Tooze-Hutchinson Nuptials Quiet Event

Miss Helen Louise Tooze, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tooze, became the bride of Robert Dall Hutchinson of Payette, Idaho, at a quiet wedding celebrated at 5 o'clock Friday evening at the Tooze home. Rev. Davis Q. Barry read the impressive ceremony. The guest rooms had been beautifully arranged with sweet peas and gladioli in pastel shades and made a lovely background for the simplicity of the ceremony.

The bride was gowned in a shell pink afternoon frock and carried an arm bouquet of delphiniums, sweet peas and roses in pastel shades. She was unattended. For a going away costume Mrs. Hutchinson wore a lovely brown ensemble with accessories to match.

Immediately following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served, and then Mr. and Mrs. Hutchinson left by motor for Payette, Idaho, where they will visit Mr. Hutchinson's home. From there they will drive to Warner, Alberta, where they will make their home.

Mrs. Hutchinson has attended Willamette university and the University of Oregon. Mr. Hutchinson is an Oregon state college graduate.

Camp Fire Girls Enjoy Picnic

Warm summer nights lure the Camp Fire girls to cool places where they find swimming and picnics the best ways to keep happy. Four groups of Camp Fire girls were represented at Riverdale Thursday night where they were together as a large group for the first time since vacation was declared late this spring.

Miss Edith Clement, senior life savior for the party of girls and who will also assist at Camp Saturday, swam the river four times as a special feat and inspiration for the girls to work toward. After swimming and much fun a picnic supper was enjoyed at one large table. Many parents of the girls were present to help enjoy the fun.

Renewed interest in camp activities is apparent now that the date is approaching when Camp Fire girls will go to Camp Saturday. The date is August 18 to 25. Many new girls are registering every day. Each Camp Fire girl is attempting to take her friend with her to enjoy camp life.

Statesman Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

Your little daughter will adore this ensemble which takes its chic from the grown-up mode. The cunning skirt is gracefully flared and fastened in the bodice with buttons and button holes, or permanently stitched in place. The small coat is banded and cuffed with the contrasting fabric.

Pattern 1895 may be made of shantung, linen, percale, kasha, jersey or lightweight tweed. The bodice and trimming look well in beige, ecru or a lighter shade of the fabric used for coat and skirt. Red and beige, blue and tan, two shades of green, black and white or brown and tan are just a few suggestions for an adorable rig.

May be obtained only in sizes 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 4 requires 1-7-8 yards of 36-inch fabric and one yard for bodice and trimming.

No dressmaking experience necessary. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

Send fifteen cents in coin or check to the Statesman Pattern Department, 345 West 17th street, New York City.

Our book of patterns for adults and children, also transfer patterns, offers extra value when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Statesman Pattern Department, 345 West 17th street, New York City.

Informal Luncheon Is Reunion

Miss Beatrice Walton was hostess for an informal luncheon which took the form of a reunion Friday at the Market Coffee shop. Covers were placed for Miss Mabel Robertson, Miss Frances Hrubetz, Miss Caroline Hrubetz, Miss Sarine Berner, and Miss Walton.

Three of the guests are visitors in Salem this summer. Miss Frances Hrubetz is a guest at her home during her summer vacation at home, after having spent the past year in Columbia university, New York City, where she is teaching and working for her doctor's degree. Both the Misses Hrubetz were former teachers in Salem schools.

Miss Sarine Berner is from San Francisco where she teaches in a private high school for boys. Miss Berner is the guest of the Misses Hrubetz for the next two weeks. All of the members of the party have Miss Caroline Hrubetz have been in Berkeley and San Francisco for the past few weeks, and were entertained together there.

Sunday Miss Frances Hrubetz and Miss Berner will leave by motor accompanied by Miss Etta Westinghouse and Miss Florine Hrubetz, the latter two of whom will return in two weeks to resume college. Miss Hrubetz is a student in pharmacy in Oregon State college, and Miss Westinghouse is a student in Willamette university.

W. C. T. U. Has Happy Meeting

The North Salem W. C. T. U. met Thursday with Mrs. Dora Morge at her home on North Summer street. Music and refreshments made the opening program for the meeting. This was followed by an interesting article read by Mrs. Stella Wilson on the subject of prohibition. This was followed by an interesting talk by Mrs. Jennie Presnell.

