ROSEDALE-Despite the fact that Rosedale school patrons have seemed satisfied with the arrangepils from this district were transported to the Liberty school, a special election held in this district last night resulted in decision to reopen the Rosedale school this fall. The vote was close, losing side. This election apparently ends several attempts to bring about consolidation of the Rosedale and liberty districts, which has been talked for the past few months.

The Rosedale schoolhouse has been idle this year, while all pupils from that district were transported to the Liberty school. This move was made last fall because the Rosedale patrons felt it would be cheaper to the district to send the pupils to the Liberty school and also because they felt the students would have better educational advantages at the larger school.
