

HOOVER PLANS SPEAKING TOUR

President Will Attend big Series Game Today, go On to Cleveland

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(AP)—President Hoover leaves tomorrow to discuss in four major addresses problems facing the country.

Before inaugurating his speaking program Thursday at Cleveland however, he is to take a holiday and see the opening game of the world series tomorrow at Philadelphia. He will leave immediately afterward for Ohio.

The next seven days will take him into three sections of the nation—the midwest, the east and the south, giving him the fullest opportunity for intensive discussion of the questions of his office he has had since entering the White House.

More than 50 persons will board the special train with the chief executive when he departs tomorrow just in time to reach Philadelphia before the game starts. Four members of his cabinet, Secretaries Hurley, Hyde, Wilbur and Davis, will see the game with the returning afterwards with Walter Hope, assistant secretary of treasury, and Lawrence Richey, one of the president's secretaries, who also will go only as far as Philadelphia.

Government Aides Will Accompany

Postmaster General Brown, David S. Ingalls, of Cleveland, assistant secretary of the navy for aeronautics; George Akerson, another member of the White House secretariat; Colonel Campbell B. Hodges, military aide to the president; Captain Russell Train, naval aide; and Captain Joel T. Boone, the White House physician, will continue with the party to Cleveland.

At the ball game, Mr. Hoover also will have as his guests Jeremiah Milbank, of New York, eastern treasurer of the republican national committee in 1928; Daniel E. Pomeroy, vice chairman of the republican national committee and national chairman for New Jersey; and Jay Cooke, a Philadelphia banker, who entertained the president last spring at his hunting lodge near Williamsport.

Leaving shortly after the game, the president will arrive in Cleveland Thursday forenoon and after a four mile parade through the city will be the guests of the bankers and local business men at luncheon. The address is to be delivered in the Cleveland auditorium at 8:30 o'clock E. S. T.

LORD BIRKENHEAD PNEUMONIA VICTIM

LONDON, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Earl of Birkenhead, great lawyer, brilliant politician and one of the most romantic and colorful figures in British public life, died from pneumonia today at the age of 58.

The announcement by his physician said: "The Earl of Birkenhead passed peacefully away at a quarter past eleven this morning. There had been a further increase in the pneumonic infection and the heart muscles, feeling the effect of this, dilated and failed."

Lord Birkenhead had been ill for some time and grave alarm was felt yesterday when it was announced he was suffering from a recurrence of the lung trouble which troubled him in the summer.

Sympathy Told By Official England

King George and almost all the prominent figures in Great Britain today sent messages of sympathy to the bereaved family or otherwise paid tribute to the man who at the early age of 47 became Lord High Chancellor of England, and even statesmen who experienced the full bitterness of his political opposition testified to their warm affection for him as a personal friend.

To the man in the street, who is disposed to think of "Frederick Edwin Smith," or of "F. E.," rather than the Earl of Birkenhead, it seems as if the world will be more drab for his passing.

"The Smith of my own fortunes," is the translation of the Latin motto he adopted when raised to the peerage, and Birkenhead's career will long be held an example of what brilliant intellect and hard work will do with a man who started with no advantages.

STOCK QUOTATIONS PLUNGE DOWNWARD

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Share prices on the New York stock and curb exchanges plunged for the sixth consecutive trading session today, as the decline gained fresh impetus from the first failure of a prominent Wall Street investment house since the great bull market came to grief a year ago.

Not in recent stock exchange history has the market closed lower for so many consecutive days. During the terrific crash of last November, the market closed persistently lower on no more than four consecutive days, although compared to that crash the current decline has been a mere flop.

During the middle of the afternoon, President Whitney of the stock exchange mounted the rostrum and announced that J. A. Sisto and company had been suspended for insolvency. The firm was later suspended by the New York curb and Philadelphia stock exchanges. The New York stock exchange has had four finan-

AS EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS OPENED AT OMAHA

In the presence of this huge gathering which filled every available nook of the spacious coliseum of Omaha, Neb., the Sixth National Eucharistic Congress of the Roman Catholic Church in the United States was opened. High prelates from all parts of the country are on hand, and a special rep-casualties among its members since the crash of last autumn, and the first three were regarded as of minor importance. In the past five years, there have been only seven failures.

Earlier in the session, what appeared to be powerful support had been thrown into the market, and many traders felt one of the sharp automatic upturns such as normally punctuate protracted declines, was in the making. For a time around midday, a few shares showed net gains of $1 to $3 a share. These were soon lost, however, and a hectic flurry of selling accompanied the Sisto announcement. The market made partial recovery, however, before the closing gong.

INSANITY BLAMED FOR CREECY'S ACT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(AP)—A motive of insanity was attached today to the hatchet and gun tragedy in the Marlborough hotel Sunday in which Lieutenant Colonel Richard B. Creecy of the marines slashed his wife and ended his own life.

Mrs. Creecy still clung to life tonight. Doctors at emergency hospital said she was "no better" and had not regained consciousness since Sunday. Blood transfusions and operations to remove bone pressed against her brain caused by the hatchet blows have been resorted to in efforts to save her life.