At this meeting it was urged that all members of the Children's Farm home booth at the state fair be sent to the regular business meeting to be held September 11.

Much interest was derived from the reports which told how money had been raised by the members for the Children's Farm home at Corvallis. An award was made for the best account and Mrs. Elva Duncan won this award.

Refreshments were served at a late hour and concluded a pleasant meeting.

The state Dakota annual picnic will be held Sunday at Albany in Bryant park. This is a change from the regular date which has been the second Sunday in August until this year. The program will commence at 10 o'clock. A picnic dinner will be enjoyed at 12 o'clock and this will be followed by an afternoon of games, program and swimming in specially supervised pools. All residents of the Dakotas now living in Oregon or visiting here are invited to attend this picnic.

Mr. and Mrs. Gurnee Flesher have arrived in Salem after having spent the summer in the University of Oregon where Mr. Flesher is working on his master's degree. Mr. Flesher will be an instructor in physical education in Leslie junior high school this year, and Mrs. Flesher, nee Dorothy Pemberton, will finish her senior year in Willamette. Mr. Flesher is editor of the Collegian, university newspaper, this year.

The Beauty By HELEN FOLLETT Box

By HELEN FOLLETT
Beauty is not merely flashing eyes, curtained with long black lashes. Nor is it graceful lily-like figure or the magnificent canopy of lustrous hair. It is vitality, it is character, it is health, poise, grace, speech, tone of voice, intelligence and—most of all—what life has taught. One. Nobody has been able to offer a definition of beauty. Whatever it is, it must have an appeal to the mind as well as to the eyes. And to the heart, too, for that matter.

The dry skin seldom suffers from blackheads. Blackheads and pimples come when the pores are crowded full of sebaceous products which, when the skin functions properly, are thrown off in the form of an invisible vapor. To a certain extent, eau de cologne will clear away these horrid greasy plugs and the dust that they collect. Put a few drops on a bit of fine linen after the face is washed, and pass the cloth vigorously over the skin surface. Follow with a light massage with cold cream.

An intolerable itching of the skin is usually caused by the flaking away of dead cells, as well as some cross-wise channels should go in for neck exercises, turning the head from side to side with a strong muscular pull, nodding forward and throwing backward, sending the head around in circles.

To whiten a discolored neck, bathe with soap, warm water and oatmeal. Dry and rub with a lemon that has been cut in half. When the lemon juice has dried, massage with a mixture of equal parts of lanolin and coconut butter.

The woman who has a few up and down ditches in her face as well as some cross-wise channels should go in for neck exercises, turning the head from side to side with a strong muscular pull, nodding forward and throwing backward, sending the head around in circles.

Dinner Party is Attractive Event

One of the many charming affairs which are being given in compliment to Miss Dorothy Livesley and her fiancée, Conrad W. Paulus, was the attractive dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Callaghan and Mr. and Mrs. E. Scandling Wednesday night at the Callaghan home.

The dinner table was centered with a low arrangement of Zinnias in mixed colors. Covers were placed for the honor guests, Miss Livesley and Mr. Paulus, and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. MacDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. James Young, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Simmons, Mr. and Mrs. James Laidlaw, Miss Rovena Eyre, Mrs. Earl Steel of Oakland, California, house guest of Mr. Callaghan, R. A. Livesley, Harold Aiken, William Slade, Mr. and Mrs. Scandling, and Mr. and Mrs. Callaghan.

An evening of cards followed the dinner hour.

Miss Louis Findley Has House Guests

Miss Mildred Mills and Miss Thelma Mills are guests of Miss Louise Findley at the M. C. Findley home on Twentieth street. Both the Misses Mills are graduates of Willamette university where they were affiliated with Delta Phi sorority.

Miss Thelma Mills has just returned from New York City, where she has been for two years completing her master's degree. Miss Mills will be dean of women at Whitman college, Walla Walla, Washington, this coming year.

Miss Mildred Mills will teach this coming year at Forest Grove, where she also taught last year.

