

YANKS DEFEAT BRITISH GOLF TEAM EASILY

United States Players Take Walker Cup Honors For Sixth Time

By FRANK H. KING Associated Press Staff Writer SANDWICH, England, May 16 (AP)—With ten matches won and only two lost, the United States team today won the Walker cup for the sixth time.

Wethered's team the most decisive defeat a British team ever received in this country. The largest crowds ever to see Walker cup matches in England watched the contests.

The Prince of Wales followed the matches for days, the four some yesterday and singles today, with a set of big binoculars added to his equipment today. He really needed a ladder to see over the crowd, numbering more than 5,000. There were 3,700 paid admissions.

In singles matches today, the British were able to win only one, T. A. Torrance drubbing Francis Outmet, seven up and six to play. As the Americans won three of the four four-ommes, the final score was 10 to 2. Two years ago at the Chicago Golf club the Americans won 11 to 1, Torrance, then as now, winning the only singles match for the British.

The position of the American team this morning was that the players from the United States needed to win the three matches and have one of the British men consolidate their position before luncheon time. Jones, Roland MacKenzie and George Voigt had big leads, Harrison R. Johnston had a comfortable advantage over Cyril J. H. Tolley and George Von Elm and Rex Hartley were all square.

Dr. O. P. Willing and Don Moe were behind, but in position to make a threat in the afternoon and the defeat of Outmet, who could not make his putter believe, was indicated.

It was the afternoon play that finished the British and excited men sending the Prince of Wales and other golfers scurrying over the big sand dunes to witness golfing drama.

Wethered almost struck the Prince of Wales in the head with one of his wild shots which contributed to his defeat by Jones, nine up and eight to play. The most severe of all their long and friendly rivalry in international golf.

George Voigt's victory over Sir Ernest Holderness, ten up and eight to play, was the most crushing blow to Britain, but young Don Moe is the hero of the Walker cup team.

Fighting against a four hole handicap after the morning 18, the young Oregonian shot a sensational 67 on a course conceded to be one of the most to score on anywhere. In a great finish which will write Moe's name in golfing history, he defeated M. Stout, on up, when he was seven down with 15 holes left to play.

Four down at lunch, the Oregon youngster saw his opponent start the afternoon round with three holes in a row to go down. Then the Portland boy went into action. He shot the next six holes in 20 strokes to get five of the holes back and on the second nine, he regained the other two.

The climax came at the home hole. The youngster fired a great shot from 200 yards straight to the green, the ball stopping three feet from the cup. Stout missed a putt for a four and conceded defeat. This putt and one on the 15th were the only two Moe failed to hole, so his "approximate 67" was not very approximate.

Dr. O. P. Willing made a great recovery and after being one down after 18 holes came back to win at the 35th hole where he sent an iron to within eight feet of the cup from a more than 200 yards.

Andy Peterson, Bearcat freshman speed ball artist, was at top form and struck out 14 opposing batters, allowing five hits, three of which were bunched in the third inning to account for St. Martin's one run.

Walt Erickson accounted for enough of Willamette's runs to win the game, driving in Braly and Seales, with three batters in from second with a single in the seventh. Willamette's other run was made on a hit by Seales, Erickson's sacrifice and an error.

CURT COMMENTS CURTIS

The C. J. reported that a host of people wanted to vote "the worst way." That was when it began to look bad for municipal ownership.

St. Martin's college sent its ball team a long way, but one of the boys must have felt right at home; Keber, shortstop, one of the Mt. Angel Kebers, and he performed in a manner to do credit to the family.

Nearly everything Willamette's meaneat slugs hit into fair territory plumped right into the mitt of this roving youngster, and he always knew what to do with the ball.

We still don't know which is the best pitcher, Peterson or Wilson. Peterson was up against a real ball team Friday and his 14 strikeouts looked good. Wilson equalled that record against Linfield, struck out 11 Pacific men here, and we haven't the records right at hand on his other performances but those are sufficient to show that he's right up among 'em.

Des Anderson has been getting some neat press notices up in Washington. One paper said: "In the second bout... Jack McLaughlin, British Columbia middleweight champion, will tangle with Des Anderson, a protégé of Ted Thye, in a bout that is bound to be clean. Both use scientific methods for their falls, gaining new popularity with each appearance. They are touted as having a great deal of knowledge in the grappling art."

Yesterday We Saw A nice old lady approach the election box and ask for a "blue" ballot. After she got it the election board discovered she was registered as a republican. She politely explained she wanted to vote democratic, but the meanees wouldn't let her.

UPSET SEEN IN WOMEN'S MEET

Miss Diana Fishwick Wins By Four up and Three To Play

By VICTOR EURBANK Associated Press Staff Writer FROMBY, Eng., May 16 (AP)—Miss Diana Fishwick, a mere slip of a girl in her teens, today defeated Miss Glenna Collett, American champion, 4 up and three to play to win the British women's golf championship the first time she tried.

Miss Collett lost to Miss Fishwick at the 33rd hole after the clever American girl had fought her way through six rounds and defeated three of the greatest players on this side of the Atlantic. As a matter of fact in all but the actual count of holes, Miss Fishwick was the victor after the morning round when the players went to luncheon, with the British girl five up.

Putting lost the day for Glenna although many of her other shots were not all that they should have been. She played as though she was very tired, which she should have been after opposing the English champion, Molly Gourlay for 21 holes and barely noising out Edna Wilson and Hilda Cameron on the 18th green.

It was a day of summer weather and bright sunshine as though made for the American. A gallery of 2,000 in the morning and 5,000 in the afternoon showed the interest in the match although the British really had little hope for the youthful Diana's success.

Glenna was off to a good start, winning the first hole but she missed a five foot putt at the second to see the match squared. Miss Collett took three putts at the fourth and from then on she had trouble with her erratic putter.

Conference Title to Be Decided in Three Game Series in City

Willamette university and Whitman college baseball teams will play a three game series for the Northwest conference championship in Salem May 21, 22 and 23, provided that Whitman accepts those dates it was announced Friday by athletic authorities at Willamette.

Word was received Friday that Whitman had won the second series of games from College of Idaho and thereby qualified as champion in the eastern division of the conference.

Whitman suggested May 22, 23 and 24 as the dates for the series, but this cannot be arranged because of the circus here on the 24th.

Despite the fact that finances are not assured for playing the series here, Coach "Spec" Keene and Graduate Manager Les Sparks of Willamette have decided to schedule it and count upon support sufficient to pay the guarantee to Whitman. Tickets will go on sale within a few days.

Two "Dead" Arm Miracles

By HARDIN BURNLEY

THE FATE OF THE CUBS AND DODGERS RESTS LARGELY UPON THE AILING ARMS OF HARTNETT AND WRIGHT -- WILL THEY STAND THE GAFF?

DEAD or dying throwing arms—much of their old-time dazzling throwing power. Both were noted among professional baseball players. And such afflictions are not rare in the national game. Sore salary wings have dimmed many a star, some of whom have been on the rise until some extraordinary strain took the zip from their throats and made them even more useless than a gun without ammunition.

Two striking examples of this sad fate are familiar to fans—Glenn Wright, now Brooklyn's shortstop, and "Gabby" Hartnett, Chicago Cub catcher, both of whom believe they've brought their dead arms back to life after long rests and much medication.
