EMPLOYEES OUT WITH PETITION

Paper Mill Men Work For Vacation of Trade Street Stretch

Circulation of 23 petitions asking the council to vacate the portion of Trade street between Front and North Commercial streets, as desired by the Oregon Pulp & Paper company, was begun here Thursday by employees of the company of their own wish. Earlier in the month the employees in great majority circulated a petition urging a boycott against people who blocked the expansion of the mill but leaders in the group thought the publication of this petition inadvertent. Now the workers are seeking to secure the names of two-thirds of the property owners of Salem within the ten days yet remaining before the matter again comes before the council.

Impression Will Be Made, Belief is held that the petition signed yesterday that if the two-thirds of the people of Salem could not be secured as signers before the desired time, at least a sufficient showing could be made to make the 23 signers of the remonstrance consider withdrawing their objections. Employees of the paper mill want the improvement not only to secure 50 to 60 more jobs in Salem but because the addition of the fourth paper machine would mean advancement in wages for a number of the present employees who have served some time with the company.

From Vancouver Mr. Bergsvik was sent to the mill to see if the company would be willing to accept a branch office in Vancouver, Wash., and it was Mr. Bergsvik, who was sent there as manager. This was in 1924 after he had traveled up from the auditing department into the contract department where he was assistant superintendent.

Among those who remained from first camp to second are Howard Sehon, Charles Wiper, Frank Pettyjohn, Dick Worrington and Billy Cray. Frank Shaefer is a new leader for the second period. Those who left Salem for the final camp session were Jack Berry, Thomas Billingsley, Ralph Eyr, Robert French, Parker Gies, Peter Geiser, Emory Hobbs, Robert Hill, Markie Jones, Roderick Livesley, Maurice Merver, Walter Meyer, Jimmie Nicholson, Lawrence Orwig, Bob Pickens, Richard Pierce, Tommy Pomeroy, Eugene Ray, Francis Ray, Charles Ross, Robert Sehon, Bob Smith, Donald Stockwell, Frederick Thielsen, Jr., Seven Hollingsworth, Colcord Kelnie, Corvallis, Merl Waltz, Reid Hansen, Allen Robbins, George Cusey, Walter Moyer, and Wilford Crall.

Craven Delivers Liquor to Wrong Set of Patrons Frank Craven was a jim-dandy retailer of liquor in the Mill City area until he got the wrong customers. Craven was delivering a four-pint order Thursday morning when he discovered that his "patrons" were state prohibition agents. Craven was haled into justice court in Salem. He pleaded guilty to the charge of selling intoxicating liquor.

Ball was set by Justice Brazier son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Phillips, returned from the Y. M. C. A. camp at Oceanview this evening. Phillips went to the camp to bring his son home from his eight day outing with the younger boys of the "Y" and returned in an hour and a half.

BERGSVIK HAS CLIMBED UP LONG LADDER IN WORK OF PORTLAND GAS & COKE CO.

Local Manager Enthusiastic About Future of His Firm, Loves Home, Family

ONE of the most dignified offices in town and one which bespeaks much thought and personality is that of the Portland Gas and Coke company on South High street, and the man who is manager has had no small part in seeing that it has been finished in every detail. This man has an interesting name as in the appearance of the office which he heads. He is Laif Bergsvik and for 19 years he has been making his business interest and enthusiasm one and the same with the Portland Gas and Coke company.

As a youth he started to learn the plumber's trade, then from that he became interested in the coffee business, and then through a trick of circumstance he began in the auditing department as a clerk in the present Portland Gas and Coke company. At that time Mr. Bergsvik was 21 years old. He had finished the Portland schools and had completed a business college course.

The company at that time was located at 5th and Yamhill streets in a one story building, and 45,000 customers were being served. From here Mr. Bergsvik was with the company when it moved into the old Gasco building and later within a short time he was moved in to the Public Service building at 6th and Salmon street. There is now being supplied over 100,000 people. If you want to know why Mr. Bergsvik has climbed to his present position with the company just ask him about his company and watch the enthusiasm with which he tells you about it. When the company began going outside of Portland to serve customers one of the first places to receive a branch office was Vancouver, Wash., and it was Mr. Bergsvik, who was sent there as manager. This was in 1924 after he had traveled up from the auditing department into the contract department where he was assistant superintendent.

From Vancouver Mr. Bergsvik was sent to the mill to see if the company would be willing to accept a branch office in Vancouver, Wash., and it was Mr. Bergsvik, who was sent there as manager. This was in 1924 after he had traveled up from the auditing department into the contract department where he was assistant superintendent.

Bergsvik Ardent Sport Mr. Bergsvik says that he would "fish" anything for a sport. For years he has been an ardent fisherman and hunter. For a long time he and Mrs. Bergsvik enjoyed hiking together then along came Marjorie Ann and Dorothy Marie now on seven and two, and they rather spoiled that sport for a while. So golf has taken its hold and is reaping its full harvest. So far Mr. Bergsvik makes no claim for championship but in talking to him I judge that if he likes it well enough to play the game he will begin playing it well.

