

STORMS BRING EARLY WINTER TO NORTHWEST

Snow 20 Inches Deep Stops Traffic in Snoqualmie Pass Region, Word

Cascade Gateways Blocked Month Earlier Than Usual; Crops hit

SEATTLE, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Winter laid down his first barrage in the Cascades today, blew a frosty breath at the coast regions of the Pacific northwest and laid plans for an offensive almost a month earlier than usual.

With 20 inches of snow in Snoqualmie pass, chief gateway between eastern and western Washington, reported late today, the storm was still raging. No motorists were reported in danger although more than 100 automobiles, most of them without chains, were stuck in the snow at times last night. All the wrecking cars in Ellensburg and Cle Elum were called out to free them. Western Washington bird hunters who ventured forth early yesterday in high hope of good autumn sport were forced to flee to the valley towns before the onslaught.

Apple Picking Is Halted by Snow
In Stevens pass, another Cascade gateway, farther north from Snoqualmie, eight inches of snow fell last night. Orchardists in the higher levels of the foothills were forced to call a halt to apple picking yesterday because of light snow.

The Seattle weather bureau forecast frost tonight in this section of western Washington, caused by a cool wave from the Yukon valley. Transcontinental trains arriving in Seattle were mangled in snow.

While Milwaukee road officials reported no delay in train movements their lines were forced down last night at Hyak. Telephone lines between Ellensburg and Easton were also down.

WALLACE, Idaho, Oct. 15.—(AP)—A blizzard-like snowstorm which tied up traffic at Wallace and blanketed Lookout Summit, east of here, a foot deep, introduced the Coeur d'Alene mining region to winter today.

Four and a half inches of snow fell here, and slippery pavements caused many automobile accidents. Eight inches fell at a power station above Burke, four inches at Mullan and a quarter of an inch at Burke.

LABOR LEADERS SEEK WAYS TO PROVIDE WORK

Unemployment Relief Plan Launched at Meeting; Ask Federal Aid

Attention of Nation Called To Crisis; Widespread Movement Provided

BOSTON, Oct. 15.—(AP)—A comprehensive plan of unemployment relief action which embraced provisions for the cooperative participation of public and private groups to be headed by President Hoover was adopted here today by the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor.

The convention referred to the federation executive council, the entire unemployment insurance problem as embodied in a group of resolutions dealing with the subject. The resolutions committee which recommended such action clearly indicated its objection to existing methods of alleviating unemployment in this manner.

The unemployment relief program provided for the appointment of committees by President Hoover, governors of all states, mayors and other similar officers of cities and towns and by the state and local labor bodies. These committees, working with the assistance of federal and state government departments would initiate recommendations in their respective localities to provide means of minimizing unemployment. The procedure would be carried to the territories of Alaska, Hawaii and Porto Rico and Canada by the unions.

The executive council was instructed to start the federal movement.

NATION'S RAINFALL IS BELOW NORMAL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The most prolonged and widespread drought in the history of the nation's weather records was credited today by J. B. Kincer, agricultural department meteorologist, with having reduced the average rainfall of the country to 87 per cent of normal between January and September.

Prompted by the continued severity of the drought in middle North and New England states, the meteorologist computed the average rainfall to date this year and for the growing seasons.

During the growing season from March to August, average rainfall amounted to 81 per cent of normal and during the important crop months of July and August, 70 per cent.

While conditions in the drought areas between the Rocky and the Appalachian mountains continued to improve generally, Kincer reported that in the middle Atlantic area, especially in the Virginia and Maryland "the drought continues unabated, with springs and streams showing further decline and the water situation serious in many localities."

FORT SCOTT, Kans., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Under Sheriff Melvin C. Hamilton and George Mangus, convicted bank robber, were shot to death today when Mangus and Alvin Payton, another bank robber, attempted to escape from a motorcar in which they were en route with three Labette county officers to the Kansas penitentiary at Lansing.

Alfred C. Coad, sheriff of Labette county, was recovering in a hospital here from a gunshot wound through the head, inflicted by Mangus with a pistol the robbers had secreted in jail as Oswego. The shooting occurred about five miles south of here.

Riding in the rear seat with Roy McClain, a special deputy sheriff, Mangus suddenly drew a pistol from his hip pocket and fired two shots point blank at Hamilton. In the front seat, Hamilton must have been struck by two bullet wounds in the head.

Crash of car in Climax of Affray
Mangus then wounded the sheriff who was driving.

Meanwhile, McClain said, Payton pinioned his arms. The sheriff (Turn to page 2, col. 8)

Privilege Believed Denied To Rebels Although no Indication Given

KIDNAP SUSPECT IS SURROUNDED, WORD

GREENFIELD, Mo., Oct. 15.—(AP)—A man believed to be the abductor of Mrs. Lama Wilson McKinley, daughter of a wealthy oil man, was surrounded late today in a thicket near Filer, Idaho, by a posse which sent out a call for additional men before closing in.

