

EDGAR HURLEY NAMED IN CASE

State Senator Now up for Re-election is Named in 1913 Dynamite Case

Thomas J. Mooney, San Quentin prison inmate was convicted on a similar charge.

The lobby of the prison administration building was converted into a court room for the hearing which started shortly after 5 P. M., with Billings on the witness stand.

Without tarrying Judge Preston seated himself before the prisoner and started asking questions relative to the latter's recreational and educational background, what books he desired reading and what his beliefs might be about organized government.

Says He Believes in Government

Billings said he had studied law, believed in the principles of the government of the United States, was not in favor of the overthrow of the government and that he had not studied books on socialism or communism.

The questioning then led Billings over his activities during the time since he was 17 years old. He told Judge Preston he had chosen the easiest mode of living and that he had been arrested in New York, Salt Lake City, Brooklyn and Sacramento on various charges and suspicions.

The prisoner named John Wilson, secretary of the electrical workers union in San Francisco prior to the 1916 bomb blast, as his employer on a job in which he was to ascertain the number of guards on the Pacific Gas and Electric company's transmission lines in the bay region.

When asked if he knew why Wilson wanted information about power line guards Billings said the Pacific Gas and Electric company was involved in a strike at the time and that strike sympathizers wanted to "tear down" the lines.

It was during his employment at the Franklin Heyman Shoe Factory in San Francisco, Billings said, that he met Mooney through leaders of the Shoeworkers union, among whom, he said, was Ted Hooper. Billings said a shoemaker's strike was in progress at the time and that he gathered information at the factory for strike leaders.

Well Informed on Use of Dynamite

Judge Preston questioned Billings closely on the latter's knowledge of how to handle dynamite. Billings said he learned something about this while employed as "powder monkey" in a quarry at Strawberry Valley, Utah.

"Then you are pretty well informed about dynamite, aren't you?" Judge Preston asked. "No," Billings replied, "I wouldn't say that."

"Do you want us to go away from here thinking you didn't know what was in that suitcase you took to Sacramento in 1913," the judge asked.

Billings said he thought it contained a glass bottle of narcotics and that he did not feel he was privileged as a messenger, to open the suitcase.

RAFFETY ENDS HIS SERVICE TO STATE

any statement relative to what transpired at a conference with the secretary of state. Friends of Bloom said that no reason had been given for his retirement.

Raffety, while not divulging his plans for the future, was said to have received several offers. One of these has to do with the operation of a state department. Raffety has persistently refused to make any statement in connection with his resignation.

Hoss has announced that the new chief of the state traffic department will be selected soon after September 1. In order to comply with the law he first will act as a traffic patrolman, but later will be elevated to the office of chief of the department. Before assuming his new duties he will make a tour of Oregon, and later will confer with traffic officials in California, Oregon and Washington.

Whether the new traffic chief will be given a free hand in the operation of his department has not been announced by Hoss.

Miss Hall Back From Seattle

WOMAN NOW PLAYS ENOCH ARDEN ROLE

SPRINGFIELD, Vt., Aug. 14.—(AP)—A woman supposedly dead by suicide more than a year ago reappeared alive here today, to find the husband who she had left married to another woman and herself the center of a strange mystery in which lay hidden the identity of the body "buried" as her own in a Chester, Vt., grave yard.

The woman, Mrs. Catherine Rockwell Packard, wife of a St. Albans candy worker, was under arrest here tonight as a material witness and law officer's sought to question the husband, George J. Packard, who a month ago married another woman in Rutland.

More than a year ago Mrs. Packard disappeared from her Rutland home, leaving her husband, George and their two children, George Jr., 3, and Helen, 2. In August last year, the body of a woman was found in a Chester pasture. With it a suicide note. An autopsy revealed traces of poison in the stomach and suicide was the verdict. Eventually, it was identified by Packard as that of his wife and the handwriting on the note as that of Mrs. Packard. The body was buried in Chester and the investigation ended.

Here, There And Yon Bits of Personal News Cleaned About Interesting People

If the traveler will turn north just west of Toledo, an eight-mile drive will take him up into the heart of the Siletz country. The road is somewhat rough but not rough enough to interfere with driving, reports Cornelius B. Sackett, harnessmaker at the F. E. Shafer store, who was over in Lincoln county Monday. "We drove out from Siletz with 150 crates of berries in our truck in half an hour," Sackett said. In the winter-time Sackett has the job of judging bowling contests as his principal avocation.

Elmer Beardsley, former Marion county resident and now a wealthy Chicagoan, is due to arrive in Salem today by plane from the Illinois city. He will land at the airport here this morning at about 11 o'clock, and will remain for several days visiting relatives in the county with him will be Mrs. Beardsley and Walter Piper, also of Chicago, and his brother, Walter Beardsley, who will join the party at Portland, his home. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Beardsley flew their own plane west last year also.

Business conditions in the east and middle west are in a "terrible state," says Newell Williams, local attorney, after his return from an extended trip through that section of the country. July 20, 6000 people are unemployed in Minneapolis while Duluth is running a breadline, he declared. St. Paul was the only prosperous city he visited and there the city's prosperity is due to an extensive building program carried on by the city, Williams said. He visited police departments in many cities during the trip.