Picnic Party Is Jolly Affair

A jolly "no host" swimming and picnic party was that enjoyed Thursday night at Riverdale park.

Those who formed the group were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Callaghan, Mr. and Mrs. James Young, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Simmons, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Scandling, Mr. and Mrs. James Laidlaw, Miss Dorothy Livesley, Mrs. Earl Steel, of Oakland, Conrad W. Paulus, and H. E. Aiken.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wright have just returned from a two weeks vacation spent at the coast and in a motor trip into Washington. The first week Mr. Wright directed the music at the Christian Endeavor at Twin Rocks. The remainder of the week was spent in Cutler City, then in visiting and singing in churches in Seattle and Tacoma. Mr. Wright is director of church activities at the First Presbyterian church.

Aurora—Mrs. Arthur Kell was hostess for a children's party, Pudding river Wednesday. After swimming in the morning, the children were ready for a well-earned roast and lunch at noon. Those making up the party were Wanda and Eugenia Faust of Eugene, Lois Manock, Doris and Betty Southwick, Francis and Robert Groh and the hostess Mrs. Kell.

Miss Maxine Glover left Sunday to meet Miss Helen Fenstermacher and Miss Jane Cullen in Portland from which city they left for Seattle where they visited friends and later went to Vancouver, B. C., for a few days to be spent with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Kelley of Salem are in Seattle where they are stopping at the Benjamin Franklin hotel for a few days.

Miss Kathryn Croser returned this week from Berkeley, California, where she has been taking summer school work. Miss Croser will again teach in Canby this year.

Miss Loretta Miller of Seattle, Washington, has been the house guest of Miss Iva Bell Croser for the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Newell Williams and children and Ralph Kietzing spent Thursday evening at Kietzing camp with Mrs. Kietzing and the children. Mrs. Kietzing has been at the cottage for several days.

Members of Hanna Rosa court, order of the Amaranth, will meet for a regular meeting Wednesday night at 8 o'clock in the Masonic temple.

Dr. John Enyart of the U. S. S. West Virginia, and Mrs. Enyart are expected to arrive this weekend to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Flesher for two weeks. Dr. and Mrs. Enyart are stationed in San Pedro.

Wildcat Loses On Demurrer; To Plead Soon

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 15 — (AP)—Presiding Circuit Judge Evans today overruled a demurrer to the indictment charging Robert Gordon Duncan, self-styled "Oregon wildcat," with criminal libel and set August 26 as the date on which Duncan must enter his plea to the charge.

Duncan was charged with criminal libel of Robert M. Mount, Portland Better Business bureau manager. An article printed in Duncan's trade register,

MORE TROUBLE FACED IN INDIA

Frontier Garrisons Being Strengthened; Afghan Tribesmen Faced

SIMLA, India, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The powerful garrisons on the northwest frontier today were reinforced with formidable contingents of British and Indian infantry, fully equipped to meet an attack threatened by fierce Afghanistan tribesmen from beyond Kyber Pass.

With the arrival of heavy reinforcements under command of Brigadier General Robertson, martial law was proclaimed during the day throughout the entire Peshawar district where the situation was described officially as "one of considerable gravity and danger."

How dangerous the border status was could be told only by military and political authorities on the spot. The average layman, however, felt today he had only too clear a view of the situation in the news that one British and three Indian battalions were moved up from Jhansi to Rawal Pindi, and a full infantry brigade was sent to Nowshere, 25 miles east of Peshawar, with a considerable force of other units going to Kohat.

Peshawar advances indicated that the new and dangerous forces were gathering around that center. Many young men began to appear among the Afghani tribesmen concentrating in the rocky fastnesses near the border, replacing older heads who had stood the brunt of royal air force bombing raids during the last fortnight.

Today's official statement came as a shock to those who had believed that so far as the Peshawar area was concerned the Indian situation was appreciably easier and the tribesmen almost entirely dispersed.

The action in the air in the locality continued unceasingly. Two squadrons of the Royal Air Force were engaged yesterday in bombing along the edge of the Kajuri plain and elsewhere. Troops of cavalry have been co-operating.

Oh These Women!