The trail of the man was picked up near Eldorado, Mo., today by bloodhounds at the place where the girl was held prisoner for nearly a day. She was released late yesterday after promising to bring the man $10,000 and not reveal where she had been held.

The posse this afternoon found a small grip near the place containing a suit of clothes which would fit the man described by Mrs. McKinley as her abductor.

The ashes of the paper on which a demand for $30,000 ransom money had been written and later burned, were also found. The posse, divided into several sections, stopped and searched every car they saw today. This morning they caught two bands of bootleggers with liquor in cars.

Mrs. McKinley, an expectant mother, was exhausted after the ordeal in which she had gone without food or sleep.

Financial Problems Faced in Brazil as Warfare Continues

Government Claiming More Victories in Three Districts

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 15.—(AP)—With rebels being driven back on three fronts and mobilization of federal resources continuing, the Brazilian government today left the rebellion to the soldiers while it drafted a plan to keep the country's finances from hand pending the outcome of the revolution.

A bill presented before the chamber of deputies provides that at the end of the present enforced banking holiday, which expires on October 21, only the Bank of Brazil will be permitted to make any exchange transactions. The government also would be given power to restrict the outflow of capital.

There was little news of actual fighting from the war sectors today. The government asserted it was steadily pushing the revolution back in three areas—the Sao Paulo-Parana front, which extends for 200 miles; in almost the entire state of Minas Geraes, and in the region around the north of Rio de Janeiro state.

More than a dozen towns each are claimed in the Sao Paulo-Parana and Minas Geraes regions with the rebels falling back and worried by lack of supplies. At the same time the federal fleet off by the operations north of Rio de Janeiro they have removed the menace to the federal capital, as have the successful engagements below the city of Sao Paulo.

The principal fight above Rio de Janeiro was at Itacora, where the rebels were said to have withdrawn after heavy fighting, leaving three machine guns, 4,800 rounds of ammunition and other arms. The federals claimed the victories in the same region.

ARMY FLIER LOST IN MOUNTAIN AREA

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Adverse flying conditions tonight prevented a search for William Caldwell, army flier, who is believed down in the mountainous country 20 miles west of Laramie.

Lieutenant Caldwell was accompanying Lieut. Irvin A. Woodring, carrying the document attesting Japan's ratification of the naval treaty, from Victoria, B. C., to New York. The flier separated in a snow storm 20 miles west of Laramie.

Lieut. Woodring made a forced landing northwest of Laramie about 1:30 p. m., today and remained on the ground until a lift in the storm permitted him to continue to Laramie where he landed at 3:10 p. m. Another lull enabled Woodring to fly to Cheyenne in 15 minutes reaching here at 5:30 p. m.

Lieut. Woodring was in possession of the important document and brought it to Cheyenne tonight.

STRIKE CAUSES MOVE HAVOC IN GERMAN CRISIS

Metal Workers out 126,000 Strong in Protest of Political Moves

Loebe Heads Reichstag but Reelection Fails to Calm Disorder

BERLIN, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Confusion was added to an already muddled political situation today when the German Reichstag and Prussian diet held stormy sessions and the metal workers union successfully called 126,000 workers from their jobs.

Paul Loebe was re-elected president by the Reichstag but verbal clashes on the floor preceded and followed the balloting. Hardly had he resumed his chair when the Fascists began obstructive tactics which, if continued in the weeks to come will make parliamentary procedure impossible. President Loebe, who has served nine years in that office, polled a final vote of 229 against 208 for Dr. Ernst Scholz, German peasants party candidate.

Election of Franz Stoehr, nationalist socialist, as first vice president, was the single feature of the Reichstag election which the Fascists could claim as a gain for their party.

The Diet session was tumultuous. The Reichstag and communists engaged in sharp altercations and blocked any real work. Even the proposed vote on non-confidence against the government had to go over until tomorrow when the delegates became hopelessly entangled in a squabble over the government's refusal to lift prohibition of the wearing of communists and Fascist uniforms.

The strike of the metal workers was linked with the political situation in its economic significance. The walkout grew out of the refusal of the workers to accept wage cuts ordered by the government as a part of its new economic construction policy.

Apparently nobody today for the moment knew what to do next. The Reichstag's council of elders is attempting to get adjournment of the house for several days. Right after the government's declaration is read tomorrow afternoon by Chancellor Brüning.

There were no disorders in Berlin today other than the disturbances within the two houses of government. Heavy police guards were maintained at strategic points and tonight patrols were established so that the authorities might not again be taken by surprise as they were in the Fascist anti-Jewish riot and communist activities on Monday.

At Dallas, Texas, two other planes took off in opposite directions, one from Los Angeles and the other for Atlanta. Each carried mail and passengers.

Dallas lying midway between Atlanta and Los Angeles, will serve as an overnight stop for both east and west bound planes until a portion of the route between Dallas and Los Angeles can be lighted for night flying.
