ROTARY HEARS NEW GOVERNOR

Politics, Life in General, State Chamber's Work Discussed

Ralph Hamilton, acting governor, speaker of the house of representatives, was the speaker at the luncheon of the Rotary club yesterday noon. Hamilton talked of politics, life, and sundry other matters that interested his auditors immensely. Carl Abrams introduced him as a man who might move from Bend to Salem when some large duty called him. But Hamilton replied with fervent loyalty to his home town of Bend, that it would have to be some great temptation to get him to leave his home there whose lawn runs down to the banks of the dashing Deschutes, and whose windows open on the snow-clad peaks of the Cascades.

Dealing with political matters Hamilton talked of taxes, and said people had the wrong attitude. They are anxious to have county courts and legislatures and school boards make appropriations to finance undertakings, but when the tax bill comes they are apt to grumble and complain. You can't have these things free, you have to pay for them," he declared.

Hamilton is president of the state chamber of commerce and told something of its great task in promoting development of Oregon resources. He cited the specifications of the new postoffice at Klamath Falls which call for the use of Bedford stone from Indiana, when just over the hill at Ashland is very fine granite.

Another speaker at the luncheon was Rev. Gillstrap of Turner, who told of the boys' school there which accommodates 24 boys and is performing a very useful work in providing these boys with a home.

QUARANTINE FRUIT MISSED NARROWLY

That Oregon barely escaped a state-wide federal quarantine against one of its fruit crops that brings over a million dollars yearly into the state was information given the Marion county court Wednesday by H. S. Merriam of Goshen, member of the state board of horticulture for western Oregon.

Merriam would not give the name of the disease, the particular fruit involved or the location of the orchard. He said the disease was discovered by a county inspector who had identified at the state college, and that although a federal inspector urged Washington authorities to declare a state-wide quarantine the state experts got the disease under control in time to avoid a quarantine.

Had the ban been declared Merriam said it would have been almost as serious as the quarantine placed on the state of Florida after discovery of the Mediterranean fruit fly there.

VISITOR FROM SOUTH — Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mitchell and family visited Monday afternoon with Margaret Mulkey in Salem. Miss Mulkey is a cousin of Mrs. Mitchell. She is on a month's vacation from Long Beach, Calif., and is at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. S. A. Riggs.

Chicago will vote July 1 on a unified traction plan which, if approved, will assure the city of a subway.

TYPES - TYPES - TYPES

What's your type? Pick it out from the medley here and then if you are interested in knowing how you "screen" take yourself to the Dagmar studios, room 490 Oregon building, and tell the cameraman over there you want to go through the test that hundreds of Salem people are going through these days. The Dagmar company is now selecting a cast to take the roles and minor parts in the Willamette valley picture, "The Purple Flood." Every Salem person who has any ambition—and who wants to be in a real movie, has an opportunity to do so now.

LARSON DEMANDS HE BE GIVEN LICENSE

State Embalming Board Back on Promise Is Claim in Court

A petition in mandamus demanding that he be given a license as embalmer in Oregon, was filed in circuit court here Tuesday by R. F. Larson who named the State Embalming board as defendants in the action. Judge L. H. McMahon set June 12 as the time when the defendants must come into court to make any answer they wish to present why the license shall not be granted. Glen S. Macy, W. F. Walker and Frederick D. Stricker are members of the board. Larson claims that he was a practicing embalmer in Kansas from 1906 to 1927. When he removed to Oregon in 1928 the board, he claims, promised him a license when he produced his certificate showing his character to be good as well as a $30 fee. All these qualifications have been met, Larson alleges.

On the board's promise he purchased property in Silverton and made it over into a mortuary. Larson says he would be damaged in this investment to the extent of $10,000 if the license is not granted.

The board, he asserts, now asks that he take an examination.

THIRD DAMAGE CASE FOR HILLS STILL ON

Verdict Not Expected Until Late Today; Plaintiffs Win in First Cases

A verdict in the case of Wilma Hill and G. C. Conlee against Seth Hawk and K. W. Harritt is not expected until this afternoon in circuit court since only one of the lawyers in the case had submitted his argument up to adjournment time Wednesday.

The case is the third brought against the defendants as a result of an auto accident which occurred at Brunk's corners on the Dallas highway, December 31, 1929.

Wilma Hill seeks damages of $800; Conlee requests a judgment of $1,700 from the defendants. Fawk and Harritt were driving separate cars. They dispute each other's liability for the accident.

In the two cases tried earlier in the term of court, Linnie Hill received a verdict of $2,400, while J. E. Hill received an award of one dollar.

The next case on the docket is that of Florence vs. Christen, a suit to recover damages due to auto accident.

Alpha Kappa Nu Members Named At Willamette

Announcement of the election of eight senior girls to Alpha Kappa Nu, national honorary society, was announced at chapel exercises at Willamette Wednesday. Judge O. F. Coshove of the state supreme court delivered the address, speaking on the value of an education.

Those were elected by the faculty:

High school girls in Batavia, N. Y., must have their parents' permission in writing before they may go stockingless.

Some Girl to Be Very Glad With Dolly!

There is some little girl in this city who on July 22, will be so happy words will fail to express a slight part of her joy. The reason? Then she will have for her very own, a doll like of which, neither she nor her playmates have ever seen. This is a doll 24 inches tall, which talks, sings, and even says its prayers, will be her very own.

None of her playmates will be able to coax his father and mother to buy a doll like it for there are none to be bought. The only way which they can be had is by winning them and that is done by collecting votes which are being given with every purchase made by 35 merchants of Salem and also at the Fox Elsinore theatre.

These votes will be obtainable until July 22, and on that date the votes will be counted and somebody is going to go home so happy that Christmas will be like the measles in comparison.

The doll has a place in its back where a tiny non-destructible record can be inserted. These records will play five songs, which when playing, sound as though the doll was singing. There is also a talking record, and one which makes her say her prayers.

HYETT'S NOTE HELD NOT TO BE PROPER

J. W. Hyett, individually and as administrator for his wife's estate, was acquitted of all liability for certain notes given the Bank of Freewater, Oregon, under a decree issued by Judge L. H. McMahan here Wednesday. The court held that Hyett executed the notes at the banks request to cover a "dummy" stock transaction and that Hyett never received any value for the notes.

Subsequently when the bank was sold, the buyers attempted to collect the notes amounting in total to $5640 from Hyett. The court set the notes aside.
