CHERRY PACK SEASON IS AT PEAK

LIVESTOCK PRICES RISE LOCALLY

Bulk of Crop Will Be Handled by End of Present Week

The bulk of the cherry pack will be finished by the middle of the week, according to local cannery managers. Loganberry and raspberry canning will last for at least three weeks longer, according to present indications.

Most of the red raspberries from the Salem area have been harvested but Reid Murdoch are now receiving them from the Lebanon and Gresham districts. The season is just beginning in both places and will probably last at least three weeks longer.

Spray Program Proves Successful

So far no worms have been found in cherries in the Salem district. It is evident that the spray program was successful since so many cherry fruit flies were found in local orchards in the spring but no worms have been in evidence, despite that each local cannery has been very careful in checking.

Present indications are that the blackberry crop will be better than was at first anticipated. Many of the vines were winter killed but the set of berries was heavy and the cool weather has aided materially in their growth. It is a little early to estimate the amount of the crop but both growers and packers are encouraged over the prospect.

Flurry in Wool Mart Subsides, Prices 16c, 20c

The temporary flurry in the local wool market seems to have subsided and Monday Salem prices were quoted 16 cents for coarse and 20 cents for medium.

Mohair dropped from 22 cents for old to 20 while an equal drop brought the price of kid mohair to 25 cents.

The market is comparatively quiet with only a few sales reported.

BITS... Of General Knowledge

By W. L. GORDON

General Markets

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 14—(AP)—Crop damage reports from Canada and nearby states pushed wheat values upward as a rule today, but temporarily the market broke low price records.

The greatest setback resulted from heavy sales in connection with a big movement of new winter wheat away from the harvest fields southwest and west, and from movement of the spring wheat harvest in South Dakota. Export purchases of wheat appeared to be enlarging, however, and future delivery wheat offerings here were scarce as the day closed.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous, ⅞ to 1c per bushel higher than Saturday's finish.
