

LAW CALLS FOR 1929 TAX BILL

Change may be Sought as Legislature Meets to Make 1930 Start

The court was dealing with the intangibles as a property tax and was bound by the constitutional provision making property tax uniform. An income tax is a different matter, just as the court painstakingly distinguished the excise or privilege tax from the property tax. So it does not necessarily follow from the intangibles opinion that the same decision would be made on this income tax.

Oppose Special Session

Opposition to calling a special session of the legislature seems to be developing. Governor Norblad brought the matter up believing it necessary in order to cure the intangibles tax law and hold in the treasury the money already received on that account. The new question as to the application of the income tax may result in making more urgent the need for a special session—or it may not, depending on the opinion of the attorney general and the conclusions of the governor and the tax commission.

In some respects the whole situation looks like a mess. That is hardly true, for the cure of the intangibles tax will be simple; and the final adoption of the income tax, unless it is knocked out by the supreme court, will complete the program of tax revision which the legislature enacted after the exhaustive work of the Patterson tax commission.

MYSTERY DEATH IN JAIL PROBED HERE

North Commercial street about 11:30 Wednesday night. Following taking a round or two of drinks, the quartet went to a local restaurant for a meal. Then they returned to the room and took more drinks. The party grew noisy. They were told to quiet down or leave. Mrs. Cannon is said to have by this time become quite intoxicated and fallen, striking her face on a bed. Short states that he left the group about 3:30 a.m., while Pursley, whose father is proprietor of the hotel, went to bed in another room. Mrs. Cannon had left, supposedly to take a taxicab to her home. Mrs. Jones left Mrs. Cannon in the hall and went to her room.
Claims Attack Made in Hotel
Officers found Mrs. Cannon in the corridor of the second floor of a building across the street from the Belview, about 4 o'clock Thursday morning. In a drunken state, she told them she had been beaten up and thrown from the hotel.

She was taken to the city jail and locked up. At 7 o'clock she asked for a cigarette. At nine, when Mrs. Myra Shanks, police matron, went to the cell to give the prisoner her breakfast, she found the woman upright in a chair with a stocking tied around her neck, dead.
Both of Mrs. Cannon's eyes were slightly discolored, according to Coroner Lloyd Rigdon, who took charge of the body. There were no other marks on her which might indicate violence, he stated.
Says Black Eye Given by Wife
Short, when called from bed at his apartment, at 10:30 o'clock, had one black eye and several scratches on his face. These injuries were caused when his wife objected to an automobile ride taken earlier in the evening with Pursley and a girl friend of the latter's, he told officers.
T. B. Pursley, proprietor of the Belview hotel, said all he knew of the affair was that he got up in the night to warn the members of the party to "cut out the noise."
W. B. Pursley lives with his mother, who is proprietor of an apartment house at 348 North 15th street. Short is local manager of the Underwood Typewriter company.

Mrs. Cannon is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Frohmader. She is survived by three brothers, John, Thomas, and Chester, and three sisters, Mrs. Marguerite Helmsman, of Portland, and Helen and Dolly of Salem.
Funeral services are planned for Saturday at 3 p.m. from the chapel of W. T. Rigdon and Son.

King's Kibitzer On Bridge Game; Advises Soldier

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 6.—(AP)—"My dear boy, your clubs are much too weak."
It was the king speaking. The recipient of his bridge advice was a private soldier, who in King Gustav's opinion, had bid clubs with neither length, strength nor supporting side suits in his hand.
The king discovered the tactical error when he came upon four privates playing bridge in the lee of a fort he was inspecting.
There was consternation among the players upon the king's appearance but he dissipated it with his suggestion on bids.

Churches Will Feature Peace Topics Sunday

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Next Sunday will be Armistice Sunday and the churches of the nation will emphasize the progress of the world toward peace.
The commission on international justice and good will of the federal council of the Churches of Christ in America issued an appeal today to all church members to use their influence in strengthening the institutions of peace.

But Bourbons Forge Ahead in House When "Whip" Republican Loses

Tuesday's election gave the republicans a plurality of one and probable control of the organization.
Democrats and republicans were deadlocked in the up and tuck battle for the house. With two districts still doubtful each had 216 members with 218 necessary for a majority.
Representative West of Indiana, republican whip, was leading by three votes in one of these doubtful districts and Representative Yates, republican member at large from Illinois, was just ahead of a democrat in the other.

Schall Winner in Minnesota
It was still possible, for an even division which would leave the balance of power in the house with the lone farmer-labor member, Kvale, of Minnesota.

The lineup in the senate was also so close that it was entirely possible that the lone farmer-labor member, Shipstead of Minnesota, might hold the decision on organization there.
The reelection of Senator Schall, republican, Minnesota, and the defeat of Senator Robinson, republican, Kentucky, by M. M. Logan, democrat, ended the senate contests. The makeup of the next senate stands: Republicans 48; democrats 47; farmer-labor 1.

Tea in Vacuum just like coffee?

It is just as necessary for one as for the other, to prevent the evaporation of the fragrant volatile oils that give them both their flavor. The West discovered how to preserve coffee flavor in vacuum. And the West has found the proper process for tea; but it still remains exclusive to the originator—Schilling. It is literally the only fresh tea you can buy.

Rotarians Urge Continuation of Health Program

Officers of the Salem Rotary club and chairmen of the committees of the organization unanimously endorsed resolutions last night asking the Marion county court, the Salem council and the Salem school board to continue in 1931 appropriations equal to the present expenditures for health work in the county.
The club men lauded the work of the health unit in their resolutions and pointed out its value to the community.
A similar resolution was passed Tuesday by the Kiwanis club of this city.
