

ALFRED A. ROSS NEW PRESIDENT

Morris Dalton of Dallas is Vice President; Next Year in Portland

Industry has ever undertaken, Moore told the Oregon dealers and visitors.
Problems of the retail dealer were considered during the sessions, over which Herbert L. Stiff of Salem, retiring president, presided. Unethical and illegal advertising, and especially the perpetual closing-out sale, were discussed by Robert H. Moore, manager of the Portland better business bureau. Portland facts and recommendation regarding the radio business as connected with the furniture store were given by A. L. Shellworth, sales manager of the Sunset Electric company at Portland; and Alfred A. Ross told of present conditions and problems in the furniture retail business.
*Fred A. Williams of Salem led a discussion of public utility merchandising; problems were considered under direction of E. D. Ross of Portland; and Earl Bunting gave a sales talk.
Resolutions were offered condemning practice of public utilities selling merchandise and making profit or loss out of rate charges; condemning wholesale furniture dealers who sell to both consumer and retail trade; endorsing the national style show; and endorsing the western state retail dealers' conference in Tacoma the coming week.

HOME IS WOMAN'S PLACE

MR. and MRS. THOMAS A. EDISON.

The modern woman's place is in the home, according to Mrs. Thomas A. Edison, wife of the world's greatest inventor. Instead of taking up work in the professional world, wives of today might more profitably cling to the nest-building instinct, she staunchly believes.

growth in adolescence and a definite easy going "good natured fat" personality.
The real and disturbing cause of the reproductive system—a field where many outliners still are dim to scientists—a field in which, it is acknowledged, malfunction means abnormal behavior.
"I found a threat of unity, a relationship between thyroid trouble and crimes of violence such as murder and assault," said Reynolds. "I found it between pituitary disturbances and crimes of irresponsibility such as robbery and thieving; and between the other disturbances and act as moral turpitude."
The percentage of abnormal gland conditions is about 40 percent higher among prison than among law-abiding population, Reynolds concluded from his study.

Bits of Personal News Gleaned About Interesting People

"Our northwest lumber is meeting stiff competition from Russian lumber on the Atlantic coast market," stated W. H. Tucker, a banker of Aberdeen, who was a Salem visitor yesterday.
"Our mills on Grays Harbor are not running at full capacity and some orders have been lost to the Russian trade, orders which formerly came to our mills. The solution must come through increased utilization of the by-products and by converting the lumber more into the finished product."
Mr. Tucker returned to Portland last night and expected to make a trip to Los Angeles using the air route to save time.

The western furniture dealers' conference, annual session of which will be held in Tacoma this week, is doing much to promote sales and manufacture of western-made furniture, Frank J. Runyan, managing director for the California association and secretary of the western conference, declares. Mr. Runyan was in Salem yesterday to attend the Oregon furniture dealers' conference as a guest. He was enthusiastic about success of the meeting here. The western conference, primary aim of which is to unify individual practices and raise standards of the business, includes five retail associations: Oregon, Washington, California, Rocky Mountain and Intermountain, representing 11 states.

When the work of improving the Old Oregon Trail between Kamela, at the summit of the Blue Mountains, and LaGrande is completed, that part of the highway will be one of the favorite pleasure drives on the Pacific coast, according to Roy E. Klein, state highway engineer.
Klein said that the improvements probably would be completed late this year. A large crew of men are now at work, and one-way traffic is being maintained.

Marion county in general and the Waldo Hills in particular, received state wide publicity on Saturday when O. M. Plummer, manager of the Pacific International Livestock show spoke over radio station KOIN and told of attending the sheep picnic at the Floyd Fox farm. Mr. Plummer was generous in his praise of the farm and of the Waldo Hills country.

"Hereafter we want local people for berry pickers" said Mrs. A. B. Wilsner of North Howell. The Wilsners have a large acreage of strawberries and employ 50 to 80 pickers each season. Mrs. Wilsner explained that the "berry tramps" only stay while the berries are at their best and then move on but that local people stay with them until the season is over and take much more interest in the work.

Expert mechanic, and former mail carrier and house mover is John Cunniff, 69, who arrived in Salem enroute from Portland to Los Angeles on a three-wheel, hand-propelled cart. Cunniff has been an invalid almost since childhood and is endeavoring to establish an endurance push-cart record between the two cities. He refuses rides along the Highway and works for everything he gets, he says. He carries letters of identification from many people, among them Mayor Baker of Portland.

SUNSHINE IS BOON TO VALLEY CROPS

will be below average this year, but all spring grain promises to yield well.
There is more hay in the country than there has been for several years. This is due partly to the fact that we have had an excellent growing season and also to the fact that many farmers cut the fall grain for hay when they saw that it would not turn out well for threshing.
No matter how much the gloom spreaders talk about hard times we can all afford to eat potatoes this winter as the yield is heavier than it has been for some time.
Berry Crops Are Below Normal
The strawberry crop fell short and the loganberries will no doubt be a little short although present indications are that the crop is better than was predicted a month ago. Cherries were a better crop than was anticipated but the slump in price cut the revenue to the growers.
This has been an unusually fine season for gardens and there is an abundance of vegetables of all kinds and the quality is excellent. Apples, peaches and nuts promise to yield heavily this fall and the prune crop will be a bit below the average, some districts having more than last year and some less.
Due to a vigorous spray campaign much of the hop crop has been saved from downy mildew and the sunshine has again done its work by helping this crop.

Tacks on Road Halt Rider in Bike Non-Stop

BELLINGHAM, Wash., July 19. — (AP) — Tacks strewn on the pavement by some malicious youngsters brought one of Bellingham's bicycle endurance contests to a halt here today after the youthful participants had ridden in relays for more than 46 hours. Another contest ended when a bicycle skidded in gravel and tipped over.
Cool night air proved too much for the tree-sitting efforts of Richard Hill and Johnnie Wilkinson, who "grounded" 10 hours after the start.
Several other bicycle and tree-sitting contests, however, continued unabated.

OPTICAL GLASS THE KEY TO SCIENTIFIC ACHIEVEMENT AND HUMAN PROGRESS

Only a chunk of optical glass, unpretentious, unassuming. And yet, in its sparkling crystal beauty, it holds the key to the progress of mankind for hundreds of years past.
Consider, for a moment, what life would be today without the wonderful benefits made possible through its instrumentality.
In the realm of medicine and bacteriology, the most significant discoveries vitally concerning the successful treatment of disease, have been made possible only with modern high-powered microscopes which employ, as many as seven precision lenses.
Machines for the taking of moving pictures and for projecting them in the theatres would be worthless without their lenses. In fact, lenses are essential in every branch of modern photography.
Closely allied to photography are the various processes of reproducing illustrations, such as lithography, rotogravure and printing with ordinary half tones and color printing plates. All of these are dependent upon highly corrected lenses.
With wonderful high-power telescopes, astronomers are able to stretch out almost to infinity and tell us of the wonders of other worlds of the sun, moon and stars.
We are able to see better and farther by means of the modern and scientific service offered by the optometric profession.
These weekly eyesight conservation talks have been prepared in the hope that the specimen of our optical glass may be to you, not merely a pretty crystal, but rather an emblem of the ideals of service and progress for which we stand.
