LEGUA IN OWN PRISON

Taken From Cruiser, Placed in Jail to Await Trial for Misdeeds in Office; New Leaders Busy

Business men aid in Effort To Restore Normalcy With Sanchez Cerro Head Of Administration

LIMA, Peru, Aug. 29. — (AP) — Augusto B. Leguia, deposed president, was taken from the cruiser Almirante Grau in Callao harbor at 4 p. m., today and placed in prison on San Lorenzo Isle, where he will await trial for "misdeeds" during his regime. The prison is one he used for his own political prisoners during his eleven years' administration.

LIMA, Peru, Aug. 29. — (AP) — Peru's new government turned toward efforts for restoration of normal business today and at the same time removed a number of Leguia adherents from the offices they held prior to last week's revolt.

Business men have poured into the government house since the new revolutionary administration was formed by Lieutenant Colonel Luis M. Sanchez Cerro, apparently conferring on the future outlook. Among them were the manager of the Italian Electric Light and Power company, which holds a monopoly on bus traffic, and the managing staff of the Bank of Peru and London. It was reported at the latter conference, serious efforts were made to adjust the financial phase of the situation.

At the same time the government attempted to build diplomatic relations, the foreign envoys had not recognized the previous junta, formed by General Manuel Ponce, and said the new government wished to maintain heartiest relations with the former representatives. Meanwhile the cleaning out of Leguia appointments began, with Major Eduardo Castro Rojas appointed to succeed Colonel Salgado as chief of the presidential military household, and Erasmo Roca succeeding Enrique Zegarra as undersecretary of public works. Other adjustments were planned.

War Hero, now Convict, Tells of Liquor Bribes

SEATTLE, Aug. 29. — (AP) — R. L. Fryant, a former dry agent, and Al Hubbard, former agent and one time rum runner, both accepted bribes from him, Arthur Boyd, ex-service man once called Seattle's "best booze salesman," testified in the Lyle-Whitney conspiracy trial here today. Boyd, who was decorated for bravery in France during the world war, is now serving a sentence at McNeil island federal penitentiary for a conviction in the second Olmsted trial. He did not include Ross C. Lyle, former administrator, William M. Whitney, former assistant to Lyle and C. T. McKinley, former assistant United States attorney, directly in his accusations. They are defendants in the present trial with Fryant and former agent Earl Corvin.

To all defense questions asking him if he ever paid money to Whitney, Boyd answered "never directly." He testified Hubbard was the "go-between" for the bootleggers and the prohibition department. The young convict refused to definitely place the times he had paid Fryant money but said he

THOUSANDS IN FLIGHT AS RED ARMY ATTACKS

Fear Communist Vengeance For 1500 Executions Of Comrades

Heavily Charged Electric Wire Strung but its Efficiency Doubtful

SHANGHAI, Aug. 29. — (AP) — Thousands of terrified Chinese fled from Changsha and Wuchang today as red armies approached. Fearing red vengeance for 1,500 comrades executed, the provincial garrison of 8,000 was reported planning flight as 20,000 communists neared Changsha. The advance body of 10,000 reds only ten miles from the city wall, threatened to attack momentarily. Further wholesale looting and murder, completing the communist sacking and burning of Changsha last month, was feared.

The few Americans who returned after the July holocaust were prepared to take refuge aboard the United States gunboat Palos. They had little confidence in ability of the provincial troops to repel attack and laughed at the stringing of a wire fence about Changsha. The fence was to carry a deadly electric current; a modern device supplementing the ancient walls of the city.

Garrison is Left Without Leader The wavering garrison was without its leader. Accusing Gov. Ho-Chien of incompetence or worse when the reds recently deplored the city, the troops expelled him a few days ago.

They demanded back pay. It was said some had joined the communist forces. A large number of boats were seized by the troops for flight down the Siang river if necessary. Frightened by reports reds were about to attack Wuchang, thousands of Chinese fled across the Yangtze river to Hankow. In the latter city nationalist government troops increased precautions.

Foreign warships lay at anchor continuing their watch of several weeks over the large number of foreigners in Hankow.

Second Flier Falls To Death as 40,000 Look on in Horror

Home Made Plane of George Fernic Plunges After Ascent at Chicago Air Races; Strikes Ship of Noted Woman Pilot

CURTISS-REYNOLDS AIRPORT, Chicago, Aug. 29. — (AP) — A crowd of 40,000 horror-stricken spectators saw the small "home made" plane of George Fernic, St. George, Staten Island, N. Y., rise from the field, pause in mid-air then plunge sickeningly downward into a parked plane at the national air races today.

Fernic, a Rumanian, was dead when pulled from the cockpit. His plane demolished a ship in which Miss Martie Bowman of Hempstead, L. I., N. Y., had just completed a closed course race. The famous aviatrix missed death by inches as the falling plane cleft through the fuselage of her ship. She and W. S. Allison of Cleveland had stepped from her plane and were standing nearby with a group of mechanics. Members of the group scurried to one side in time to escape injury.

