Silverton Legion Juniors Hold Senators to 6-6 Tie Game

HARD TO SOLVE

Kids far Ahead When Noted Southpaw is Relieved; Misplays Costly

Bouyed up by the vocal support of nearly everybody in the stands including many Salem fans, the Silverton American Legion junior baseball team, champion of the northwest, battled the Salem Senators, contenders for the state semi-pro title, to a 6 to 6 tie on Olinger field Friday, the game being called at the end of the sixth inning on account of dark-

Orville Schwab's slow, tantalising curve tied most of the Salem ball players in knots during the four innings the southpaw was in the box, and he left with his team ahead 6 to 2, having allowed but five hits. The Solons climbed on Perrine, Orville's successor, for four runs in the fifth to tie the score. Lefty Leffler held Salem safe in the sixth.

Schwab also pounded out a tome run in the second inning. ofting the ball to the general park. Kitchen got a two bagger and a three bagger for the junlors and chalked up a third hit when he bounced one off Schnelle's shins. To complete the tabulation of Silverton's slugging, Hibbard got a three bagger and Craig a double,

Except for a little stuttering with the ball when unexpected plays came up, the juniors might have won. The Senators filled the bases in the first inning and Olinger scored on an error. The next run, in the third, was earned on a sacrifice fly by Messenger. In the fifth Adams came up with the bases loaded and drove in three runs with a single. Messenger coming all the way around from first when Sullivan and Rudehouser collided and the plate was left unguarded. Adams came in from third with the tying run when Hogan tripled. The score: AB R H PO A E Kitchen 3b 4 2 3 0

A suggestion in which John J. McGraw is said to concur, that the pitching distance be reduced to aid the pitchers in curbing heavy batting, may not find universal favor with the pitchers.

Cutting down the pitching distance beyond question would aid danger of being struck by a batted ball, As it is now the pitchers are throwing and ducking and many do not conceal their fears as they turn balls loose in the direction of the plate. The season of 1930 has developed much wild and woolly batting, but no doubleheader has produced such an orgy of pinch hit home runs as one between the Cardinals of St. Louis and the Robins of Brooklyn. Four out of five pinch hitters had home runs in their bats. One of the circuit cracks won the first game. In the second contest the only home run by a pinch hitter was the first major league hit for the batsman.

Then came the ninth. With the Robins trailing by two runs,

Harvey (Gink) Hendrick was sent in to bat for Mickey Finn, the infielder. Hendrick was a power with the wood a year ago but this season has been only a shadow of his former batting self. However, he had at least one good fight left as he drove the ball over the wall and won the game then and there. Hal Lee, young outfielder, who has appeared briefly at bat during the season, but had never before hit a ball safely drove out a home run as a pinch hitter in two singles and an error producthe second game. It was only a gesture-as the Robins went on from there to a crushing defeat, but at least young Lee now is in the league.

Home runs by pinch hitters have not been infrequent in the major leagues, but four in one afternoon in the same park is a bit out of the ordinary.

Ham Hyatt, Pittsburgh star emergency batsman of a decade ago, Cy Williams of the Phillies and Pat Crawford, now of the Reds. but formerly first string Giant pinch hitter, have cracked out three home runs in a season while hitting in a pinch. Both Sentiment urges us to enthuse over the marvelous pitching of Orville Schwab when he held the Senators to five hits Friday afternoon and retired from the box with his team four runs ahead. It was marvelous enough and such a yarn might get by; but stern truth prevails as a guiding instinct and we must relate that had Orville been a better pitcher he might not have fared so well.

In other words the senior players were all tied up because they were used to faster pitch-Their numerous foul caused by swinging too proved that. Whether Lefty could have kept them ed for nine innings is a question that will never be solved. Chances are pretty strong that if he'd stayed in the six innings, Silverton would have gone home a winner.

But how those kids did swat the ball! Schwab's hit was one of the longest ever made in the park, and Kitchen and Hibbard hit them far enough.

Dwight Adams, filling in for the Senators at second, made the flashiest play of the season on a hard hit ball back of the bag. -0-

Our Senators go down to Coquille this week end to play the Coquille team, which has been playing independent ball but has already won about 13 of its 16 games, and is claiming consideration for a state championship. Another claimant for the state title is our old home town of Bend, which has just won the second half championship of the Southern Oregon league and is now asserting that Medford, winner of the first half, refuses to engage in a playoff. Bend finally learned its lesson about cutthroat baseball this year. Two years ago, you remember. Bend had a team which was in a class with class B professional ball, at least, in all but the pitching department, yet it had a tough time beating Salem for the Willamette Valley league title because Salem was better fortified with twirling talent.

The team cost Bend a lot of money, because most of the players were guaranteed an income of $300 or so a month and they didn't choose to work very hard at their week day jobs.t just about broke the Apparently forgetting that lesson, Bend started the same way this season, bring in most of the high priced players but forgetting to sign up a good pitcher. It didn't win many games. Luckily for Bend, there wasn't so much loose change sticking around and before long the ball players, fail-ing to see the ghost walk regularly, drifted away.

Then the old home guards armed out under a home guard anager, a couple of good pitchers were imported at about a tenth of the expense— and Bend won the second half,

Oswego is also a claimant for the state title. Bend and Oswego will play tomorrow and the winner will probably burst forth with a challenge to the winner of the Salem-Coquille series.
