

HOME BREWING IMMUNE, RULED

Safe From Federal Forces' Activities, Declares Prohibition Head

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Wine and beer making in the home for consumption was declared immune from federal interference today by prohibition director Amos W. W. Woodcock.

The national enforcement agencies, he said, can intervene only when evidence of a sale has been obtained, as without such evidence no search warrant for a private home can be issued.

Under the law, he explained, the home brewer is liable to punishment if his product is "intoxicating in fact," a point for settlement by a jury, but in any event, he is beyond the reach of the federal authorities unless a commercial feature is involved.

Woodcock returned today from an inspection tour of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware and planned to leave tonight for a similar survey in Tennessee.

These inspection trips, which are planned to include every state in the union, are confined to a survey of conditions within the enforcement cooperation with local authorities and are not intended to include any investigation of actual liquor conditions.

Woodcock reported the situation excellent in Pennsylvania and New Jersey, but poor in Delaware as that state until a few days ago had been without a deputy administrator for about a month. He expected an early improvement there.

The state and local authorities of Pennsylvania, particularly the state constabulary and the Philadelphia police, highly praised by the director, in Philadelphia, he said, the city police have closed about 2,000 open saloons, with but 14 remaining in operation as evidence of violations could not be obtained against them. They are being closely watched.

PROHIBITION DEALT MORE HARD BLOWS

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Adoption of a platform favoring repeal of the 18th amendment, the Volstead Act and the state prohibition act, and generous and abundant expressions of party unity for the coming campaign here were outstanding developments of the Massachusetts democratic party convention here today.

The only discussion of the platform on the convention floor dealt with the prohibition plank. Brief remarks of protest against that plank were offered by Whitfield Tuck at the 18th amendment and the Volstead act, the plank asserted:

"We, therefore, to preserve our dual sovereignties, and to end the appalling orgy of crime and corruption, favor the repeal of the 18th amendment and the Volstead act, and the restoration to each state of the authority to deal with the liquor problem in accordance with the mandate of its citizens."

Pending the repeal of the prohibition law a redefining of Congress of the 18th amendment, so as to permit each state constitutionally to exercise jurisdiction within its borders and the simultaneous enactment of a law prohibiting return of the saloon was asked.

day, had premeditated his act after obtaining a false passport and residing in Belgium under an assumed name.

The defense has held De Rosa's crime a political deed of an emotional and patriotic youth, aimed at Fascism as symbolized by a son of Italy's king. Witnesses had charged King Victor Emmanuel with having violated his constitutional oath in adhering to Fascism, contrasting him with "the champion of honor" King Albert. The prosecution encountered this by pointing to the intermarriage of the royal families.

BIG HAVANA BANK CLOSES ITS DOORS

HAVANA, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The Bank of Commerce, a $4,000,000 institution, closed its doors today "for readjustment" and despite announcement that it would reopen Monday, indications tonight were it would be unable to do so.

Government aid to enable the bank to resume business promptly had been anticipated but at yet no word has come from the president to indicate he will authorize such assistance.

Carlos Miguel de Cespedes, secretary of public works, and one of the more important depositors at the Bank of Commerce, said he felt certain President Machado would return here some time tonight or early tomorrow to investigate the situation.

Reassured by this, a number of the largest depositors, including leaders in the sugar and tobacco industries, prominent merchants and real estate men, called a conference and issued a statement expressing their confidence in the bank and its officers.

A series of conferences with some of the larger depositors was held this afternoon.

STOCKS CONTINUE DOWNWARD TREND

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The momentum gained on a nearly three weeks of declining prices carried the stock market lower today and notwithstanding late covering the 90-share average broke just under the June 24 low of 154. At the close this composite stood at 153.2, while both the industrial and railroad averages had punctured their old minimums. The utilities held only one-tenth of a point above the group's bottom level of 204.7.

U. S. steel eased off to a new low for the movement at 157 1/2, but its range was narrow and its net loss was only 1-8. American Telephone likewise broke through its previous resistance point temporarily, yet it recovered all but 5-8 of its loss. General Motors reduced a loss of more than a point to 1/2, while American Can showed a net advance of 1 3-8.

