

FIREMEN WILL BE INSTRUCTED

Special School is Feature of Chiefs' Convention at Corvallis Soon

The Oregon firemen's school, to be held at Corvallis August 18 to 22 in conjunction with the 18th annual convention of the Oregon Fire Chiefs' association, promises to be one of the outstanding events of the current year in connection with the campaign for fire control and fire prevention. It is estimated that more than 200 fire chiefs and firemen will attend the convention.

The program, as outlined by Clare A. Lee, state fire marshal, includes addresses of welcome, Governor Norblad and Tom Graham, chief of the Corvallis fire department. There also will be a seven hour course in first aid, seven hour course in public speaking, lectures, demonstrations and round-table discussions. Among the prominent men who will participate in the program is Professor Walford A. Dahlberg of the Oregon State college.

"This is an age of advanced science and it is being applied very intensively and effectively to the conservation of human lives and valuable properties from fire destruction," said Lee in a letter to all fire chiefs in Oregon which was prepared by Ivan L. Pearson, president of the Oregon Fire Chiefs' association. "Oregon cannot lag behind in this great work when it has the opportunity at hand to rank among the first of the states in the reduction of the enormous annual waste of its industrial, commercial and social wealth. In 1929 the fire waste aggregated more than $7,000,000."

Prevention Held Best Practice

"In times of peace, as a means of preparation in the event of attack by the enemy, we train our potential army in the science of war. The time to stop a fire before it starts and our fire chiefs and firemen should be thoroughly schooled in the science of fire prevention as well as fire control as a precautionary safeguard against unexpected disaster. No fire chief or fireman can afford to miss this year's convention if he expects to keep step in the march of progress. No community can afford to overlook the opportunity of schooling its fire protectors in the latest means and methods of conserving lives and properties from fire devastating ravages."

Mayors and councils of the various towns and cities of Oregon are being urged by Mr. Lee and the fire chiefs to provide means whereby they will be represented at the convention.

The demonstrations will be varied, and will include the actual operation of various fire protective devices placed on the market since the previous convention of the fire chiefs was held a year ago.

LEE STREET BRIDGE PLAN IS APPROVED

Program Delayed Last Year Will Be Nearly Wound Up This Season

The related bridge building program of the city council which struck a snag last year when the council inarguably hit at Mayor T. A. Lively's program bids fair to be nearly completed this season.

Plans for a new bridge on Lee street over Sheldon creek between 18th and 19th streets, were unanimously accepted by the city council Monday. City Engineer Paulsen was instructed to call for bids on the new structure. The cost of the construction was estimated by Alderman Dancy at $3500.

Henry Vandeyort told his fellow council members he was not at all satisfied with the manner in which Street Commissioner Lowe had repaired the approaches to the North Winter street bridge. He said the approaches were rough and had been improperly filled with gravel. The matter of their improvement was referred to the commissioner with request that the approaches be immediately improved.

Continuing its consideration of city bridges, the council supported Alderman Dancy in his motion that $1000 be allowed Paul Wallace and Joseph Albert for a 35 by 240 foot strip of land the two men own on North Commercial street. The land is to be covered partially by the new North Commercial street bridge. Wallace and Albert agree that $800 of the money paid by the city will go to pay for street assessments long since due but which the owners of the property declare were improperly made. Alderman Dancy explained that the request he suggested would be economical for the city.

WILD HOGS SAID CAUSING DAMAGE IN LAKE COUNTY

Farmers Living in the Miller Hill Section of Klamath County Have Appealed to Dr. W. H. Lytle, State Veterinarian, for Assistance in Running Down Three Wild Hogs Which Were Reported to Be Destroying Crops and Causing Other Damage

The hogs were said to have escaped from the range of William Moss in Lake county. The farmers said they had notified Moss to come and get his hogs but that he had not replied to their letters.

Lytle said he would ask the attorney general for an opinion as to whether it would be unlawful for the farmers whose crops are menaced to kill the hogs.