Paul Pemberton Begins Work as Woodburn Medic

WOODBURN, Aug. 14.—Dr. Paul A. Pemberton has established an office in the Allen apartments on Grant street above the Moore Beers drug store. Dr. Pemberton who is a physician and surgeon, is a graduate of the University of Oregon medical school in Portland. He has also served as an interne in the Multnomah county hospital.

Maybe It'll Be a Ford Instead

Water is so low at the Benna Vista ferry landing that it will be necessary, if the level falls another foot, to dredge some of the gravel from the channel, Roadmaster Frank Johnson reported yesterday following a trip to the ferry site.

Egypt has raised its duties on wheat, flour, sugar and confectionary.

PRIZE TIMBER IS IN PATH OF FIRE

LONGVIEW, Wash., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Timber declared by forest rangers to be one of the finest stands in the northwest was menaced today by two fires. One burned in Brush country in the Georges creek district 25 miles from Kelso and the other in the Elk creek district on the upper Klamata river.

The Georges creek blaze, county fire warden Charles Newell, said, was about seven miles long and 15 miles in circumference. The two fires were expected to combine late today.

Warden Newell said the Georges creek fire was burning along the edge of green timber and would probably crown and sweep through hundreds of acres near Mount St. Helens if the wind shifted.

banks for the various articles which they require, either return to the Columbia, or cross over through the country of the Clatsops.

"This trade, however, is obviously little more than a loose and irregular barter, on a very small scale; for the materials for commerce are so extremely scanty and precarious that the stranding of a whale was an important commercial incident, which interested all the adjoining country. The Killamucks have little peculiar, either in character or manners, and resemble in almost every particular the Clatsops and Chinooks.

"Adjoining the Killamucks, and in a direction south-south-east are the Lucktons, a small tribe inhabiting the seacoast. They speak the same language as the Killamucks, but do not belong to the same nation. The same observation applies to the Kanukle nation, their immediate neighbors, who are supposed to consist of about 400 souls.

"The Lekawis, a still more numerous nation, who have a large town of 800 souls.

"The Youkone nation, who live in very large houses, and number 700 souls.

"The Neeketo nation, of the same number of persons.

"The Useah nation, a small town of 150 souls. (Sounds like the Yachals.)

"The Youitts, a tribe who live in a small town, containing not more than 150 souls. (Sounds like the Yachals.)

"The Shlastuckle nation, who have a large town of 900 souls. (Sounds like the Siletz.)

"The Killewats nation of 500 souls collected into one large town.

"With this last nation ends the language of the Killamucks; and the coast, which then turns towards the southwest, is occupied by nations whose languages vary from that of the Killamucks, and from each other."

HOME OF PORELLO BLASTED BY BOMB

CLEVELAND, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The home of Raymond Porello, identified as one of the five Porello brothers who have controlled the corn sugar industry in Cleveland, was blown to pieces by a terrific bomb explosion early today.

Police found Porello and his family at the home of his mother a short time later. Porello said that last week an attempt was made to kill one of his two surviving brothers.

In the last few weeks two of the Porello brothers have been slain in gang feuds and police have expressed the opinion the brothers all were marked for death.

LaFollett Fails To Win Release; Will Try Again

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Circuit Judge Fee, of Pendleton, today denied a motion for the release of Charles R. LaFollett, Washington county state representative, who is serving a six months' jail sentence for failure to obey a court order to pay $75 a month to the support of his estranged wife and four minor children.

Judge Fee held jurisdiction in the case rests with the supreme court.

John A. Jeffrey, LaFollett's attorney, said he would seek an order from the supreme court releasing his client.

Joyous Foot Bath Then Lift Out CORNS

Root and All—Out To Stay!

Two tablespoonfuls of that amazingly refreshing and foot invigorating Radox to one gallon of water makes a footbath which after 3 or 4 night's soaking lifts out aching, maddening corns, callouses, too—root and all.

Radox softens the hard outer layers of corn — and oxygen which Radox liberates, enters the pores, each night penetrating further and further, carrying the salts right to root of corn which can be lifted out bodily.

Wonderful to take out pain and burning and refresh tired feet!

Get a package of Radox at Perry's Drug Store and know the joyous comfort of corn and callous free feet — Radox is the modern, scientific method to remove corns which completely eliminates old fashioned plasters, dangerous cutting, skin destroying acids and obsolete methods. (Adv.)

Oregon School Now Recognized As Art Center

The University of Oregon has chance to be made, the western center, as Harvard is the eastern center, for the art activity of the Carnegie Foundation, according to Dr. E. E. Lindsay, secretary of the state board of higher education.

An art center, representing a $5000 gift from the foundation, is being conducted by the university at its summer session this year, and if successful probably will be made an annual grant with the contribution increased to $10,000.

Heretofore this donation has been made only to Harvard and to the Art Institute of Chicago. The Carnegie Foundation has also made the university a gift of $2500 contribution towards an art collection.

Dr. Lindsay acknowledged the gifts Thursday.
