Mrs. Denton Gives Music Week Report

At the regular meeting of the Salem Music Teachers association held at the home of Mrs. Guy F. Phelps, Tuesday night, Mrs. Walter A. Denton, chairman of the music week program, made a complete report of the results of "better music week" observances in Salem.

The celebration met with greater cooperation and enthusiasm this year than it has ever met before, Mrs. Denton reported. Four programs of outstanding nature given during the week were the Monday "at home" night given in at least 50 homes of Salem at which time musical programs of all sorts were given to the public and others private. A second program of interest was the delightful recital given at the studio of Prof. and Mrs. T. S. Roberts as an appropriate opening of better music week. At this time guests were received during the afternoon hours between 3 and 5 o'clock, and a musical program of piano, violin and organ numbers was given in the lovely studio which is perhaps not excelled in any cities much larger than Salem.

The final two outstanding programs were the community programs which were attended by thousands of Salem folk and upon which appeared a large part of the musical talent of Salem. These programs were a success financially as well as artistically. Mrs. Denton reported. One of the "finds" of these programs was the delightfully developed little symphony orchestra which really made its debut at the Thursday night program and which has been developed by William Wallace Graham during this past winter.

Increased interest in churches in the music week celebration was mentioned appreciatively by Mrs. Denton, as well as the response of surrounding localities near to Salem.

The association expressed its satisfaction at the excellent manner in which Mrs. Denton and her committee had managed and developed "better music" week in Salem this year.
