Oh These Women!

By LEOLA ALLARD

Lying is an interesting topic. Since I asked for opinions as to whether white lies that prevent heartaches to be preferred to truths that hurt, I have received some strong opinions on the subject.

Of course if it is, there must be a reason and a good one. It's only good things that are permanent, and when a thing grows and grows—even if it's merely a habit, there must be some virtue in it.

"I have this to say about lying: Lying is the best thing we do.

"Our visiting manners belie our true behavior.

"Our company manners and spread (I suppose she means lying conditions).

"Our cars often belie our incomes.

"We dress and make up to belie our ages.

"Lying has become an art with civilization.

"Often the rich only appear superior.

"The poor appear shiftless.

"The miser may be called thrifful.

"The educated may appear intelligent.

"Only when we are very young or very old do we lose the resistance to appear what we are not and show ourselves what we truly are."

A woman in St. Louis wants to state that too much importance is given to small lies and too little to the big ones that get men into high office and put into their hands the power to do damage to great numbers of people.

"Grand larceny is what lands you in a water front country place."

She should have added "sometimes." Some people with water front homes started in the ghetto, selling papers. Too often those who resent the prospeity of others want to believe they stole all they got. You wouldn't think of slaving as they did, going without and putting pennies away. After years of struggling they land on top of the heap through their own earnest efforts. It's terribly unfair to get the idea that all water front homes are bought with stolen money. They aren't.

If I'm wrong, write me, Premier Syndicate, Inc., 235 E. 45th Street, New York City.

Salem Couple Guests At Anniversary Party

On Sunday, July 29, Reverend and Mrs. H. Gross were the inspiration of a celebration honoring their 20th wedding anniversary. The St. John's Lutheran church, where the ceremonies were held, was beautifully decorated with streamers and flowers for the occasion.

Informal Dinner at B. B. Flack Home

Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Flack were interesting hosts Monday evening in their attractive home in Kingwood Heights, when they entertained informally with a dinner, placing covers for Reverend and Mrs. Charles W. Ward and their three children: Billy, Donald and Miss Ruth, Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Kibbe and daughter, Dorothy, and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Flack.

Salem Family Home From Motor Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Simmons and daughters, Mary Jane and Betty, arrived home Sunday evening from a two month's motor trip to Brookings, South Dakota, where they were the guests of Mr. Simmons's brother for a short time. An interesting part of the trip took them to Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth and International Falls, and upon their return home they toured Yellowstone National Park. They were particularly happy to return to Oregon to the cool weather after the strenuous heat they have experienced in the middle western states.

Of interest to many Salem young couples is the news of the announcement of the wedding in Portland Saturday evening of Mrs. Charles Cochran, of Portland, Oregon, and Dr. J. B. V. Butler, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. V. Butler of Monmouth. Both of the young couple are well known in college circles, both having attended the University of Oregon, where the bride-elect was affiliated with Chi Omega national sorority. Since her graduation from the university she has since been graduated from Oregon Normal school where the romance began.

Dr. Butler first attended University of Oregon where he was a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, later taking work at Oregon Normal school and Willamette university, preparatory to his final work and graduation from the Oregon Medical school in Portland. Dr. Butler will open an office in Portland upon his return from his wedding trip.

Friends of Mrs. R. B. Fleming will be glad to learn that she is convalescing nicely after her accident a short time ago which resulted in a broken ankle bone.

Mrs. Fleming and a group were enjoying picnic on the Santiam river and in walking over the rough ground, she stumbled over a protruding root which wrenched her ankle in such a way as to break one of the smaller bones. Mrs. Fleming will be on crutches for some time, though her condition is not considered serious.

Mrs. Harry C. Hart and son, Luther, of Cottage Grove, Oregon, are guests this week at the home of Mrs. Hart's aunt, Mrs. W. C. Conner in South Salem. They stopped over in Salem enroute by motor to Tillamook where they will visit friends for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Thom and young son, Ernest, Jr., accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bonesteel, arrived home Sunday evening from the Thom cottage at Nelscott beach, where they spent the weekend.

Miss Marjorie Moulton, arrived in the city a few days ago, from her home near Canby, to visit with her aunt, Miss Izora Templeton. Miss Templeton is employed in the state industrial accident commission.

Mrs. E. H. Willis and small daughter Patsy, arrived in Salem Monday from their home in Portland, to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Wheaton on North Church street, for the coming week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Fitzgerald and daughter, Miss Helen, who have been guests at the J. E. Fitzgerald Jr., home for the past two weeks' left this morning by motor for their home in Sioux City, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Schenk of Seattle, Washington, were weekend guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Sykes, 760 North Cottage street. Mrs. Schenk and Mrs. Sykes are sisters.

Mrs. William Walton was a visitor in Portland on Tuesday.

SAFETY SUB IN TEST

As the U. S. Submarine V-5 came through her tests at Provincetown, Mass., many of the various life-saving devices with which the new submarine is equipped were successfully examined.

Above is pictured a member of the crew showing one of the safety hatches and demonstrating how a man could come out in case of accident wearing the lungs.

The Beauty By HELEN FOLLETT Box

Beautiful eyelashes are long, thick, black, with the needle-point ends curling upward. They should never be clipped, as the growth is from the papilla, not from the ends. Anointing with vaseline strengthens the lashes and provides a fascinating glisten. Applications of witch hazel are beneficial. Dip pads of absorbent cotton in ice cold witch hazel and apply at bedtime. Witch hazel is also refreshing to the eyes. The reaction that ensues from the contact of the cold compress helps to scatter turkey tracks.

When the nose reddens in cold weather the circulation is not as active as it should be; in that event salt glows every morning are helpful—scouring the body with moistened salt and removing with a cold spraying. If the nose stays stubbornly red, the trouble may be a mild inflammation of the cutaneous surface or the result of a diet that is too rich too salty or too acid or too abundant. In any case, it is advisable to apply ointment of zinc oxide every night.

Breath amidiships comes from sitting and not enough strenuous exercise. Women who sit at desks all day are likely to develop hips. Bending exercises are slenderizing and all those calisthenics that twist the torso. Here is the best one of all: Upon awakening, lie on the back, hands under hips. Lift both legs slowly until you are standing on the back of your neck—lower slowly. Not so easy, but it does the business.

The vinegar rinse helps to remove soap suds and oil from the hair. Two tablespoofuls of vinegar are added to a quart of water and this mixture is poured repeatedly over the head. There should be a subsequent rinsing with clear tepid water to remove the vinegar.

Don't Live by Candle Light

It's quite possible today to do without a telephone, never use an automobile, forsake a train for a horse-and-buggy, take out your electric wiring and live by candle light.

Anyone could do these things, but he would be miles behind the procession.

In the same way it is out of date to depend on a teakettle for hot water and foolish to imagine that furnace coils do not use up a lot of your fuel.

To Prevent Windows From Sticking

In warm weather or in very damp climates, windows often have a tendency to stick. You can easily prevent this annoyance: Rub the ropes—in other words, the sash cords—with soap. This usually is all that is necessary to make your windows move up and down easily.
