Passes Senate by Two Votes Margin as Predicted; Debate Lengthy

Industrialists are obvious and portend only unemployment or cheapened labor in this country."

Watson conceded business was depressed but predicted the nation would be on the "upgrade financially" within thirty days from enactment of the bill and in a year's time "we shall regain the peak of prosperity and position we lost in October."

Senator Robinson said the measure was "a disappointment to its supporters" and "instead of promoting the prosperity of agriculture it perpetuates and intensifies the inequalities and discriminations between agriculture and other industries."

Hawley Greeted

With Big Applause

Borah contended whatever benefit the farmers would receive under the bill would be more than offset by raises in industrial rates.

Chairman Hawley of the ways and means committee was given credit with prolonged applause when he told the house of the senate action and said he would call up the measure Saturday.

Senators Smoot, republican, Utah and Simmons, North Carolina, chairman and ranking member of the senate finance committee, were lauded for their untiring efforts in connection with the long and weary fight.

NO CHARGES IN MERRIAM CASE

Hearing on Resignation is Not Demanded But Will Be Held Anyway

The Merriam "charges" and said he was not acquainted with Van Trump or his work in the county. Banks indicated the principal purpose of his visit would be to impress upon state officials the necessity for equity on the part of inspectors in their work with all classes of producers. Mr. Banks has said repeatedly through his paper that compulsory cooperation among farmers is unconstitutional and that unscrupulous means being used by men "behind the government" to penalize independent growers who dare to oppose the high-handed methods of enforced cooperation.

BONDHOLDERS WILL GET CASH PAYMENT

Payment of 25 cents on the dollar to all bondholders of the Warm Springs irrigation district who have deposited their bonds with the state engineer, was authorized by the state reclamation commission at a meeting held here Friday.

These bondholders also will receive refunding bonds representing 25 per cent of their holdings. These refunding bonds have been issued, but will not be distributed until such time as they are approved by the state reclamation commission.

The payment of 25 cents on the dollar on bonds deposited with the state engineer was made in connection with the reorganization of the district. The Warm Springs district is one of the largest irrigation projects in the state.

Rhea Luper, state engineer, said that more than 95 per cent of the outstanding bonds had been deposited in his office, and that he expected to receive at least 98 per cent of the total before the reorganization program is completed.

The reclamation commission also authorized the state engineer to proceed with the reorganization of the Snow Creek and Slide irrigation districts. The Slide district includes 1200 acres of land and has outstanding bonds of $100,000. It is located in Deschutes county.

The Snow Creek district is located in Snake river valley and contains 1000 acres. It has outstanding bonds in the amount of $40,000.

Friday 13th Bugaboo Is Still Alive

By OLIVE DOAK

Friday, the 13th, has come and gone. If you see a black cat today you will not feel such an urgent need to turn back and go around the block in the opposite direction. A walk under a ladder will not be half so appalling, and if you see a pin you may pick it up without fear that some catastrophe will happen to you while you have your head down.

These terrible black letter days! The age of superstition has passed, so they say, but still lingers that lurking heritage, a fear of the unknown. We no longer burn witches at the stake for being the provocateurs in danger, but we still speak of Friday the 13th, in recognition of its bad omen; we still hear of people who believe in ghosts; we still pay money to have our fortunes told; we still tell children that it is bad luck to climb out of windows, the latter is a practical warning at least; and we still carry a crooked stick to determine where a well may be successfully sunk.

You may not have any of these practices left to you in all tokens of superstition, but it is safe to wager that there is something you consider to be a "lucky" thing for you. What more is that than superstition, the force which is so truly the direct progeny of ignorance? Not the ignorance which comes from not being educated or intelligent, but the ignorance which comes from living in forces of science which we do not yet understand.

Something makes something happen; we do not know the reason; we try to find the reason, it based on the result is certain, the actions of the past we have buried, but they rule us from their grave.

We no longer burn witches, no, and we no longer fear sitting in the 13th chair on Friday the 13th day of the month, but we still do repeat the old formulae and to a certain extent it is true that "the actions of the past we have buried, but they rule us from their grave."