By LEOLA ALLARD

By LEOLA ALLARD
It is interesting, sometimes, to notice the great influence of women on their men folks, especially when it comes to keeping them in the path of honesty. Take for instance that chain of men's hat stores in New York, from which eight managers were discharged recently. All because one new manager had a wife who was above petty grafting and kept her husband from it.

I suppose it started with one petty grafter becoming the manager of one of these stores. Soon he wanted company and took in with him, the manager of another store. Those two gradually took in others, after studying them for the necessary qualifications. Eventually that chain of men's hat stores was looking for a ninth.

The ninth man took charge of a new store and the eight P. G.'s. entertained him. The opinion was that he would do. He was told the proposition which was this. When they took inventory, the manager held out hats, coats, sticks, handkerchiefs and a little of everything else the store carried and they were sold by the combine for their own personal benefit.

The ninth man pretended to be interested but uncertain. He wanted, he said, to talk with his wife.

He did. "Nothing doing," said the wife. "You aren't going to get involved with any crooked business while you're my husband. When you begin that sort of thing, I'm through."

"That's what I wanted you to say," said her husband. "I don't want to do it."

"But," said the wife, "that isn't enough. You've got to do more."

"What?"

"You've got to tell the president of the hat company."

"Oh, no, I could never squeal on them even if they are wrong," said the husband.

"Of course," said the smart wife, "I understand how you feel. You need not do it. I'll tell him."

And she did. She had a hard time seeing the president as you can imagine. She said her husband didn't want to be a tattletale, but she had no qualms in such a case.

I'm hoping the company sent her a check for what she saved them. I don't know whether or not they did, but they did discharge eight store managers.

What would you have done in her place?

TRAVEL POSSIBLE AGAIN IN WYOMING

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Aug. 15 — (AP)—Favorable weather conditions late today alleviated much of the fear held for several thousand travellers stranded for the last few days by mud-choked Wyoming roads.

Railroad travel was back to something approaching normal and 13 westbound Union Pacific trains which had been at a standstill in Rawlins carried their 3,000 passengers toward their destinations. No trains from the west had reached Rawlins since 11 o'clock last Wednesday night. A warm sun and steady, warm winds dried up roads quickly and the many hundreds of automobile tourist travellers were believed to have resumed, or to have been ready to resume shortly the trips which were abruptly halted last Monday by cloudbursts and torrential rains.

LINDBERGH NOW HONORED ANEW

President Hoover Presents Congressional Medal For Flying Deeds

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—(AP)—A slim, smiling young man upon whom three years of fame has left no apparent impression was honored again today by his country.

It was the same self-conscious Charles A. Lindbergh of 1927 that stepped forward to receive from President Hoover the special congressional medal voted for him two years ago, and his replies to the brief mark to the president were hardly audible. The presentation took place in the president's office with Mrs. Hoover, Mrs. Lindbergh and a group of government officials looking on. Secretary Hurley, Adams and Davis, and F. Truette Davidson, David S. Ingalls and Clarence M. Young, assistant secretaries for aviation of war, navy and commerce, respectively, Warren Irving Glover, assistant postmaster general in charge of air mail, and Walter Hope, assistant secretary of the treasury, composed the group that surrounded the president.

The ceremony was brief. "It is a real pleasure," the president said, "to present you this congressional medal on behalf of congress and in commemoration of your achievement in aviation. I am sure the sentiment expressed by congress is shared by the whole American people."

Obviously embarrassed, Col. Lindbergh reached out and took the medal, hesitated momentarily and then said slowly: "Mr. President, I thank you and wish to express my thanks to congress and my appreciation to you."

Spent Weekend
At Hoover Lodge
After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Lindbergh were luncheon guests of President and Mrs. Hoover and then left to spend the weekend at the presidential lodge in Virginia.

In addition to the hosts and Mrs. Lindbergh, the White House luncheon was attended by Secretaries J. Edgar Hoover, Postmaster General Brown, Assistant Secretaries Davidson, Ingalls, and Young, Glover, Mr. Hope and his daughter, Miss Helen Hope, Captain Charles F. Train, the White House naval aide, and Col. Campbell R. Hodges, the military aide.
