

Monmouth Normal Graduates Summer Class of 146

U. W. CRITES IS SPEAKER

Dean J. B. V. Butler Presents Diplomas to Future Teachers

MONMOUTH, Aug. 29.—Simple exercises were held Thursday morning at 11 o'clock in the auditorium of the Oregon Normal school for a class of 146 graduates who received standard diplomas. President J. S. Landers presided.

The McDowell club opened the program with "You Know My Garden," and "Wake Up," with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Genevieve Baum Gaskins of the school's music department. President Landers read three brief poems, "The Quest," "The Great Heart," and "A Prayer," the themes of which were harmonious with events of the day.

Miss Elaine Cox, one of the graduates, sang "Morning" and "Goodnight," with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Gaskins. J. W. Crites of Salem, who delivered the address, brought greetings and good wishes to the class members from Superintendent C. A. Howard, in the opening words of his talk. Humorously informing the class that he was going to give them some advice, which he was fitted from divergent angles to offer, he stressed the need for teachers to make the children like them; to be enthusiastic about their work; to be willing always to give more than they had contracted to give; and to have no repudiation about how parents would react to progressive innovations made in the school.

Mr. Crites, who has addressed previous classes at the Normal, was cordially received by his audience, and his entertaining manner of stressing features for teachers was a fitting climax to the well balanced program. Diplomas were presented by Dean J. B. V. Butler, and President Landers made cogent remarks of encouragement to the class in conclusion.
