No Experiment, Statement Of Ray J. Glatt Anent Agriculturist

Ray J. Glatt, secretary-manager of the Woodburn Fruit Growers' Cooperative association, one of the most successful organizations of its kind in Oregon, is heartily in favor of county agent for Marion county. In a statement made this week, Glatt said:

"The work of a county agent is not an experiment. I am thoroughly convinced that Washington, Yamhill, Polk and Clackamas counties are receiving large dividends from the money that they have invested in county agents. I have observed the activities of these agents for the past three years. I know that these agents are performing a valuable service to the farmers of these counties.

"Experimental research is continually developing a more scientific agriculture. A successful farmer must keep abreast with these latest proven developments in order to meet competition. It is the office of a county agent that makes this information readily available to all the farmers of a county. His office is a clearing house of information for the farmers' problems.

"I believe that Marion county should have a county agent and an assistant. A county as large as this with the great diversity of agriculture can well afford this added cost. A county agent is not a cost to the taxpayer, but an investment that will pay dividends."

QUEEN'S HUSBAND GREETED BY CROWD

Williamette university produced "The Queen's Husband" Saturday night in the high school auditorium before a generous "homecoming" audience. The play came as one of the concluding events in a busy "homecoming" week.

The scintillating lines of this comedy drew many laughs from the crowd. The line concerning the advice from the king to the queen instructing her majesty to be sure to take toothbrushes on a contemplated journey brought an especially generous laugh. Wesley Gordon carried the role of king and his advice was directed toward Queen Faye Cornutt.

Announcement was made between acts that the Sigma Tau fraternity had won the silver cup given annually for college service and that the Alpha Phi Alpha sorority had been awarded the silver cup for like service on the part of women's organizations.

Albie Booth Hurt but Eli Ties Cadets

By ALAN GOULD
YALE BOWL, New Haven, Conn., Oct. 25.—(AP)—They carried little Albie Booth off the field on a stretcher today and most of Yale's hopes along with him, but the Eli survived this stunning break with sufficient defensive courage to hold the high-powered Army team to a 7-7 tie in a rain-soaked battle before close to 72,000 spectators. Booth appeared in only one play but it was the dramatic sensation of the entire game, otherwise confined largely to a kicking and defensive tussle in the mud. Entering the fray late in the second period, with Yale leading 7-0 by virtue of a first quarter "break" and as Army was counter-charging, Albie carried the spectacular Eli quarterback lay stretched out on the field, where he had been held down hard after a short run by the charge of a trio of Army tackles. Albie was stopped on his own seven-yard line.

Examination of Booth revealed he was injured about the head as well as one leg by the effects of being tackled but the injuries, while sufficient to end his activities for the afternoon, were not serious. Still somewhat in a daze as a result of this misfortune, the Eli's were unable to stop the next Army charge to the goal line.

New Idea Tried In Program for W. U. Grid Game

Graduate manager Leslie Sparks, of Williamette university, tried a new idea this year in reference to the annual homecoming program. The sales receipts for the book were relied upon entirely to cover the expense, no advertising being solicited. Many interesting things about Williamette university and several messages are printed in the book from prominent personages in connection with the school. The souvenir program, which went on sale Friday and continued being sold all day Saturday, contains information dealing with the salient facts of the game, yesterday, plus the regular homecoming program. These facts relate to the strength of the two teams and coaches, pictures of the teams, managers and coaches. The programs, which contain approximately 40 pages, was edited by Ralph Schomp.

from intangibles. The present act is a tax on gross incomes. It also was pointed out by Carkin that the opinion virtually holds that the special tax law is unconstitutional. This is a five per cent tax on the earnings of corporations. The intangibles tax that was declared unconstitutional was a tax of five per cent upon the income from money, bonds, notes, claims and demands, secured or unsecured, and from all shares of stock in corporations and any and all other evidences of indebtedness. An exemption of $200, to be deducted from the amount of the income, was allowed.

MEALS ALWAYS ON TIME SAYS BOSLEY

58th Wedding Anniversary Of Monmouth Couple is Celebrated

MONMOUTH, Oct. 25.—Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Bosley of Monmouth observed their fifty-eighth wedding anniversary Wednesday in an informal family reception held at the country home of a granddaughter, Mrs. Charles Bowman.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Eggleston of Monmouth, Mr. and Mrs. George McCormick of Peedee, Mr. and Mrs. Clay Eggleston of Stayton, Mr. and Mrs. Clara Eggleston, Monmouth, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Petrie, and Wayne, Charles Jr., and Betty Petrie, Monmouth, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bowman and Marion and Ellen Bowman, Mrs. Eggleston and Mr. McCormick are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Bosley. The couple was married at Spiggard, Mo., October 22, 1872, and lived there until 1904 when they moved to Monmouth. Mr. Bosley has been engaged in farming most of his life, retiring from active work about 10 years ago. Mrs. Bosley is a collector of antiques, all of which are characterized by a family significance. Among her unique aggregation is a counterpane made in 1803 by Lucretia Greenwood, an antiques trader of Mr. Bosley, who spun, wove and dyed the cotton, raised on their own plantation, for its hand manufacture. A hand-painted portrait, in color, of the same Lucretia Greenwood, made in the 17th century, is vivid in shades and tints, quite belying the age of the artwork.

One of the most interesting of Mrs. Bosley's assortment of curios is her toy-room, in which she has toys ranging from three quarters of a century ago to modern kewpie and airplanes, all in perfect preservation. She is 55 years old, and has saved objects that were her personal possessions as a small child.

ing the independent candidate. The senator's lack of open support for Metchan has been a matter of comment. While he has been definitely questioned by others than Banks, McNary has kept his tongue in check on the situation in Oregon. Eastern Oregon Strongly G. O. F. Floyd Cook, chairman of the state central committee of the republican committee, said while here Friday that eastern Oregon would give Metchan strong support, and indicated his candidate would have a substantial plurality in that district. Cook said the attack of the republican party in the closing days would center on the enormous sums of money being spent by the independent candidate and his ring of supporters. Sums expended are greatly in excess of those ever used in an Oregon campaign, said Cook, and are an extreme violation of the corrupt practices act. Desultory straw votes have been taken over the state but like the usual newspaper "news" stories, the particular bias of the newspaper or the group which conducted them makes the vote of little value.

For example, a poll of 19 lawyers at the Marion county bar association yesterday showed Metchan and Bailey tied with only one Mohr vote but the most significant republican knows this proportion among the general public is not true. Marion county bankers in a straw vote ten days ago gave a plurality to Metchan. A Medford newspaper, itself supporting Metchan, found that candidate slightly ahead there, but very fairly, told its readers the figures were sketchily and of little value.

HONOR COMMITTEE HEADED BY NELSON

cat guard, who dove across the line to make the point good. The chief reason why Williamette could not advance the ball consistently was Sulkosky, scrapping little Puget Sound guard, who seemed to be everywhere, including first down the field on punts. He took some fearful pounding while stopping the Willamette plays and finally retired after playing several minutes with a broken rib. Puget Sound made three threats, all the result of Williamette errors of judgment. Each time a Puget Sound punt touched a Willamette man and bounded away to be recovered by the visitors. Twice this gave them the ball inside the 15 yard line but Williamette's defense was airtight.

Williamette's stars included all of the line from tackle to tackle and DePoe, Erickson and Lank in the backfield. Richardson, Welckin, Baker and Enoch, the latter a southpaw passer, all showed speed in Puget Sound's backfield but never got away.
