

Local News Briefs

L. A. People Held—Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Hoard, Los Angeles, spent Saturday and Sunday in Salem, puzzling over a warrant charging them with grand larceny which caused their arrest early Saturday. The Howards, middle aged and refined, were touring the northwest with a daughter when Salem police apprehended them. They say they sold a small confectionery store in Los Angeles some time ago, but are unable to understand where a charge of grand larceny against them could have originated. The daughter is staying at a local hotel, while Mr. and Mrs. Hoard are being held for Los Angeles authorities.

Ruby—Sun's Gem—Lucky For Leo People

By PAULINE

"The gleaming ruby should adorn All those who in July are born."

JULY, which feels the full power of the summer sun, has as its birthstone the Sun's own gem, the Ruby, which is therefore closely connected to magic lore and legend of the past with the Sun's virtues—benevolence, dignity and the warm vitality of the life force.

These are also the outstanding qualities astrology associates with persons born between July 24 and August 24, under the Sun's sign Leo, symbolized by the Lion, or who have the sign dominant in their horoscopes. These persons are fiery and magnetic, bold and self-confident, exceedingly robust and inclined to be dictatorial, and yet with a sunny, kind outlook that has a strong popular appeal. Richard III, or "Richard the Lion-hearted," as he was depicted in the movie version of "Robin Hood," is a good portrayal in broad strokes of the Leo type. Attracting others to them by their magnetism and warm humanity, they are born leaders, and no one is more convinced of this than they are themselves. It is intolerable for them to accept dictation from others, and they simply have to be the center of their own special little universe. As long as the precedence is accorded them, they make the most cheerful, delightful companions, but let it be taken away and the immediate effect is that of the sun going behind a very dark cloud.

PORTRAITS TELL ACCURATE STORY OF INDIVIDUAL LIFE VIEW OF KATHRYN GUNNELL

Salem Photographer Went From Painting Career Into Work of Photographer

By OLIVE DOAK

Twelve years ago Miss Kathryn Gunnell and B. B. Robb opened a photographic studio under the firm name of Gunnell and Robb on the fourth floor of the Oregon building. Each member has specialized in a particular branch of the work. Miss Gunnell specializing as a photographer of women and children, and Mr. Robb upon depicting character portraits of men. In October 1926, the firm moved to the present location in the Capitol theatre building, where they have a ground floor location and the very latest in equipment.

Gunnell-Robb Kathryn Gunnell

Miss Gunnell originally studied and was preparing herself to become a portrait painter of canvas when photography claimed her attention, and she has found that so fascinating, she has remained in this branch of art. However, she attributes her success to a thorough foundation training in art, as the rules governing composition, line and balance of masses are the same in photography.

I have been requested by painters to photograph an individual whom they were painting, in order that they might have an accurate impression of the individual's expression and general characteristics.

With the coming of the photographic canvas painting, Miss Gunnell believes it will now be possible for every family to have a genuine portrait painting of some dear one occupying a place of honor on the walls of the home, whereas in the past it was only the very wealthy or some one in the ranks of president, or governor of the state, who could afford to commission an artist to make a painting.

Miss Gunnell studied the handling of theatrical photography in New York city, during the summer of 1922, being an ardent admirer of dramatic studies by Nicholas Murray of Greenwich Village. Here, she learned the foundation for theatrical photography, which is a profession all its own. To take this work successfully an artist must feel the dramatic effort of the subject, and be in harmony with their interpretation and moods. Miss Gunnell finds this very interesting and enjoys the extensive work she has done with theatrical photography in Salem.

As might be supposed, Miss Gunnell is not a westerner, but came here from the central states soon after completing school. With a few exceptions of study in New York city and California, she has been in the Northwest since her first arrival here.

She has also taken part in the photographic associations, having been treasurer of the Pacific International Photographic association. In 1922 she was sent to Washington, D. C., to the convention of the Photographers' association of America, as delegate from the Northwest Photographers' association. Aside from this, she has been closely connected with the Willamette Valley association, having been president of this organization. Last fall Miss Gunnell was appointed to take charge of the photographic art department of the Oregon state fair.
