Mrs. Charles Hudkins To Be Monday Hostess

One of the attractive church affairs for this week will be that for which Mrs. Charles Hudkins will receive members of the South Division of the Presbyterian church who are meeting in special compliment to Mrs. Sarah Green and Mrs. Estella Ford Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. John Harrison is in charge of arrangements.

The affair will be informal and will include several musical numbers and readings. The afternoon is in special compliment to Mrs. Ford and Mrs. Green because of the fact that they will leave Salem sometime this summer or early fall, and it was the desire of the group to compliment them before vacation time took too many of the members away. Mrs. Ford and Mrs. Green will go east sometime during the vacation season to join Dr. Estella Ford Warner.

Mrs. Carl O. Engstrom, prominent in Rebelah lodge circles, who is attending the Grand lodge in Portland this week.

The Thursday afternoon social meeting for which women of the Calvary Baptist church were hostesses to 30 women of the Lebanon Baptist church was a delightful success. The social rooms of the church were artistically arranged with a profusion of spring flowers. The program was given by members of the Lebanon women's group, with Mrs. H. E. Gates in charge. Refreshments were served by the Salem women. Tea served by the Salem women.

What Paris is Wearing

By K. DONNAY

PARIS—Higher waistlines have cast a monkey wrench into the machinery of fashions in Paris. The dozens of costume accessories that women used to wear around their throats and on their shoulders—flowers, necklaces and brooches—are forced to move below the waistline.

This new plan for costume accessories is responsible for many of the new fashions of 1930. For example, there is the necklace-belt—a girle that is made of jewels; there is the hip flower—a corsage that was last year worn on the shoulders; and there is the double-size brooch that is always worn below the waistline.

This new-type jeweled pin, that is much larger than its last year's version, is worn by many women to conceal any lines about the waist and hips that do not correspond with the measurements of the perfect figure. It gives an accent that detracts from any too definite marking of the natural waistline.

It is often used as a knot for a large bow that extends from above the waist to below—such as the one used on the back of this Ardan gown of yellow chiffon. The brooch here pictured, repeated the tones of the gown in some light.