WAR MOTHERS WILL CELEBRATE SUNDAY

The American War Mothers of Oregon are to hold their annual picnic celebration at Champoug park tomorrow. Members from Portland, Salem and other cities will be present. Mrs. Edyth Tosler Weathered, writing to Mrs. Mark Skiff of Salem, state president of the War Mothers, says:

"June 15, 1928, the United States and England settled the boundary line between the two countries, thus making this a very important date in history. The Oregon Pioneer association was organized in 1873, and at a later meeting made June 15th a day of celebration. June 15th is national flag day. Thus the War Mothers are pleased to celebrate and commemorate this important date in the history of our state and nation. The first United States flag to float over the undisputed Oregon territory was a flag from the wreck of the schooner Shark, wrecked at the mouth of the Columbia in December, 1846. Lieutenant Howison gave the flag to Governor Abernathy."

SLAYER OF LINGLE SEEN SAYS REPORT

CHICAGO, June 13—(AP)—A report that the slayer of Alfred "Jake" Lingle, Tribune reporter, was seen in St. Louis yesterday was received by Chicago police today as they continued their onslaught on the underworld arrested more than 1,000 persons.

St. Louis story came from Melvin Pryor, itinerant painter, who said he talked with Lingle's slayer just before the shot was fired and then saw him again yesterday at Grand and Olive streets in St. Louis.

Although Chicago authorities were greatly interested in the report and asked St. Louis police to drive Pryor through the streets in the hope he might see the alleged slayer again, they allowed no setup in their drive against the hoodlums which followed the slaying of the veteran crime reporter and the attendant public clamor for action.

M'REYNOLDS WINS HYDROPLANE RACE

The Willamette river was the site for two speed boat races Friday evening. Events were divided up into a race for hydroplanes and a race for rowboats with the tiny outboard motors hung over their stern.

In the first race between the hydroplanes, Ed McReynolds, with a four cylinder engine won by 100 yards over his nearest competitor, Lorien Grier, in a two-cylinder powered craft. McReynolds was handicapped 100 yards at the beginning of the race.

Paul Katory, third entry in the race, had trouble with his motor. After finishing one-half of the mile and a half course he dropped out. He hit a snag just before the event and damaged his propeller. Win Jenks, registered for the race, failed to enter.

The row boat race had two entries. Theron Kent got away to a good start and continued to draw away from Eugene Weathered until at the finish he was 75 yards in the lead.

$1050 CROP GROWN ON TWO ACRE AREA

There is in the Marion county farm census records going to Washington the testimony of a man 83 years of age who, in 1929, had a crop that had a sale price of $1050. It was tobacco.

It is safe to assume that, by the time the tobacco reached the consumer, in the shape of cigars, it had a selling value of several times that sum.

Regular readers of The Statesman will remember articles written three and four years ago, showing that the Willamette valley produces an excellent quality of tobacco, to be used in the making of fine cigars. This fact has been capable of demonstration for a number of years. It is a wonder that this matter has not had greater exploitation.

Any community of farmers in the Willamette valley, having suitable soil, of which there are many thousands of acres could grow a few acres of tobacco on each farm, pool their interests in curing the product and making the cigars, and marketing them, and thus have a business of their own that would pay a larger and more certain net profit than is made by the orange growers of California, with land worth $2000 to $5000 an acre.

Washington county—Approximately 9.3 miles of regrading and rock shoulder construction, Multnomah county line-Middleton section of west side Pacific highway.

Wheeler county—Construction of 18 miles of broken stone surfacing and furnishing of broken stone for betterment purposes on Mitchell-Willow creek section of Ochoco highway.

Coos county—Construction of frame storage building at state highway department shops at Coquille.

Klamath county—Construction of addition to state highway department shops at Klamath Falls.

BANK DECISION NOT TO AFFECT OREGON

The recent decision of the supreme court of the state of Washington holding invalid the law of that state, will in no way affect the tax laws now in effect in Oregon, according to announcement made by the state tax commission here Friday.

"The state of Washington," officials said, "has a constitutional requirement that all property must be taxed at uniform rates, and does not allow for the classification of property. No such tax as an income tax or Oregon's intangibles and excise taxes can be imposed under it."

Officials said the Oregon amendment of 1917 provided for the classification of property, so that different classes can be taxed at different rates. If banks were taxed in Washington they would have to be taxed at the same rate as all other property is taxed, but the courts previously held against that.