Standard Oil of New Jersey was particularly heavy, in common with the other petroleum shares, and lost 1 1/2 net. Standard of California, after touching a new low, rallied briskly for a gain of nearly two points.

NEW TAXATION BILL DRAFTING STARTED

Payment in Four Quarterly Installments Favored By Realty Board

The state tax commission Saturday entered upon the task of drafting the Portland realty board bill, which would permit taxpayers to pay taxes in four quarterly installments, instead of in two installments as is now required by law. Under the proposed amendment, the date of tax receipt will be changed so that taxes will be paid in the same year they are assessed, instead of a year later, as at present.

This reform has been advocated by the Portland realty board under the leadership of Henry G. Reed of Portland, ex-Multnomah county assessor. The purpose of the proposed measure is to lighten the tax burden on real estate. Other features of the bill now being considered are a possible rebate of two per cent for payment of the entire tax instead of first quarter, and speeding up the collection of taxes generally.

Companion Bill Also Considered
In order to make the time of payment of taxes coincide with the fiscal needs of counties, cities, school districts and the state government and allow payment on a cash rather than a warrant basis, as at present, the commission is considering a bill changing the fiscal year to conform to that of the federal government and other states as a companion bill.

As soon as these bills are drafted, they will be taken up and a series of conferences held with the Portland realty board, the state association, assessors, county judges and all others affected. It is proposed to have the final drafts of the bills completed before the legislature convenes in January.

DATA ON DEFENSES SENT RUSSIA, WORD

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Basil W. Delgass, resigned vice president of the Amtorg Trading corporation, told the Hamilton Fish congressional committee today code communications concerning the army and navy defenses of the United States had passed between Amtorg and the Soviet government.

This statement was not probed further by the committee, which is conducting a nation-wide investigation into communist activities. It was given in response to interrogation as to whether messages between the Russian agency and Moscow contained anything of a political nature.

Delgass in further testimony accused Peter A. Bogdanov, chairman of the board of Amtorg, and other officials of perjury themselves in previous appearances before the committee. He said prior to the hearings all Amtorg employees were instructed to say that there were no communists connected with the agency, he testified, and that Amtorg was not involved in communist activities.

Delgass charged that the office of business manager of Amtorg was a political job and that all its incumbents have been closely allied with the OGPU, the Soviet secret police.

GLASSES RELIEVE EYE STRAIN

Because glasses were first used to improve defective vision, many people have fallen into the error of thinking that eyeglasses or spectacles should be employed only in cases of impaired eyesight.

True, there was a time when nine out of ten people who wore glasses did so merely to "see better," but such is not the case today. It is now clearly evident that countless individuals who possess better than average visual acuity, are suffering from eye-strain without knowing it. It also has been proven time and again that correct glasses relieve eye-strain which so often is the underlying cause of headache, irritability, and nervous fatigue.

How obvious is the reason for this! The normal eye was designed by nature to view objects, practically without effort, at a distance of 40 feet or more. But today most work requires steady concentration of the eyes on objects less than arm's length away. What is the result? EYE-STRAIN—frequently continued to the point where it becomes a serious menace to health.

The growing pain in the back of the head, the weariness that overtakes you before a day's work is half completed, are simply the protests of eye muscles which have become exhausted by a persistent effort to adjust themselves to exacting close-up tasks.

That is why an increasing number of people wear glasses today—not actually to see better, for they saw well enough before, but to relieve eye-strain and its attendant ills. The more work the eyes do and the closer the work, the greater the need for lenses which will lighten the load and enable the eyes to function with least effort.

The pity of it all is that there are thousands who do not know that they need glasses. Having no standard to judge by except their own eyes, they think they see well enough and let it go at that without ever stopping to realize that headaches and a general let-down in physical health are often directly traceable to eye-strain which is stealing nervous energy from every other organ of the body.

These facts emphasize the vital importance of consulting an Optometrist regularly. You may not need glasses. But only through an eyesight examination can the first sign of eye fatigue be detected and proper measures for relief be taken.
