Barley markets continued dull during the week, influenced by a slow demand both from domestic buyers and exporters, according to the Weekly Barley Market Review of the United States Bureau of agricultural economics. Domestic -No. 2-45 lb. B. W. $28, Corn-No. 2-eastern yellow, shipment $36. Mill-run-standard $28. prices held mostly unchanged, but foreign barleys were offered lower than a week ago in English DAIRY markets. Black Sea shipments continued heavy and constituted about three-fourths of the world exports which totaled 42,700 About 6,000 tons of the tons. Black Sea shipments were of Rus-NUTS, HAY, HOPS sian barley, a cargo of which was reported sold in England during the week at $1.00 per 100. Prices of other Feed grains held practic ally .unchanged in the principal domestic markets, but demand was only of moderate volume. The San Francisco barley market was rather inactive with trading light. Export inquiry was very dull and buyers of Feed barley were generally taking only sufficient for immediate needs. Holders were reported more disposed to sell their surplus of old barley to avoid the payment of new season storage charges which will begin at the first of June, but selling pressure was not heavy. Weather continued favorable for the growth of the crop in the San Joaquin valley where harvesting a few small sales of new crop barley for future shipment have been reported to date. Pacific Northwestern barley markets continued quiet with only a few arrivals reported at Portland, Tacoma and Seattle. These, together with local supplies however, were sufficient for current 365.00 trade needs and the market was weak. No. 2, 46 pound local barley sacked, was quoted at Portland at $1.40, and No. 2, 46 pound eastern barley in bulk, at $1.50 per 100. Mixed feed manufacturers were the principal buyers. Inter-mountain barley markets were also quiet with movement light. No. 3 barley was quoted at Denver at 145.00 $1.20-1.25 and No. 1 feed barley at $1.10-1.15 per 100.

will begin late in the month. Only

Eastern barley markets were also dull but price changes were unimportant. Good malting types were readily taken but there was only a fair inquiry for feed bar-Phone 2125 ley. Choice to fancy malting barley was quoted May 8 at Minneapolis at $1.20-1.22 and at Chicago at $1.31-1.37 per 100. Feed barley was quoted at Minneapolis at 99c to $1.10, and at Chicago at
