'That Horrid Car!' Said Topsy, the pup, And Then Fainted

WEST SALEM, Oct. 7.—Topsy N., a Boston terrier, who makes her home at the west end of the inter-county bridge, narrowly escaped losing her life recently in a traffic accident.

Topsy, who is old enough to know better disputed the right of way with a speeding motorist and as might have been expected, the pedestrian got the worst of the encounter.

Her mistress ran out and retrieved the apparently lifeless body of the little dog. Finding no wounds or broken bones she decided that Topsy had only fainted and after repeatedly dashing water in her face the victim regained consciousness. She was rushed to Dr. W. G. Moorehouse's veterinary hospital on South Commercial street where she received professional treatment.

She is now at home where she is still suffering from shock and seems unable to travel in a straight line, but is improving as rapidly as could be expected. Her facial expression however indicates that she has lost all faith in human nature.
