at the Brush College community club meeting held in the school house Friday night. Mrs. Sehon and Mrs. Irons, principal and primary teacher of the school had charge of program arrangements.

The opening number "The Fishing Song" was sung by 13 boys garbed in old overalls and straw hats and carrying fishing poles. Mrs. A. E. Utley accompanied them on the piano.

The next number was a dramatized version in four acts of "The Cabin at Tralls End," a novel of early Oregon history by Sheba Hargraves. Scene and portrayed pioneer days of 1843 and showed the arrival of immigrants in their covered wagon and of their staking out claims. Scene two—A homelike picture of the interior of the log cabin which they erected and tells of a visit of a neighbor who had been in Oregon awhile and who gave them advice on farming. Scene three—a realistic portrayal of Indian life at that time, showing the rescue of an Indian girl who was to be buried alive with the body of an Indian chief. Scene four. The same group a year after their arrival in Oregon, telling of progress made and of the increase in cattle and chickens and good crops.

A tableau followed showing the marriage of an immigrant maiden and youth. The bride wore a wedding gown of sprigged calico and a poke bonnet that had come around Cape Horn. The cast of the play included—Mrs. Bainbridge, the leading part—Mildred Munson; Mr. Bainbridge—Billy Utley, Aggie Clark, an old uncle of Mrs. Bainbridge, who was a leading character—Donald Ewing, the Bainbridge girls, Rose Ann—Angeline Folk and Ester Amelia—Ruth Whitney, two sons—Asa—Antonia Krall and Manuel—Oran Roger, Mr. McDermott, an Oregon settler—Erving Joekel, Aunt Morning, Ann Simmons, humorous immigrant from Missouri—Dorothy Wilkinson, Lassa, the Indian girl—Irene Cutler, Indian boy—William Folk, Dick Skelton, youth who married Rose Ann—Loren Dixon, Circuit rider—Erving Joekel.

The stage properties including the fireplace and covered wagon were made by three boys: William Folk, Myles Wilkinson and Myles Munson who will complete the eighth grade this year. The play was given by the upper grades. The next number was a clever health play in which all of the children in the primary room participated. The main characters were taken by Maxine Olsen, Ruth Munson and Jack Folk. Each child in the play represented a vegetable, a food or a health habit.

The concluding number was a vocal solo given by Irene Cutler, Mrs. W. F. McCall, accompanist. Mrs. Frank Munson and Mrs. W. F. McCall, refreshment committee served a lunch following the program. At the business meeting which preceded the program Mrs. Eleanor Steiner presented the school with a set of encyclopedias. A. E. Utley appointed the following committees for the annual home coming at Brush College in June, program—Mr. A. R. Ewing and Mrs. A. E. Utley; reception—Mrs. U. J. Lehman, Mrs. J.

D. Walling and Mrs. Harriett. Sports, Dr. Blodgett who will choose his helpers, stands—Fred Ewing—to choose own committee; parking—Burrel Oliver and Fred Olsen, refreshments—Brush College helpers, head of publicity, Mrs. John Schindler. The next meeting of the Brush College community club will be held at the "homecoming" picnic.

The chief golf ambition of Bobby Jones is to win the British Amateur title.

Private Ownership — the common sense way

The great utility organizations of the United States which have as their business the operation of electric and water properties in various communities are supervised by men with years of experience in that endeavor.

And these supervisors, in turn, employ for plant operation and for every other activity which has to do with the successful operation of the properties, men who likewise are skilled and experienced. This assures constant, adequate and economical service.

In contrast with publicly-owned utilities, private operations are in a position to, and do, finance improvements with comparative ease.

If a property requires the expenditure of a considerable sum of money to meet the growing demands made by the community, it is not necessary to submit the question to a vote of the electorate and suffer the uncertainty and delay incident to such a procedure, placing the success or failure of the project upon the whim of several thousand people.

The private utility goes out, gets the money, makes the improvement and proceeds about its business.

How long do you suppose it would have been before the voters of Salem approved the expenditure of the $264,000 that the Oregon and Washington Water Service Company has already spent, plus the $300,000 that it is now expending on the new filter plant and other improvements in Salem?

Salem needed the improvements that have been made and are being made. The distribution system needed extensions and reinforcement, and the water supply needed protection. The Oregon-Washington Water Service Company got the money and quietly expended it for the benefit of the City.

The privately-owned public utility pays taxes and contributes to the support of the local government to an amazing extent. This is true all over the country and it is particularly true in Salem where the Oregon-Washington Water Service Company pays back in taxes at Salem MORE THAN 12c OUT OF EVERY DOLLAR THAT IT COLLECTS FROM ALL SOURCES IN SALEM.

In addition to this the Oregon-Washington Water Service Company, and every other utility in Salem, contributes to the support of all community activities.

A privately-operated utility is non-political. It employs its assistants without regard to creed or political preference. Every man stands or falls by his own efforts and each man has an equal opportunity of advancement. The personnel is not changed from "stem to stern" every time the political complexion of the community is changed. Its personnel is constant.
