JURY SELECTION IN MULTNOMAH LEGAL

The method adopted by Jury Commissioner Bush and Deputy County Clerk Gleason in drawing the jury list for Multnomah county for 1930, was legal, with the exception that they did not select names alternately, according to an opinion handed down here Thursday by I. H. Van Winkle, attorney general.

Bush selected approximately 2500 names from the county assessment rolls, by taking one name from a block, then skipping two or three blocks and selecting another. Deputy Clerk Gleason consulted the registration records and selected 2500 names by drawing a certain number of cards from the file of each precinct. Uniform geographical distribution was considered.

When a card was drawn from the registration records it was consulted to determine whether the person appeared to be literate and physically able for jury service. Exemptions were determined from last year's list. After both Gleason and Bush had prepared their cards they met and arranged them in alphabetical order, and from the list the names of the jury list were compiled.

The attorney general, in his opinion, held that the statute provides that the clerk and the commissioner shall alternately select one name and place the same in the box. Because of this statute, the attorney general said the deputy clerk and jury commissioner should have worked jointly and selected the names alternately from the original source, which, under the 1929 amendment, might be either wholly from the tax rolls or registration books, or both.

AWARD TO BE MADE TO SENIOR ATHLETE

Usually cups and prizes at commencement time go to the outstanding students, but beginning with the graduation exercises next Monday some Willamette university senior will receive honors as the outstanding athlete.

Awarding of the honor will be to the senior, who, in his final year, has maintained a high standard of scholarship, wholesome influence, and has excelled outstandingly in athletics. J. H. Booth of Roseburg, a member of the board of trustees, is the donor.

The manner of selecting the winner has not been definitely decided, but it is probable that two or three will be nominated by a committee composed of the head

TELEGRAMS MAY GO DIRECT FROM HOME

Over 7,000 telephone subscribers in Salem will today be able to telephone their postal telegrams direct from home or office telephones to more than 78,000 points in the United States and Canada to Europe, South America, the Orient and to ship at sea, according to W. B. Wilmot, ranger for postal telegraph and cable company.

Mr. Wilmot explains that inauguration of this new service virtually gives every telephone subscriber here the facilities of a postal telegraph office at his or her telephone and is part of the postal telegraph development program in this section. Subscribers desiring to telephone their telegrams will ask the operator for postal telegraph and then give the message to a postal operator. The charges will appear on the monthly telephone bill.

"Through its affiliation with the international system," Wilmot pointed out, "postal telegraph goes to Europe, Asia and the Orient over commercial cables, to the West Indies, Central and South America, over all American cables, and to ships at sea via MacKay radio, and the new system of telephoning your postal telegrams permits persons to send telegrams cablegrams, or radiograms to any of these places."