SMALL BLAZE IN PENITENTIARY IS PUT OUT QUICKLY

Fire Which Started in the Hog Fuel Bin in the Boiler Room at the State Penitentiary Monday Resulted in Calling out Virtually all of Salem's Fire Fighting Equipment

The blaze spread to a blow pipe which ran from the flax plant to the boiler. It burned a small hole in the roof. Damage was nominal.

The fire was extinguished quickly without any unrest or excitement among the inmates, who helped fight the blaze. A spark is believed to have set the sawdust afire.

"I'm just getting acquainted with Salem and its territory, and believe me, I like it fine," Earl Left Unltd Press correspondent for the state "beat" was speaking. He came here early this summer to organize coverage for the U. P. in Salem. Sunday he took the day off to explore the Breitenbush country and he returned home pleased with the trip and thrilled by the charm of the Detroit country.

Fruit canning at Woodburn has reached and passed its peak with the Ray-Brown cannery running only one night shift, according to J. M. Muehl, a visitor to Salem from that city Monday. By running only at night the plant is able to can berries immediately after they are delivered, he says.

"Tom Kay will run strong in McMinnville if he is nominated for governor," said W. H. Logan of that city who was in Salem Saturday night. Kay was a resident of McMinnville for many years and has a host of friends there and also there are many who do not know him personally but who vote for him because they like his record of sane business methods, according to Mr. Logan.

"We saw more of Oregon than we had ever seen before," said Dean F. M. Erickson of Williamette university Monday commenting upon his extended trip into California and Oregon scenic points. He and Mrs. Erickson traveled extensively through California, going south via the Roosevelt highway from Marshfield. Upon their return to Oregon they visited the Oregon Caves, Crater Lake and the Klamath river country, returning to Salem after a three weeks' journey.

Names of many of their friends, and would see to it that the children were taken away from her permanently.

Afraid of his anger, she agreed not to contest the divorce, and to follow his program, the answer says.

As part of that program, on June 2 Stevens "brought defendant to Portland to the Good Samaritan hospital and caused her to apply as student nurse under name of Muriel Steeves, which was the maiden name of his sister," the recital continues. On June 12 she returned to her children here, but he insisted she go back to Portland, allowing her to take the children with her for the day. When he went for the children, he caused her to go back to the hospital as previously arranged.

Stevens was installed as caretaker of the children as soon as Mrs. Steeves was out of sight, despite the fact that Stevens pretended to be angry with the maid on a certain occasion and ostensibly furnished her with a car. Stevens wife says. Said Ruby has since accompanied Stevens on trips to his summer cottage and to Portland, the wife declares.

Mrs. Steeves seeks decree setting aside his divorce; care and custody of their two children; furniture and furnishings in their home; an automobile which she alleges the plaintiff gave her and then took back; that the alleged property agreement made prior to his divorce be set aside; and alimony.

Crooks Beware! New Fingerprint Camera Ordered

Now is the time for all crooks in Salem to beware.

Proof to that effect was furnished Monday night when the council unanimously agreed to support Alderman Paul Johnson's police committee work with the purchase of a brand new fingerprint camera.

Mr. Johnson said the camera was needed at once, and the first motion of the council to defer action was laid aside.

Only one bid for the camera was received by the council, that of $46.75 from Woolpert & Hunt, local firm, which receives the award.

K. of C. Plan Champeg Meet For August 17

August 17 has been set for the date of a state-wide picnic for the Knights of Columbus, the gathering to be held at Champeg park.

Committees from councils of Salem, St. Paul, Mt. Angel and Sublimity churches, decided on the time and the place at a meeting held Sunday.

Three bands and an orchestra will provide music while the program will be augmented by several outstanding speakers chosen from different parts of the state.

At St. Louis parish last Sunday the dinner served by the church members was attended by 400 people. Ladies of the church were in charge of the meal and the St. Paul band furnished music for the occasion.

Annual Picnic For Jason Lee Set Wednesday

Members of the Jason Lee church will enjoy their annual mid-summer picnic Wednesday afternoon and evening, July 23. The affair will be held at Hager's Grove with A. L. Dark in charge of the committee on arrangements.