An amendment correcting the Washington tax situation will be on the ballot this fall. The amendment was submitted to the people in Oregon four times before it was adopted.

can be accepted.

Between 70 and 80 paid circulators will be placed in the field early next week, Bylander said. Approximately 15,650 signatures of qualified electors will be required to insure the initiative measure a place on the November ballot.

Ballot title for the measure already has been prepared by the attorney general. One of the principal objections to the petitions is that the word referendum instead of initiative appears in several places.

Bylander said here Friday that he also was assisting in the circulation of initiative petitions which would prohibit the manufacture, sale or possession of cigarettes in Oregon. This measure, if completed, also will appear on the November ballot.

TIME LACKING FOR COMMERCIAL WORK

The commercial department at the senior high school has been materially handicapped this year through lack of time, Merritt Davis, head of the department, says in his annual report to the city superintendent. Because of this, it has not been possible to reach the same high standards of the past, the report says. Part of the report follows and is self-explanatory:

"The subjects thus affected by the new schedule are bookkeeping and accounting, shorthand, typewriting and office training.

"The department was unable to send out students for apprentice work in the business offices as has been done in the past. This has somewhat affected the placement work as the students did not have an opportunity to try out for positions.

"The subjects of commercial arithmetic, commercial geography, law, penmanship and spelling and business English have been benefited by the new schedule.

"The work of the department is now being arranged to fit the new schedule which will place the commercial work on the academic basis."

Inmate Escapes From Hospital

Kale Alatalo, 43, escaped from the state hospital here early Friday by prying open a window of the ward in which he was housed. Alatalo is 43 years old and was received at the hospital from Clatsop county in May, 1928.

Hospital officials said he was lame, and probably would attempt to return to his home near Astoria.

OIL TRUCK RULING CHANGE IS SOUGHT

Ruling by the government which would permit the transportation of road oil in tank trucks on ferries carrying passengers between Astoria and Ilwaco, Wash., was urged by J. M. Devers, attorney for the Oregon state highway department, in a telegram sent to Senator McNary, Friday.

Devers pointed out in his telegram that a ruling of the federal steam boat inspectors prevent ferry owners from carrying road oil and passengers on the same boat and requires that oil tanks shall be carried on special trips with no passengers on board.

"This ruling interferes with road construction," said Devers in telegram, "and is not necessary for the safety of the public. Oil in tanks is transported under no pressure and at atmospheric temperature which prevents it being ignited by flame."

Devers informed Senator McNary that Senator Jones of Washington has complete data since the controversy was occasioned by a highway contract in Washington.

Edgar Probably Thinks it Was Well Worth It

PORTLAND, Ore., June 13 —(AP)—Edgar E. Piper, son of Edgar B. Piper, late editor of the Oregonian, pleaded guilty in United States district court here today to charges of assault on Herbert Gordon Dyer, self-styled "Oregon Walcott," and was fined $50. The attack is alleged to have taken place while Duncan was under arrest on federal property.

The alleged assault was said to have been the outgrowth of remarks broadcast over the radio by Duncan attacking the late Edgar B. Piper as well as the defendant and other prominent citizens.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 13 —(AP)—Dr. Otto C. Hggemeier, of Astoria, today was installed as grand master of the grand lodge of the ancient free and accepted Masons of Oregon. He was presented with a gold watch by the Seaside district of which he is a member.

Auto Collision Report Is Made

An automobile driven by Florence Huston, 2099 South High street, collided with one operated by a driver named Plov, Friday. She was reported driving south on High street and was about to pass Plov, when he suddenly turned abruptly in front of her car without giving any warning signal.

Miss Huston is said to have sounded her horn and applied the brakes in time to avoid a collision. Plov turned in the middle of a block towards a runway, evidently intending to back up and go in the opposite direction. He admitted he was newly at fault, according to a report to the local police.

Building Permits Issued Are Few

Building permits were few Friday, only three being granted. The Carlton Pioneer Roof company obtained permission to re-roof a dwelling at 1676 North Commercial at an estimated cost of $150.

E. A. Pruitt was granted the right to alter a dwelling at 1751 Hickory street for $45, and Joe J. Sproul is to alter a dwelling at 528 Knapp street for $30.
