PLANE CARAVAN PLANS PROCEED

Landing Alone Will Occupy Hour and a Half, Says Committee Member

Nearly an hour and one-half will be required for the landing of the 50 airplanes in the air caravan coming to Salem on August 3. The exact number of airplanes has not been determined as the entry list is not yet closed, according to Brazier Small, member of the American Legion committee arranging for the caravan.

"We are arranging to have one company of the Oregon National guard act as guards at the airport the day of the caravan's visit," Small stated Wednesday. City and state police traffic officers will police the roads leading to the landing field.

A portion of the caravan's program will be a display of all machines with the owner of each plane showing its special features to visitors.

Several stunt fliers will accompany the caravan and will perform for the spectators.

The American National aeronautical association is sponsoring the caravan which will call on many of the principal cities in the northwest. The local sponsor is the American Legion which will be obligated for nearly $1000 in bringing the caravan to Salem for one afternoon.

MELSON FINDS SALEM IS HIS "HOME PORT"; NOW IN PETER PAN BUSINESS AND LIKES IT

Original Resident of Heppner, Oregon, Has Spent Bulk of Years in Capitol City

Starting a business which becomes successful and stands well-known in a city is somewhat of a distinction as is painting a picture or creating a piece of literary work, all of which are permanent. It is the chief desire of the business serves every day the needs of people and the founder is very likely to be forgotten if he was ever known—for most always a trade name, or a company name founds a business. The Atlas Book store is a part of Salem's business life, and has done much toward forwarding the intellectual life of the city and there is one man in Salem who with his business partner at that time, can look at it and say "We started that." One of these men is S. Melson about whom this story, and the man who was his partner in this landmark adventure is A. A. Gueffroy. Now in "Home Port"

Mr. Melson says he is like "the mariner who sailed the seven seas" in as far as business is concerned and now he thinks he has sailed into port to stay, this "port" being the Peter Pan confectionery on the corner of State and High street, where he began business in July, 1929.

Mr. Melson was born in Heppner, Oregon, who five years old he came to Salem with his parents and save for short intervals, he has been here ever since. His education was obtained in Salem schools. He was among the many Salem men who attended the Capitol Business college. His first working venture was messenger boy in Capital National bank, now the First National bank, and from there he graduated by one of the various bank positions until he became teller, which in those days meant doing just about anything necessary in banking business.

After several years in the bank a change in banking connections came and Mr. Melson felt this a good time to try his hand in another business and took the opportunity to go into the Commercial book store with A. A. Gueffroy. For several years they worked together in this store and then branched out and established the Atlas book store into which Mr. Melson went.

Has 35-Acre Farm—Melson came in his family and a trip south to Palo Alto, California, was made. Now he is back in Salem to stay, his family in good health and a new business thriving. He has taken up a hobby, too. It is his home out in the Keiser district—35 acres—plenty of room for his family of four children and plenty of room for Mr. Melson to follow a very interesting sideline—the growing of nuts and small fruit. He has ten acres of walnuts interplanted with prunes and several acres of filberts just getting nicely started.

When asked if he did not fear another freeze like one which came there some time ago, he said "Someone has said that natural indications show that it had been 300 years since such a freeze had occurred and it will most likely be that long before another, so why worry?"

Although Mr. Melson is both a Mason and a Woodman of the World, the idea he gave me was that his 35 acres made one of the best clubs in the world in which to find recreation after a day spent indoors satisfying the food needs of his many customers at the Peter Pan.

ALL-NEGRO SYMPHONY—BALTIMORE.—(AP)—An all-negro symphony orchestra, believed one of the first, is being formed here for fall concerts. Sponsors plan to stress individuality more than is usually done.

SEEKS COLLECTION—SACRAMENTO, Cal.—(AP)—California's treasurer and state finance director have revived efforts to collect approximately $6,000,000 from the federal government for funds advanced, by bond sales, during the Civil war.

It's Never Warm Here Says Perry

"Oregon does not have any really warm weather," according to J. C. Perry who with Mrs. Perry has just returned from an eight weeks motor trip through the south and east.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry and Mr. and Mrs. Scott Page enjoyed delightful weather during the entire trip until they reached St. Louis. Here the government thermometer registered 105 the day of their arrival and, according to Perry, this was a very conservative figure.

The travelers went through California and enjoyed the beautiful Yosemite and Grand Canyon country. From here they went to New Orleans and Florida, then through Virginia. Other notable places visited included Washington, D. C., Gettysburg, Philadelphia, Atlantic City, New York, Boston, Niagara Falls, Detroit, Flint, Chicago, Kansas City, St. Louis, and Yellowstone park.

In Chicago the party divided and Mr. and Mrs. Perry went through Iowa and have not yet returned to Salem. Mr. and Mrs. Perry were gone eight weeks and two days and drove 11,200 miles.

Business conditions in the west are better than those of the east, according to Mr. Perry. Many factories have either closed or are running on part time so that there is much financial stress among laborers.

In the agricultural districts there is prospect of good crops and conditions are better than in the factory districts.

Paulus Reports Market Slack On Canned Fruit
Robert Paulus has returned from a fruit selling trip to eastern cities as far as New York. He reports the heat as being very oppressive, the worst experienced being in New York city where it was "muggy."

Dealers in foodstuffs have found the going rather hard the past six months, he stated, because of the falling market, prices dropping before they could turn their goods. On canned fruit the market is rather weak. While most northwestern fruits were cleaned up from the last pack, the carry over of pears and apples was large which has helped hold the market down this year. The movement however is fairly good at the prices quoted.

VANCOUVER MAN IS INJURED IN CRASH

JEFFERSON, July 23—A. C. Smith of Vancouver, Wash., received severe bruises but no serious injuries when his car rolled over twice as supposedly drunken autoists forced him from the Pacific highway one mile north of Jefferson. The accident occurred at 1 p. m. Wednesday as Smith was driving south.

His car was struck by an auto driven by two unknown men, who veered their machine head-on into Smith's car. After the accident they sped on, and Smith had no opportunity to get a full description of their appearance or to obtain the license number of their car.

Smith's car, a roadster, was demolished. After the accident he had presence of mind enough to turn off the gasoline which was leaking and threatened to ignite.

Shepherds Have Inside Track in School District

The Shepherds have it in a certain Marion county school district. At least so one would judge should he see a bond filed yesterday with the county school superintendent by the clerk of the district. The clerk was a Shepherd; the witnesses were Shepherds and the surety, or whom ever else was mentioned on the document, was all Shepherd.

Whether the county superintendent began looking for the flock of sheep when she finished perusing the bond is a mooted question.

The City That Pass Books Built

4% INTEREST on Savings

..... an important factor in building a greater Salem

HOMES and schools, shops and businesses, the foundation of Salem, are built on savings. Saved money builds homes, pays school taxes and buys school bonds.

Through savings accounts men and women get the money to start small businesses; through saving they get the money to expand. Saving in some form is the basis of growth and development.

In raising the interest rate on Savings and Time Deposits to four percent the First National Bank feels it is definitely encouraging the saving of money in Salem. In this bank we believe in intelligent saving and do our best to cooperate with those who wish to use our facilities for their own advancement.