Sports of many kinds, including swimming, outdoor baseball, and horseshoes will be enjoyed with a pot-luck dinner at night a general feature.

REMONSTRANCE FACES COUNCIL

Large Petition is Claimed Necessary if Matter To Be Reopened

Anything possible to assist it," declared Keyes.

The petition to vacate the street as well as the remonstrance were both ordered referred to the street committee for a report at the next session of the council after the city attorney has had time to examine thoroughly the law in the matter.

Alderman Patton asked that the courtesy of the floor be extended to E. T. Barnes, paper mill stockholder, who declared the vacation of the street was imperative for the development of the mill. C. S. Hamilton, Salem property owner who was one of the signers of the remonstrance, was given the courtesy of the floor and declared himself opposed to the street vacation because Trade street was needed entirely free of obstructions, and because he thought the vacation on Trade street would set a poor precedent.

Signers of the remonstrance included J. R. Linn, W. P. George, John Bayne, Zero Poilaire, A. Hickman, L. Frazier, D. C. Minto, Max O. Buren, Mrs. Sarah E. Staley, Mrs. E. Switzer, R. S. Ratcliff, F. HUGE CROWD OUT AT LEGION PICNIC

SIVERTON, July 21 — (Special)—A crowd estimated at 2,500 people attended the picnic at Coolidge and McClain park tonight, the event being sponsored by the local American Legion post to introduce and pay honor to its junior baseball team.

It was announced that the team champion of northwestern Oregon, outside of Portland, would meet Eugene Tuesday in the first of a three game series for the western Oregon title.

The players were introduced by Dr. A. W. Simmons, chief "angel" of the team. Mayor Eastman in a talk praised the American Legion, declaring no other organization had exceeded this one in work for the community benefit.

Another speaker was Charles Johnson, who said the legion was an organization not of "ex-service" but of "service" men.

A big picnic dinner and swimming in the park pool were features of the affair.

Hot Enough? Query Made Misdemeanor

Rumor has it that a warrant is out for all of those would be humorists who are guilty of saying "It is hot enough for you today?" Sunday and Monday afternoons proved that a few of the breed still exist.

The snappy comeback however is "So nonchalant" and reply "It is not so hot, only registered $5 at the airport Sunday."

Although Monday reached a higher maximum temperature, Salem still has had no really warm weather but the prophets tell us that the worst is yet to come.

While restaurants are doing a rushing business in feed the and salads the farmers are rejoicing that the hay is getting so well cured and the grain is ripening so rapidly. There was much hurry to get the hay crop in for fear of rain, which often comes at this season of the year but the unusually heavy hay crop seems to be in little danger of damage from the weather and is being well cured.

Cherries and berries are practically all harvested and the warm weather will not harm the evergreen blackberries at this stage, unless it gets much warmer than it has so far.

Endurance Test Plan Is Offered

A check for $10,000 will bring Salem into the international limelight with an endurance air contest to take away the record now held by the Hunter brothers.

Such is the opinion expressed by Loren Mendell and R. B. "Pete" Reinhart in a telegram sent the chamber of commerce in which they announce their desire to regain the world's sustained flight record which they once held.

"We can buy a new $17,000 airplane for $3500 and a motor that can stay up for 740 hours," the telegram declares.

Reinhart and Mendell declare the opportunity for Salem is a wonderful one. The equipment, they say, can be held in the city's name and money can actually be made through radio broadcast rights and other profits accruing from a successful flight.

The chamber of commerce, one or more service clubs or some public-minded citizens are asked to back the flight.

Rotary Budget For Next Year Considered

A budget of $6955 is the estimated expenditure of the Salem Rotary club for the fiscal year of 1930-31 according to the secretary's report this week. The principal source of revenue will be the members' fees in the sum of $5,000.

At the noon meeting Wednesday W. I. Staley, back from the international convention, is to tell his impressions of that gathering. Earl Fisher will arrange the program for the coming week.

Rotary's attendance here last week was 80.48 per cent of the total membership.
