To Appeal Case—The Portland-based company has filed notice of appeal to the state supreme court of the case which W. A. Kothoff won against the steel company. The case was heard in the July term of circuit court, when the jury returned a verdict allowing Kothoff damages to the amount of $5,266.50. The circuit court judge recently denied the defendant's motion for reversal of the judgment, and now the losers have appealed to the supreme court. The case was over, yet, sold as reason but which Kothoff alleged came up as plain old common law.

KANZLER AFFIRMED IN ESTATE RULING

Numerous Opinions Handed Down by Supreme Court At Tuesday Session

The state supreme court, in an opinion written by Justice McBride, Tuesday affirmed Judge Jacob Kanzer of the Multnomah county circuit court in a suit involving disposal of the estate left by the late James H. Palmer. The court held that his stepdaughters, Stella, Lois and Webb, and Wagner and Sylvia Anderson are entitled to the property.

The estate amounted to $23,447 and was claimed by Mrs. Margaret Woodcock, a sister of Palmer. Palmer had directed that a will be executed, but he had failed to sign it at the time he committed suicide in April, 1927. He left a note, which read: "Everything for the girls, Stella, Lois and Sylvia."

The opinion was written by Justice McBride, a few days before he was stricken with cerebral thrombosis.

Other opinions handed down by the supreme court Tuesday follow:

Joe C. Lamm vs. Silver Falls Timber company, appellants; appeal from Multnomah county; petition for rehearing denied in full.

To Start Visits—First visitations to rural schools for the new school year will be made today by Mrs. Mary L. Fulkerson, county school superintendent. Mrs. Fulkerson annually makes three rounds to all rural schools in the county.

Changes Made in Board Of Y. W. C. A. at Initial Meeting of new Season

Constitutionality of law is Under Attack; Several Points are Cited

A number of changes in the membership of the executive board of the Salem Y. W. C. A. were made at the first fall meeting, held at the Y. W. yesterday morning with Mrs. C. E. Hamilton, president, in the chair.

Resignations of three members, Dr. Estella Ford Warner, Mrs. W. B. Kirk and Mrs. Rex Sanford, were all formally accepted, and three of the six of the vacancies on the board were filled. The three new members are: Mrs. F. A. Elliott, who will be a member of the finance committee; Mrs. William Gahlerdorf, named to the membership committee; and Mrs. Howard Blake who will serve on the girls' work committee.

Committee reports, all showing development and progress, were given by the following: Mrs. William Gahlerdorf, chairman house committee; Mrs. W. D. Clark, membership chairman; Mrs. F. W. Byrd, health education chairman; Mrs. Milton L. Meyers, nominating committee chairman, and Mrs. Louise Wagstaff, employment secretary. Mrs. Elizabeth Gallagher, general secretary, gave a comprehensive report on the girls' camp conducted this summer, and which was attended by 74 girls and eight workers. The board was especially pleased with this report.

Plans were made to hold the setting up conference, at which the year's program will be discussed and outlined, at Camp Santaly Friday, September 19. Miss Essie Maguire, national town secretary, will be here from San Francisco on that date to help develop the year's activity program. Members of the board and committee members will attend the setting up conference.

INTANGIBLES TAX CASES ARE HEARD

Constitutionality of law is Under Attack; Several Points are Cited

Arguments of attorneys in three cases attacking the constitutionality of the state intangibles tax law were heard by the state supreme court here Tuesday. The lower courts held for the state in all three cases.

One of these cases was filed by Scott Redfield and Berwick B. Wood of Portland. In this case attorneys for the appellants contended that the intangibles tax law was discriminatory and unfair for the reason that it exempted corporations and non-residents from payment of the tax. Attorneys argued that the non-residents were competitors of the residents, and as such, should be compelled to pay their share of the tax.

In another case filed by Frank Kierman of Portland the attorneys argued that the tax was discriminatory between individuals, partnerships and corporations.

State Will Lose If Law Ruled Out

In the third case filed by E. A. Miller it was contended that the intangibles law failed to exclude mortgage indebtedness from assessment, notwithstanding that the Oregon laws specifically exempt such indebtedness from taxation.

In case the supreme court holds the state intangibles tax law unconstitutional the state will lose approximately $1,000,000 annually in tax revenues.

It also was intimated that in case the court holds against the intangibles law, similar suits will be launched in an effort to have the state excise tax law held unconstitutional. The latter tax will return to the state approximately $750,000 annually.

OREGON PRODUCTS FIND DULLE MARKET

Peaches Advance as end of Shipping Season Near Over Northwest

PORTLAND, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Wholesale butter and eggs continued on a steady price trend today with both getting fair demand. Considerable butter was moving into trade from storage. Fruit and vegetable movements were reported by the U. S. D. A. market news service as follows:

Peaches advanced with the approaching end of the shipping season at most northwestern districts. Elberta advanced 10 to 15c per box to $1.00-1.10. Green corn, watermelons, and Yakima cantaloupes all declined. Carol shipments of Dillard cantaloupes, now arriving at Montana points, Minneapolis and eastern market are meeting with immediate popularity, and are selling at a very considerable premium over competitive local and Colorado offerings.

Track sales of Yakima potatoes, to Portland jobbers, showed strength today. Rather light receipts of Yakimas are expected during the current week.

Three of Oregon's important crops now moving extensively in carlots are meeting with very dull market conditions in the east. These are fresh prunes, celery, and Bartlett pears. Sales of Bartlett to canners have proved generally more profitable than have auction or eastern delivered sales. Sales of D'Anjou, although low compared with recent years, are much more satisfactory than the Bartlett deal.

PRUNE PICKING TO START THIS WEEK

Prune picking is scheduled to start in the Salem territory this week. Sunnyside and the Cloverdale district near Turner have reported the work underway and the crop good.

Prices have so far been discouraging to the growers. The best offer so far reported is five cents per pound. The market is considered very poor but there is much talk of an improvement within 60 days.

Rigid enforcement of government regulation in regard to the preparation of dried prunes for market will increase the cost to growers in some cases.

Rose Released After Arrest

RAFFETY'S REPLY TO HOSS IS BRIEF

T. A. Raffety, deposed chief state traffic officer, in a statement issued here Tuesday in reply to a lengthy statement by Hal E. Hoss, secretary of state, said: "On three or four occasions, the last appearing in the press of Sunday, September 7, the secretary of state was quoted as follows: 'Chief Raffety deserves a lot of credit for his past years' work in the state traffic division. He has given nearly 10 years of loyal and efficient service to the state of Oregon.'"

"With this one honest admission by the secretary of state, I leave my case with the motoring public and those who know me as a laborer and citizen. Probation Est."

Hoss, in a statement issued last Saturday, alleged that he had affidavits in his possession that Raffety had attempted to "frame" a subordinate officer in the hope that he would be discharged. Other alleged irregularities also were charged by Hoss in connection with Raffety's conduct of his office.

Raffety has accepted a position with the state tax commission and will enter upon his new duties October 1.

PEE-WEE GOLF TO BE FAIR FEATURE

"From 'pee-wee golf' to horse racing" probably will be the new version of the ultimate in contrasts during the Oregon State fair here September 22 to 28.

Construction of the miniature links was begun Tuesday, and it is possible that two or more trick-shot devices also will be included in the enlarged entertainment program, according to Mrs. Ella S. Wilson, secretary of the state fair board.

"Our lease has promised an excellent re-production of a regulation 18-hole course, which will be open to all visitors both day and night," Mrs. Wilson stated.

Other amusement features also are under construction on the fairgrounds, it is announced, with the early start assuring completion of all work before the initial day of the exposition.