It was the second major crash witnessed by air race fans since the beginning of the meet and brought the total fatalities to three. Fernic's craft, of radical design, had taken off successfully. As it soared to the north end of the field at a low altitude it nosed skyward, made one backward loop and fell. Spectators Rush On Field Screaming Screaming in horror, thousands of spectators made a concerted rush onto the field adding to the confusion. Guards were powerless to avert the movement and it was some time before a semblance of order was restored. Fernic had flown his plane to the air races, arriving Tuesday. He had designed and built the craft himself, placing on it a short auxiliary wing which he believed gave it additional stability. In a larger plane of similar design, which he had intended to fly to Rumania, he crashed several months ago at Roosevelt field, but was unhurt. The ship derived its energy from a motor of only 70 horsepower. Fernic had told friends he was pleased with the plane's performance, but it needed a more powerful engine. Witnesses blamed his fatal accident on insufficient power to pull the ship out of the loop.

Hints for Successful Salesmanship Offered

The attributes of a good salesman in a retail store and the characteristics which mark a successful retail store were described to 150 Salem salespeople Friday night when Professor H. T. Vance brought to a close a one-day business institute conducted here by Oregon State college. "I would ask you nothing which would detract from the most valued single possession you have — your personality," said Vance. Beyond that he explained that every sales person should have the qualities, the first letter of which form the word "area." These characteristics are ability, reliability, endurance and action. "Sales people should guard their health," said the speaker. "Eight hours is necessary for sleep and night time is the right time for sleeping; we have proved that. Moreover, eight hours is enough for work; statistics show that 35 per cent of the supposed working time is wasted time." Vance enumerated ten necessary points for every storekeeper as follows:

EUGENE, Ore., Aug. 29. — (AP) — Vic Sutherland, 67, alleged moonshiner and slayer of Joe Saunders, 37, deputy game warden, and Oscar Duley, 35, Eugene policeman and deputy sheriff, killed in a liquor raid, tonight continued to elude a posse of 50 armed men scouring the densely wooded hills near Marcola, Ore. Sheriff's officers expressed the belief Sutherland was hiding in a secluded backwoods haunt where he might remain undiscovered for several days. They were considering the advisability of attempting to force his son, V. (Stew) Sutherland, 21, who is in the Lane county jail, to lead them to hide-outs where the alleged killer may have taken refuge. Members of the posse today discovered a recently operated still in a ravine near Marcola. A quantity of liquor also was found. Bloodhounds Fall To Pick up Trail Bloodhounds were used throughout the day but failed to pick up a lead of consequence. The hounds did lead the posse to the home of Mrs. Vic Sutherland's former wife, who said Sutherland had come to her home and she had dressed a hand wound for him. FIENDISH SLAYING REMAINS MYSTERY

Police Piece Together Only Few Clues in Murder Of Girl Aged 8

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Aug. 29. — (AP) — Police were able today to pick up only a few vague bits of information that would aid in apprehending the slayer of 8-year-old Marverine Appel. Authorities found a barn in which the child is believed to have been attacked and killed a short time before her body was found last night in an alley two blocks from her home. There were blood stains and also the footprint of a child on the earthen floor. Little was developed, however, as to the identity of the slayer who is believed to have been some mentally deficient person. One suspect was arrested here, questioned and released. Another suspect was held at Elkhart, a nearby city, but there was only a flimsy chance, police said, that he was the slayer. He gave his name as Frank B. Shuey, 34, of Greensburg, Pa. Rewards Offered For Man's Capture In the hope that the monetary rewards would develop some clue the city council offered $2,000 for the capture of the killer. The St. Joseph county commissioners offered $500 and the South Bend News-Times added $100. Marverine disappeared Wednesday evening. Playmates said that earlier that day a man had attempted to entice her into taking an automobile ride. Their descriptions of the man were vague but they said his car was of the small type recently introduced.

BANDIT PROVES TO BE BUSINESS MAN

SCOTTSVILLE, Ky., Aug. 29. — (AP) — A robber, armed with two guns and disguised with a mask and smoked glasses, was captured in an attempt to hold up the Peoples State bank here today. Officials of the bank said he had about $20,000 in a sack which he dropped when caught. Sheriff W. M. Cook, one of the officers, who made the capture, identified the robber as Carl Wilson, local hardware dealer and son of R. E. Wilson, wealthy resident of Scottsville. Wilson's failure to lock the vault, where he had herded employees and customers of the bank led to his capture. Roy Dalton, bookkeeper in the bank, slipped out and telephoned the sheriff, who arrived a few minutes later with Chief of Police E. F. Morgan and Deputy Sheriff R. O. Patton.