Evidence leading officials to believe Col. Creecy was insane when, as police concluded, he struck down his wife before committing suicide with a revolver, was presented today to the marine board of inquest appointed by Secretary Adams to investigate the case.

Colonel Louis M. Little, chairman of the board, said a physician who had treated the officer for many years had offered testimony which led to the conclusion that various complaints suffered by Creecy had culminated in a loss of reason.

JUSTICE KELLY BEGINS DUTIES

Work of Court is Light in Last Week of Month; Two Opinions

Justice Percy R. Kelly, the new member of the state supreme court, made his first appearance on the bench this morning when he sat in with the court on its regular Tuesday morning session.

Only two opinions were handed down today by the court most of whose members spent the week in Pendleton attending the annual convention of the state bar association.

In the case of John W. White, executor of the last will and testament of Dorothy S. Jackson, deceased, against Alice Jenette Strowbridge, appellant, the court affirmed the decree of Judge Robert Tucker of the Multnomah county circuit court. The opinion was written by Justice Rand.

The case involved the right of the personal representative of Dorothy Jackson, deceased, to collect monthly payments bequeathed to the granddaughter by the late Justus M. Strowbridge of Portland. This right was upheld in the opinion of the court today.

In Appellate Case

In the case of Arthur Pfaffinger against P. H. and Irma Seely, on appeal from a decree of Judge Kelly of the Marion county circuit court, the decree of the lower court awarding Pfaffinger $4000 damages is affirmed in an opinion written by Chief Justice Coshow.

Pfaffinger's suit grew out of injuries which he received when his motorcycle crashed into a wagon load of hops owned by the Seely's on the Woodburn-Silverton highway.

Petitions for Rehearings in State vs. Gold and in State vs. Anderson were denied by the court.

Stipulation for dismissal of the case of Thrane vs. Trask Timber company was allowed.

Motion to recall mandate with third petition for rehearing in Paget vs. Peters was denied.

Motion to affirm in Rorvik vs. Astoria Box & Paper company was denied.

NOBLE SCHOOL BEGINS

SCOTTS MILLS, Sept. 30.—Noble school began Monday morning with Miss Grace Dunagan as teacher. The school only has eight pupils this year.

PAYMENT IS MADE UPON STATE BONDS

State Treasurer Kay Tuesday forwarded a check for $2,200,053.91 to the state's fiscal agency in New York City with which to cover principal and interest payments on highway and soldiers' bonus bonds. Of the total amount $937,500 represents principal and $690,800 interest on state highway bonds and $591,753.73 represents interest due on soldiers' bonus bonds.

This payment reduced the outstanding highway bonded indebtedness to $28,966,750 from a high peak of $38,700,000.

This is the peak year for principal payments on the state's highway bonds. Including the current payment a total of $1,925,000 in highway bonds have been paid off during the year, with another $1,418,314.70 sent east to cover interest payments on highway bonds.

Like Soup . . . Like Salad, Like Dessert

The Features of a Daily Paper!

No longer are dull helpings of meat and potatoes the sole resource of the American cook. There's verve in a 1930 diet. From "soup to nuts" means that fluffy salads, and tasty cocktails, and tempting side-dishes grace the well-planned meal of today. So with the newspaper, the main dish of news is pleasantly flanked with a wide variety of features . . . reader-interest concoctions to add zest to the daily consumption of your favorite newspaper. The Statesman prides itself on being a complete newspaper. Just as it considers its full wire news service imperative and its local coverage of news a service extraordinary, so too it adds comics, cartoons, pictures, women's interest articles, sports cartoons . . . a wide variety of Features to round out its daily appeal to the reader.

TWO YEARS AGO The Statesman, setting a 10-page newspaper for its daily minimum, added a score of features to its daily menu. So fixed reader interests in these features become that they are now taken for granted but daily they are looked forward to with the same zest that Mr. Average Citizen asks and answers the well-known query, "What's New?"

Features of the Statesman Appeal to a Wide Group of Human Interests . . . . .

"SERIAL STORIES" are essential in any modern newspaper. The Statesman buys and prints leading stories taken from outstanding authors.

"YESTERDAYS" is a daily treatment of what happened in Salem 20 years ago; and it is as well read as "A PROBLEM A DAY" which is another editorial page feature of note.

"HEALTH" is a universally interesting topic. How to keep well—how to recover from illness; the problems of the child and the worries of the adult; these are adequately handled each day by Dr. Royal Copeland, eminent New York senator and doctor of national repute. Soon The Statesman plans an augmented daily health service, announcement of which will be made shortly.

R. J. Hendricks

"PATTERNS and "BEAUTY NOTES" for women, on the society page; a complete daily "MARKET REPORT,"

"SPORTS FEATURES" and "CROSS WORD PUZZLES" are only a few of the many other features daily used by The Statesman.

"BITS FOR BREAKFAST" has been a Statesman feature for years. R. J. Hendricks, long-time publisher, wrote a short column of "squibs" for years and now that he has more time he is writing at least a column regularly and is dealing principally with historical subjects. Statesman readers appreciate "Bits for Breakfast."
