also understood French, they let him in.

One of Agha's chief claims to distinction, aside from his years and his martial career, is that set of teeth which he says he produced at the age of 106. But they're all gone now, having lasted only 15 years, he says, and so while he is here and not occupied with letting the doctors pay him instead of he paying the doctors, he thinks he may buy himself a set of false teeth.

Agha came accompanied by his youngest grandson, a handsome young man named Ahmet Mussa, and his patron Asim Redyan, who imports American automobiles to Istanbul and is "angel" for the trip.

They were met by Calvin Harrison, Agha's American manager, who said "Since Agha is really an unofficial representative of the Turkish government on this trip he must not be permitted to cheapen himself in any way."

Harris explained he had turned down an offer of $2 weeks at $2500 a week from a syndicate which operated a flea circus in Times Square and a boardwalk sidewalk in Atlantic City, and so far had signed Agha for only two appearances before unnamed scientific organizations. He was also uncommunicative about the fees.

PREACHING FRIARS

Determined to get away from sectarianism and restore the spirit of true Christianity, a new order known as the preaching friars has been founded in California. Included in the order are a number of clergymen of different creeds, a physician and a former city official. Three of them, left to right: Brothers Sylvester, Peter and Paul, are traveling the road of the old missionaries in California, preaching as they go. They have just arrived in San Francisco and plan to cover the entire Pacific coast, traveling on foot.

SENATE GRINDS ON INTO NIGHT

content would not be far ahead. These insisted no filibuster would be made.

Senate leaders greeted the decision and replied they would keep the senate in session tonight. Senator Watson, Indiana, the republican leader said, "We will give every opportunity for discussion and we don't want to use the cloture for that is just what they want." He added "They want to cry 'gag'." However, Watson insisted there were enough votes in the senate to adopt cloture if necessary.

Democrat Johnson heatedly denied in debate, with emotion, republican. Utah, that any filibuster existed against the treaty and he called attention that every syllable he had uttered in the discussion had been pertinent to the subject.

Johnson concluded with the assertion "any man who stands here and dares to discuss this treaty isn't fit to sit in the senate."

After Johnson had concluded his speech, Senator Odell, republican, Nevada, carried on for more than two hours with a denunciation of the treaty terms. He read many of the statements made before the naval committee by navy officers opposing the pact. Odell was followed by Senator Copeland, Democrat, New York. Senator Johnson extended the treaty abolished the 5-3 ratio established with Japan by the 1922 conference.

"I can not understand," he said, "why Americans representing America should not have insisted upon the maintenance of that ratio."

Bills of Personal News Gleaned About Interesting People

Back to Salem after 10 years' absence, Rev. Leland Porter will preach Sunday morning at the First Christian church, of which he is a former pastor. Mr. Porter is here from Minneapolis, Minn., said with him are Mrs. Porter and their daughter, Miss Mary. They were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Birdwell, 2215 South Commercial street. The visitors will leave Monday for the Tillamook country. They plan to spend some time at points in the northwest before returning to Minneapolis.

"We have visitors from almost every state in the union at the city auto camp and many of them come back year after year," said H. S. Peisal, superintendent of the municipal auto park. Mr. Peisal is now serving his fourth year as superintendent and enjoys meeting his "guests" at the park.

"Every one seems to have a heavy crop of hay this year," said Mrs. R. C. Bidwell, office manager for the Cherry City Milling company. "It is of excellent quality," she added, in speaking of that which has so far been delivered.

Floyd Cook, former secretary of the republican state committee, was a Salem visitor yesterday. Cook is being discussed for the position of state chairman and is in a distinctly receptive mood. Cook says the members of the state committee are keeping close-mouthed on their preferences for governor. "It will take most of the afternoon for organization," said Cook. "New officers of the committee must be chosen before the committee can start looking on governor. How long it will take to pick the candidate after the voting starts is problematical."

More people that ever are spending their vacation at Manzanita beach, northernmost of the Tillamook coast resorts, this year, reported John W. Parker, who was in the city yesterday from Manzanita. There is an unusual amount of activity at this place, he says. Parker, whose home is in Salem at 912 North 5th, is spending the summer with Mrs. Parker there, and is constructing several beach cottages on his property there.

Dr. Ellen DuBois, attending the meeting of the Oregon naturopathic association, is registered at the Senator hotel.

ing as possible was asked.

The petitioners took as its basis the assumption Billings was "an innocent man wrongfully convicted through false and perjured evidence of certain witnesses," and asserted the law "gives no relief from perjury except through an application for a pardon."

Particular stress was laid by the petition upon photographs taken during the preparation parade and introduced at its Mooney-Billings trial as evidence, and upon the showing that MacDonald was encouraged to testify in the hope of receiving a large monetary reward of $17,000. Lengthy extracts from testimony of witnesses at the trial were included in the document, emphasizing discrepancies between their testimony and that of MacDonald, to whom reference was made as "one of those disreputable characters" and the question asked:

"Is not there some way to convince the human mind the 20 witnesses and the photographs ought to be believed as against that one person?"
