Eddie Hogan Beats Frank Dolp to Enter Northwest Finals

For Winner: Cool in Tight Places

VANCOUVER GOLF CLUB, the greatest thrill of his life today when his big brother sank a ten fool putt at his feet to eliminate Frank Dolp of Portland, defending champion, and enter the finals for the 1930 Pacific northwest amateur golf crown.

Eddle Hogan, 19 year old Portland boy, received all the honor and glory for conquering the veteran golf champion but it was really the combination of Caddy Johnny Hogan and golfer Eddie Hogan that beat the wizard of the northwest.

Johnny came all the way up to the tournament not only to carry his big brother's clubs but to see that he used the right ones and little Johnny brought him into a 2 and 1 victory over the twice former western amateur cham-

> But the league will be playing in the first half for the two following Sundays, the Senators going to Eugene a week from this coming Sunday and playing Corvallis here the following

That appears a bit complicated and a new wrinkle in schedule making, but it'll work out all right. The reason is that the rules call for each team to play each other team three times in the first half and three in the second half. Salem and Albany have played three times in the first half; so have Eugene and Corvallis. But Salem has played Eugene and Corvallis only twice. This problem was taken up at a league meeting and settled as described above.

Another little hint we gathered while checking upon this schedule thing with the league officials at Eugene, was that Billy Sullivan, who just joined the Senators last Sunday, is figured to draw a few more customers to the box offices all around the circuit. Billy is known from his former feats of hitting and fielding, and is counted on to add some color to the games.

The league hasn't been drawing o well, not because it isn't a red hot circuit with plenty of fight when he won the 16th and 18th and interest for the fans, but simply because the fans haven't the shekels to spare.

Anyway, when they go into the game tomorrow at Albany. bottom-if they win, they'll be tied for first place and stay that way for three weeks, barring accidents. Hoping you are the same, we remain. -0-