Likes to Meet Public It appeared hard to decide in talking to him, just what was work for Mr. Bergsvik and what was play. He likes to meet the public, enjoy the need to fit his attitude to that of the person with whom he comes in contact in order to establish the best contacts and enjoy them most; he is whole-heartedly enthusiastic about his work; his family is one of his greatest prizes; and he likes sports. It would seem that Mr. Bergsvik has the art of getting out of life all that there is in it.

As for lodges and such he is a Mason, belongs to the chamber of commerce, and is a Rotarian.

HEATH IS INDICTED ON MURDER CHARGE GRAND RAPIDS, Minn., July 24.—(AP)—Jay Guld Health, 46, northern Minnesota trapper, today was indicted by a special Itasca county grand jury on charges of first degree murder, second degree grand larceny and third degree burglary.

The murder charge is the outgrowth of the fatal shooting of Norman S. Safranks Sr., Hibbing deputy game warden. The warden was shot April 24 while seeking game law violators. He died May 3.

The other charges were in connection with the looting of a summer home at Harvick lake several days before the Fairbanks shooting.

Brought before Judge B. F. Wright, Heath pleaded not guilty to all charges. Heath probably will be tried at a special term of district court, August 4, W. B. Taylor, Itasca county attorney said.

SYMPTOMS OF MALADY TOLD

State Board of Health Has Bulletin Warning of Infantile Paralysis

Precautions against appearance of infantile paralysis, which usually occurs during the latter part of the summer, are given in the current bulletin of the state board of health. At the present time an unusual number of cases of infantile paralysis is prevalent in southern California, but in Oregon there has so far been no unusual number of cases.

The advice of the state board of health follows: Any child with an unexplained stomach or intestinal disturbance and a temperature of 102 degrees, with a discomfort out of proportion to the symptoms, should be kept apart from other children for a few days and the family physician called. Pain in the neck, back and limbs, general weakness and clumsiness about the fourth day of the illness, mark the onset of paralysis and may establish the diagnosis. Then a strict quarantine must be established and observed under the directions of the family physician.

Prompt reporting of any case or suspected case is the first requirement of efforts at control. The following measures will aid materially in preventing the spread not only of poliomyelitis but many other communicable diseases that are likely to appear in epidemic form:

1. Avoid large gatherings when a communicable disease is in the community. This applies especially to children. Children under 15 should not go to places where there may be careless coughers and sneezers, and where food is handled by hands that have not been washed just previously.
2. Cover the nose and mouth with a handkerchief when sneezing or coughing. The secretions of the nose and throat may harbor the germs of communicable disease.
3. Wash the hands with soap and water before eating.
4. Eradicate flies and keep them away from food.
5. Pasteurize or boil all milk.

The prevention of infantile paralysis means the avoidance of much unnecessary expense and worry; the prevention of much crippling of children and all that such means to the individual and the state.

Linen Plant to Resume Work in Few Days, Belief

Probability that operations at the plant of the Oregon Linen mill may begin near the first of August was expressed Thursday by officials at the mill, but no definite statement could be obtained.

Approximately 40 men were placed temporarily out of work when the mill closed last week due to a shortage of orders. When work begins again, it is believed that manufacture will be confined to yarn and twine, products for which demand has been good during the year.

Production of linen cloth was discontinued January 1 when a surplus warehouse stock had depleted. Buying by eastern merchants has, however, reduced the stock to about 8,000 yards on hand at the Salem plant.

AL CHORTLES IN GLEE

Indicates Amusement at Aspirants' Antics PROMISES LAST WORD

Governor Norblad, who is one of a few state officials who will remain at his desk during the meeting of the republican state central committee to be held in Portland today and Saturday, for the selection of a republican nominee for governor, declared Thursday that he was quite amused at the antics used by a number of the aspirants for gubernatorial honors.

"Newspaper reports indicate that virtually all of these aspirants have issued statements urging the committee to enter the convention with an open mind, and not previously pledge their support to any of the numerous candidates," said Norblad. "At the same time these candidates have been running around the state interviewing the committee men, and doing everything possible to garner sufficient votes to insure their nomination. It is to laugh."

Norblad continued that the newspapers were unfair for the reason that they criticized bitterly the dismissal of Robert W. Sawyer of Bend from the state highway commission, while little or nothing was printed in the press at the time Judge William H. Deby of Baker was removed from the commission under the administration of the late Governor Patterson.

"Regardless of any criticism that may be heaped upon me during the remaining months of my administration, I will have the last say," declared Norblad. "Fortunately, I am directed by law to prepare a message for the next legislature. I will have something to say in this message which will prove of interest to a number of prominent men in this state. The message will receive wide publicity, even though it may not be printed in the press."

Although Governor Norblad would not intimate what he has in mind, newspaper men accepted his statement to mean that he would use the message to fire a few parting shots at certain persons who embarrassed him during the primary campaign.

The Center street church was disbanded shortly before the annual conference went into session. No disposition has as yet been made of the property.
